U.S. Students Spread Anti-Vietnam Protests

BELATED CORONATION

King of Kings Crowned As Roses Fall on Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Guns boomed and planes bombed Tehran with roses today as the Shah of Iran set a jewelled crown on his head and named himself King of Kings and Light of the Aryans.

It was the longest delayed coronation in history. Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has ruled for 26 years but delayed his coronation until his 48th birthday, after his campaign to modernize Iran was firmly established and after he had an heir.

The shah crowned himself, then rose from the fabled Peacock throne and placed a crown on the head of his kneeling third wife, Empress Farah, 20 years his junior. She was the first woman ever crowned in Iran's 2,513 years as a monarchy.

Calls to prayer echoed from minarets through the land and crowds dropped to their knees shouting "Javid shah!" (Long live the shah!). The coronation was broadcast and televised from the glittering Golestan Palace opposite Tehran's old bazaar.

REVELRY ABOUNDS

Iran, which has been transformed into the fastest developing and most stable in the Middle East by the Shah's revolution, erupted in a fervor of celebrations.

By donning the Pahlevi crown with its 3,755 jewels and the pearl-embroidered coronation cape, the son of a semi-literate Cossack officer named himself heir to Cyrus the Great, the Persian emperor who ruled the civilized world 25 centuries ago before the Roman Empire was born.

The Pahlevi dynasty dates back only to 1926, when the Shah's father—an officer in the Persian Army—led a military coup, seized the throne and crowned himself Reza Shah the Great.

Reza Shah's son came to power in 1941 when Britain and Russian troops occupied the country and deposed the father for allegedly being pro-German. But the son refused to be crowned for more than two decades because "there is no pride in being the king of a poor people" and also because his first two wives did not give him an heir.

Today the six-year-old son of the shah and Empress Farah stood at their side. And throughout the country were new signs of wealth from the royal revolution which has ended Iran's feudal system of landholding and poured much of its oil wealth back into modernization of the country.

BULLET-PROOF COACH

Frantically-shouting crowds lined the 11-mile route along which eight white Hungarian horses pulled the $78,000 blue-and-gold bullet-proof coach in which the shah and his empress rode from their Marble Palace to the Golestan Palace. The crown prince rode behind them in a coach pulled by four black horses.

More than 7,500 soldiers plus police and gendarmes kept the cheering, flag-waving crowd behind barricades along the route through the brightly-decorated capital. Two squadrons of imperial lancers and a battalion of infantry escorted the procession.

Led by the commander of the imperial guards and an escort with swords aloft, the little crown prince looked solemn in a gold encrusted replica of his father's uniform, as he walked through the blazing hall of mirrors to the throne rome.

The coronation chamber, 50 yards long, glittered like a giant diamond beneath five chandeliers of crystal. About 500 diplomats and Iranian dignitaries packed the room on grey-upholstered benches, while a crowd of 5,500 waited in a grandstand in the courtyard of the palace.

Empress Farah followed her son, wearing a Dior gown of white Swiss silk and an emerald necklace. Six ladies-in-waiting walked behind.

Egyptian Oil Fires Controlled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firefighters brought the oil fires in Egypt's Suez refineries under control Wednesday night, 40 hours after Israeli shells set them blazing.

The United Nations Security Council reacted to the artillery duel—which each side accused the other of starting—by condemning all violations of the ceasefire which ended the June Arab-Israeli war. It did not censure Israel as the Russians demanded.

UN Secretary-General U Thant asked the Security Council to increase the number of truce observers to 90 from 43 and requested four patrol boats and four small helicopters for them.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reports the fires under control at the Nasr and Suez refineries, which filled nearly three-fourths of Egypt's domestic petroleum needs. The flames were not expected to be out until some time today.

SHELLING KILLS 16

Egyptian officials reported eight civilians and eight military men were killed in the shelling and 60 civilians and 32 military men wounded.

Al Ahram says 17 storage tanks were set on fire but gave no further details on damage.

Governor Hamid Mahmoud of Suez told visiting correspondents the damage was extensive. He also said some shells hit houses, schools and factories.

Al Ahram also reports that several ships of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean would arrive today at Port Said, at the northern end of the Suez Canal, for a "friendly visit." A number of Soviet warships visited Port Said in the tense weeks after the June war but despite the Kremlin's support of the Arabs took no action against Israeli forces in the adjacent Sinai Desert.

At the United Nations, the Soviet Union had asked for a resolution condemning Israel and demanding reparations for damage caused by its guns. A U.S. resolution condemned all violations of the ceasefire and insisted on observance of the truce.

ESCALATION DENOUNCED

The 10 non-permanent members of the 15-nation Security Council, which includes Canada, worked out a compromise, condemning ceasefire violations and expressing regret over casualties and property damage. It was approved unanimously.

The resolution appealed to both Israel and the Arab states to "cease immediately all prohibited military activities in the area and to co-operate fully and promptly" with UN peace observers.

The compromise sidestepped any action that might be construed as a move toward a permanent settlement, such as authorizing Thant to name a special representative to seek a peaceful solution of the issues left by the June war.

THOUSANDS CLASH IN SPANISH RIOT

MADRID (UPI)—Thousands of rock-throwing university students skirmished with riot police today after an anti-government march on the ministry of education was dispersed by police cavalry charges.

The clashes came after mounted police swinging long leather-bound riot crops galloped full tilt into a group of demonstrators silently marching to protest "the general repressive policies of the government."

POLICE TO RESCUE

Mob Harasses Navy Recruiter

OBERLIN, Ohio (UPI)—Helmeted police lobbed tear gas shells and a water barrage at a crowd of 150 Oberlin college students today to free a navy recruiter trapped in his car more than four hours.

The students, their arms linked together, had surrounded the military sedan and refused to heed police orders to disperse.

About 20 policemen, highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies moved in with a water truck to break up the demonstration.

The water and gas fusillade scattered the students, many of whom were singing We Shall Overcome and shouting "Hell no, we won't go," and enabled Lt. Cmdr. C. R. Smith of Detroit to leave his car.

NO INJURIES

No injuries or arrests were reported.

After the students were scattered, many of them appeared at Oberlin City Hall and the police station to protest the police tactics.

Officers estimated about 150 students were involved in the blockade of Smith's car. More than 200 other students lined the street and sidewalks, some carrying placards protesting the war in Vietnam.

The blockade began when Smith tried to drive onto school grounds to begin two days of campus recruiting.

NO POWER

One large group of students immediately surrounded the car. Another group paraded on the sidewalks with signs and placards.

The blockade occurred on a public street across from the school, and Oberlin authorities said they had no power to stop it.

Two other navy recruiters made it onto the campus without incident. Authorities said they also arrived in cars but escaped detection of the students.

SIT-DOWN SNARLS UNIVERSITY

MONTREAL (CP) — About 500 students at Sir George Williams University began a sit-down demonstration in the lobby of the university's main building today in response to their student society's call for a one-day boycott of classes.

Jeff Chipman, president of the Students' Association, called on the 5,200 day students of the university to go on strike in support of demands for a greater student voice in the government of Sir George Williams.

Bombers Hit Power Plant In Hanoi

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Navy bombers raided an electric power plant near the heart of Hanoi today. Two pilots reported shooting down a supersonic MiG-21 just south of the North Vietnamese capital.

Flyers bombed the power plant, 1.1 miles north of the centre of Hanoi, continuing for a third straight day intensified U.S. raids on bridges, rail yards and MiG air bases around Hanoi and Haiphong.

The U.S. command said results of the latest Hanoi raid were not yet available. But it announced earlier that 10 more MiGs were destroyed or damaged on the ground during strikes Wednesday on the Phuc Yen air base 18 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, in a dispatch from Hanoi said U.S. planes bombed and strafed the centre of the city. The dispatch said five U.S. planes were shot down and several American flyers bailed out.

The U.S. command made no announcement of any plane losses today but said three U.S. fighter-bombers were shot down Wednesday.

Block Recruiters From Napalm Firm

By The Associated Press

Student anti-war protesters held demonstrations on three of the major U.S. college campuses Wednesday while a National Student Association leader announced plans for a conference on "student power."

All of the campus demonstrations were aimed at protesting the presence of recruiters from the Dow Chemical Co.—a chief manufacturer of napalm being used in the Vietnam war.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Senate subcommittee has started investigating the National Conference for New Politics—the coalition group of so-called "new left" organizations.

The investigation is reported to have been authorized Oct. 11 and now is under way. The new politics conference includes militant civil rights groups, Communists, socialists, anti-war groups and others.

In Cambridge, Mass., about 400 Harvard and Radcliffe students held a Dow recruiter captive for seven hours in a conference room before they voted to release him.

FACE SUSPENSION

As a result, Dr. Fred L. Glimp, dean of admissions at Harvard, said some students face suspensions of up to one year. Many of those participating were from the Harvard chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society.

Student demonstrators at the University of Illinois in Champaign forced the cancellation of job interviews by a Dow representative.

They locked arms to prevent interviewers from entering a conference room.

University Chancellor Jack Peltason announced the cancellation of the interviews and said disciplinary action would be taken against those who participated.

Twenty University of Minnesota students, who spent Tuesday night in the placement office to protest recruitment by Dow, announced plans for a 48-hour fast "to express our compassion for these innocent victims" of napalm.

In New York City, however, more than 100 Columbia University students rallied in support of a policy allowing military, industrial and professional recruiters on campus.

Edward Schwartz, National Student Association president, announced in Washington a "student power" conference at the university of Minnesota Nov. 17-19.

"The reckless use of police on campuses last week," he said, "has merely highlighted the lack of concern that administrators feel toward students and has lent new urgency for our drive to encourage student power on campuses."

Broken Wings, Sick Bodies; SPCA Does Care!

By TED GASKELL

There doesn't seem to be much left in the animal world to surprise Dave Beeching and his staff at the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals centre at Napier and Burnside.

They've looked after swans too heavy to fly, dogs poisoned by mouse bait, a wild cat trapped in a bathroom, spent weeks feeding fawns every two hours and tried to repair broken wings of birds brought in by unhappy children.

Once Mr. Beeching hired a boat and went over to Chatham Island to investigate what proved to be an unfounded complaint about the condition of sheep there.

•

All this is taken in the SPCA stride and is in addition to an almost fulltime job of looking after strays, operating a pound and finding homes for unwanted animals.

No wonder the $43,798 budget for 1968 includes a $6,930 deficit, the SPCA's share of the $600,000 set as the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal target.

Looking after animals is costly.

"The service operates 24 hours a day with staff on call for emergency service," Mr. Beeching said.

"Last month the SPCA found homes for 57 cats out of the 451 brought in for adoption or as strays. More than 140 were put to sleep at the request of the owners. In July 590 cats were handled.

"The society found homes for 58 of the 90 dogs brought in for adoption. More than 60 were impounded but only 40 were claimed by their owners."

Many cats and dogs are kept at the shelter and many will find homes with the people who come around looking for pets.

And what pets!

At present there are beautiful Labradors, two fine boxers

Pentagon Protesters Refuse Food

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten women and 13 men are reported to have refused to eat since they were arrested during anti-war demonstrations at the Pentagon last weekend.

They and 31 others — who are accepting food — are the only persons still being held of the 667 persons arrested during the march on the Pentagon. An estimated 35,000 persons took part in the rally at U.S. defence department headquarters. Some of them camped on the Pentagon mall until arrested or forced to leave at midnight Sunday.

Among the men at the jail is Rev. Daniel Berrigan, a Jesuit priest who works with the United Religious Group at Cornell University. He has refused food since he was arrested.

Blue-Ribbon Group Backs War Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A blue-ribbon committee of former high government officials and other prominent Americans, including former presidents Harry Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, Wednesday strongly endorsed U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Spokesmen for the new group emphasized it was not a part of the Johnson administration's counter-attack on its war critics. But the committee issued a policy statement that clearly supported the government's current war policies.

The statement, announced at a news conference by former Sen. Paul Douglas, Gen. Omar Bradley and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, a former delegate to the United Nations, said: "America cannot afford to let naked aggression or the suppression of freedom go unchallenged . . . and we strongly support our commitment in Vietnam and the policy of non-compromising, although limited, resistance to aggression.

"We are opposed to surrender, however camouflaged. Yet nothing we advocate can be interpreted as unnecessarily risking a general war in Asia or a nuclear war in the world."

MINI-SKIRT FORCES AHEAD FOR CANADA

OTTAWA (CP) — The 2,000 women in Canada's armed forces will be provided with "less mannish" uniforms, national defence headquarters announced today.

No mention was made of the possible color or style although the department noted that "so far, a shirt and tie are out," and the skirt hemline will be raised to "about knee level."

A group of headquarters staff, including several servicewomen, have studied sketches produced by Canadian couturiers and several prototype styles will be made up for consideration.

The department hopes to have a uniform ready early next year for trials by about 25 women, with the final uniform ready sometime in 1969. The color has not yet been decided on.

As in the case of the men's uniform, the new women's dress will be common to all servicewomen, including nursing sisters.

MINUTEMEN POISED TO KILL, N.Y. TOLD

NEW YORK (AP) — The extreme right-wing Minutemen have branches in 33 New York State counties, Attorney-General Louis J. Lefkowitz said Wednesday, and are "training, reading, thinking and living guns, bombs and violence — actively preparing for a private war."

Following a nine-month investigation of the underground outfit, Lefkowitz recommended the outlawing of the paramilitary Minutemen as "a potential threat to the peace and security of New York State and other states."

"A number of Minutemen," he said in a report to Governor Nelson Rockefeller, "testified that upon the orders of their superiors, they would not hesitate to assassinate such 'Communist sympathizers' as the vice-president of the United States, the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the U.S., the governor of the state of New York and others."

Included in the growing ranks of Minutemen, Lefkowitz said, are "policemen, national guards, members of the armed forces, doctors, teachers, employees on sensitive industries, public employees and citizens in ordinary walks of life."

Accused Ruled Fit for Trial

Attempted Murder Alleged As Woman, Policeman Shot

A Victoria man, said to be suffering from delusions, was pronounced fit to stand trial in B.C. Assize Court Wednesday afternoon on two charges of attempted murder.

An all-male jury found that Frank Joseph Bedry, also known as Layton, as "not unfit, on account of insanity, to stand trial."

Bedry was then charged before a new jury on five counts—the attempted murder of Molly May Robertson and Constable Harry Hoshal; causing bodily harm to both; and being in possession of an offensive weapon.

He pleaded not guilty.

The charges arose from the shooting of Mrs. Robertson, a restaurant cashier, in front of her residence at 911 McNaughton Street early on May 4; and the shooting of Constable Hoshal of Victoria at Bedry's house at 572 John Street the same morning.

At the preliminary hearing to decide whether Bedry was fit to stand trial, three psychiatrists testified that he suffered from delusions.

Dr. R. L. Whitman said Bedry believed the Victoria police were "out to do him harm."

Dr. Edwin Lipinski said Bedry told him he had evidence Victoria police were "killing people" in the police station.

Dr. J. C. Thomas said Bedry told him a prisoner tried to hang himself in Victoria police jail, but there was no truth in the statement.

The three psychiatrists agreed, however, that Bedry was fit to stand trial and that he understood the nature of the charges made against him.

HAD IMPROVED

Bedry was committed for trial in central magistrate's court last June 9 and remanded to Oakalla, where he was found to be mentally ill. He was then confined in Riverview Mental Hospital until Oct. 9.

Dr. Whitman said he had improved considerably since then.

Mrs. Molly Robertson, a cashier at Paul's restaurant, testified that she was shot and wounded by the accused after he followed her home from the restaurant early on May 4.

She said he wounded her in the back and in the leg.

Mrs. Robertson said she and the accused lived together for about three years until September, 1965, when she left him.

"Why?" asked Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy.

"He was drinking and he beat me up. I was afraid of him."

Mrs. Robertson said, after she left Bedry, he attempted to have her wages garnisheed because he claimed she owed him money on the financing of a car.

PHONE CALL

She took legal proceedings to stop him, and then received a phone call from Bedry. He said: "If you proceed, you are going to be in big trouble."

"Are you threatening me?" she asked.

"Yes I am and you know I mean it," Bedry was said to have replied.

Later she received an abusive letter from him in which he said: "I intend to stop you from ruining other men's lives" and "I hope you suffer for the rest of your life," she testified.

Crown prosecutor Murphy asked Mrs. Robertson if she had noticed any mental derangement in Bedry when she was living with him.

SLEEPING PILLS

"He was always taking sleeping pills," she replied. He said he had asthma and sometimes he could hardly breathe."

Mrs. Robertson said Bedry came into Paul's restaurant, while she was working there, at about 1:30 a.m. on May 4. He took her arm and said: "Okay, Mollie, come with me."

She got away from him but he followed her home. She tried to grab the gun away from him but failed. He pointed the gun at the ground and fired. As she tried to enter the residence, he shot her in the back and then in the leg, she claimed.

The trial continued today.

Draft Age Lowered By Thieu

SAIGON (AP)—Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu lowered South Vietnam's minimum draft age to 18 from 21 and ordered deferments from the military service tightened in a decree of "partial mobilization" made public today.

The maximum draft age of 34 was retained.

The decree, which will go into effect Jan. 1, also made technicians 34 to 45 years old subject to the draft. Deferments for education, religious reasons, foreign travel, profession and civil service will be tightened, the decree said.

Deferments for reasons of health and for service in the police force or in rural cadres will continue as before. The partial mobilization will also affect veterans of previous service and are still within the draft age.

After the decree goes into effect, draftees will be called up by age groups until the requirements are met. The government has announced that 60,000 men are to be put into uniform, most of them as members of the militia.

Continents Drifting Like Froth

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Earth sciences are entering a revolutionary era which will make present text books obsolete, a prominent geophysicist said Wednesday night.

Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, principal of Erindale College at the University of Toronto, was speaking to more than 600 geophysicists from Canada and 50 other countries at the Canadian centennial conference on mining and ground water.

At the beginning of time, Dr. Wilson said, North America was joined to Europe and South America to Africa. Since the earth "is like a pot of boiling soup, the continents are drifting about the globe like the froth in a pot."

Dr. Wilson is a leading exponent of the continental drift theory. He said scientists who oppose this theory are like sailors who, after inspecting only the deck of the ship, say it is not moving.

The conference continues until Friday.

Wealthy Aussie Dies

MELBOURNE (AP) — A. W. Palfreyman, one of Australia's richest men, died Tuesday night at the age of 92. Palfreyman was chairman of Henry Jones Ltd., a jam and fruit canning concern, for 39 years until he retired in 1965. He also had a large interest in the Consolidated Tin Dredging Co., which pioneered the recovery of tin in Malaya by bucket dredging.

English Speakers To Decide

VANCOUVER (CP) — The question of Quebec separation will be decided by English-speaking Canadians and not by Quebec, the British Columbia Federation of Labor was told Wednesday.

Gerard Rancourt, secretary-general of the Quebec Federation of Labor, told the B.C. federation's annual convention that the decision on separatism must be made by Ottawa, Toronto, Vancouver and the rest of English-speaking Canada.

"If English-speaking Canada does not participate with Quebec in the achievement of a more satisfying federal balance for the French-Canadian and the French-speaking Quebecers, there is a real danger that independence may be accomplished without the people, over the heads of the people, and contrary to the interests of the people," he said.

Mr. Rancourt said the Quebec trade union movement is doing its best to check the trend toward independence, but with a decreasing degree of success.

He said if the Canadian labor movement remains indifferent to the constitutional problem, "we shall be swept away by the national revolution which is currently going on in Quebec."

. . . KING

The shah followed three minutes later, led by commanders of the army, navy and air force and wearing a blue uniform heavy with gold braid, epaulets and medals.

The shah mounted a red carpeted dais and sat on the Peacock throne for the first time in his 26-year reign, except for dress rehearsals.

The ruler crowned himself nine minutes later to the accompaniment of blessings from the Koran and more bugle fanfares. The shah's face was solemn and his face was visibly moved as his young wife knelt before him and he lifted the second crown and put it on her head.

"Now that I crown myself Sahanshah of Iran I seek the Almighty's help to give me strength and the ability to continue serving my country," the shah declared.

Speaking from the seven-foot-high Peacock throne—with its grinning cat of jewels, its gold serpents and 26,733 gems—the shah proclaimed: "My only aim is to further the progress and glory of my nation. I have no wish other than to preserve the independence of my country and to lead Iran to become the most progressive country in the world, and to resurrect its ancient glory and grandeur.

"In this I will not hesitate to sacrifice my life."

Fluorides Backed

KELOWNA (CP)—At least 28 per cent of nine-year-old children in Kelowna, where the water is fluoridated, are free of cavities, according to a provincial dental health survey. In other Okanagan areas, where water is not fluoridated, only 9.8 per cent are cavity-free.

SCHOOLS ISSUE SPARKS LETTER

Bennett's Views Sadden Federal Quebec Minister

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A young French Canadian federal cabinet minister has charged Premier Bennett with holding disappointing views that are dangerous to Canada.

Jean Chretien, minister without portfolio, has written to Bennett about the premier's recent views that French-language schools are neither desirable nor necessary in B.C.

Chretien warns that a federal system that is rigid and inflexible can not survive for long.

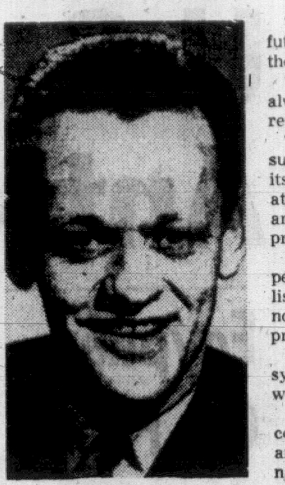
His letter, dated Oct. 20, is written more in sorrow than in anger, and recalls a pleasant trip he spent in B.C.

And he even addresses the letter to Bennett as "Prime Minister of British Columbia"—the title he wants instead of premier.

Chretien, 33, has been in the van of Quebec ministers going into the province to carry the message of federalism.

He wrote his letter to Bennett on his return from a three-day visit to the "lovely province of B.C."

Chretien said his explanations of Quebec's hopes and aspirations were well received in talks he gave—including in Bennett's home town of Kelowna.



CHRETIEN
. . . recalls visit

He wrote: "I am informing you of these events, because it was with deep regret that I read a press report on your statement regarding French-language schools in B.C. According to the report, you denied either the desirability or need for such schools.

"I find this attitude dangerous and disappointing.

"I am afraid, sir, that the future is against those who ally themselves with the status quo.

"A federal system must always be flexible and ready to reform.

"A federal system cannot long survive if those responsible for its maintenance adopt rigid attitudes such as the one you are reported to have expressed," Chretien wrote.

The minister wrote that the people of B.C. were anxious to listen to certain points of view not always expressed in the province.

"I believe I received a sympathetic hearing wherever I went," Chretien stated.

He said in speaking to Vancouver Board of Trade, he argued that in the past our national institutions had not properly and adequately reflected the bilingual fact in this country.

SHOULD BE IN FRONT

"I stated that this must change if we are to defeat the nationalism of isolation, and that B.C. should be at the forefront of this change.

"Among the specific reforms I mentioned was the need for French-speaking minorities outside of Quebec to have the same education rights extended to the English-speaking minority in Quebec," Chretien added.

He recalled stating in Kelowna—"which, I understand, is your home town"—that for too long bilingualism had been regarded as a disadvantage, and that a more positive approach was needed.

Chretien recalled saying bilingualism is an asset, and noting with satisfaction some progress is being made. He advocated French-language schools where demand warranted.

"I was thinking specifically of the French-speaking minority in B.C., but many English-speaking families I later talked with expressed a definite interest in attending such schools as well. I find this attitude heartening and progressive.

"I was speaking before the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce at the time. When I made these suggestions, I received a standing ovation from the audience," Chretien noted.

Then his letter went on to express his regret at Bennett's views.

Premier Bennett today refused to discuss Mr. Chretien's letter or the question of French in British Columbia's school systm.

"My statement in Montreal on television was my complete statement on Quebec," Mr. Bennett said in a telephone interview from Vancouver.

"I don't intend to say anymore."

'Public Services Worst Employers'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Public employers are the worst in Canada, William Dodge, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said today.

"The major problem is the fact the management of the institutions of government and essential public services has, to a great extent, been put in the hands of persons with absolutely no sense of responsibility toward their employees," he told the annual convention of the B.C. Federation of Labor.

"They are the worst employers in the country and because of the field in which they operate they are almost always supported in the positions they take by governments."

Mr. Dodge said that few strikes against public companies jeopardized community disaster. The recent Montreal transit strike was not "an unmitigated disaster."

He also discounted compulsory arbitration to end strikes because this would "ignore the basic causes of industrial conflict.

"In the final analysis, the only way to eliminate strikes is to eliminate the cause of strikes.

"It is impossible to commit the trade union movement to acceptance of the withdrawal of the right to strike so long as there is no commitment on the part of employers and governments and the general public to a vast change of attitude toward their employees."

He conceded that a comprehensive examination of strikes in essential services might be warranted but said compulsory arbitration was definitely no answer.

"It is not strikes but the right to strike that forces employers and employees alike to act responsibly," he said. "Take that right away and you do not eliminate strikes.

'You only make them illegal, longer, more difficult to settle and perhaps more likely to breed turmoil, simply because they are illegal."

U.S. VICTIMS DOUBLE S. VIETNAMESE

SAIGON (UPI) — American battle deaths in Vietnam last week were more than double those for the South Vietnamese army, the U.S. military command reported today.

The casualty report for the week ended Oct. 21 said 193 U.S. servicemen lost their lives in combat, compared with 81 South Vietnamese soldiers killed.

It was the second week in a row that American losses have been higher than those for South Vietnam, and the third week in a row that U.S. losses have increased.

American wounded during the week numbered 949, compared with 355 for the South Vietnamese.

'Police Must Have Right To Eavesdrop'

MONTREAL (CP)—A prominent Quebec judge has called for definitive legislation which would permit Canada's law enforcement bodies to use wire-tapping and electronic eavesdropping techniques in their investigations of crime.

Sessions Judge Gerard Laganiere told delegates attending Wednesday's convention of the Quebec Independent Telephone Association:

"It's time that methods of protecting society caught up with the means of preying on it.

"While crime rides around in a Cadillac, law enforcement pursues in a buggy."

Everyone, including telephone employees, recoiled at the prospect of possible police intrusion on public privacy, but already professional criminals were using all kinds of electronic techniques to achieve their ends.

"No one wants to violate the citizen's basic democratic right to his privacy," Judge Laganiere said. "But there must be legislation to allow electronic investigation, in certain cases and in certain circumstances endorsed by the judiciary, in the over-all interests of society."

'Get Tough' Says GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican congressional leaders, using the terms "malcontent . . . misguided . . . malicious," called today for legal action against demonstrators such as those who conducted the weekend anti-war rally at the Pentagon.

"These wretched few can no longer be tolerated," Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, and house leader Gerald R. Ford said in a joint statement.

and many cute kittens either looking for homes or awaiting claim. One pen is marked "hold until claimed." But that won't be until the owner gets out of jail.

"Pound fees pay a great deal towards upkeep of the centre; donations help and there are legacies which go into a capital fund for construction," explained Mr. Beeching.

•

This week the women's auxiliary to the society donated $1,500 of which $1,000 is earmarked for cat runs, badly needed, and $500 for an education program on animal birth control.

But it is operating expenses which pose the problem.

In cases where pet owners are pensioners on welfare the SPCA helps financially with vet fees or transportation costs. Where owners can pay for these services, a charge is made.

Not everyone is honest. There have been cases of animal owners, in order to avoid paying euthanasia charges, have pretended their animals are strays they have found.

But no genuine case goes unaided.

•

A family in North Saanich had a pet dog which required surgery for a broken leg which would have cost $85. With SPCA help the work was done.

The society took care of three Chihuahuas, pets of an old lady who was taken to hospital with a chronic complaint.

Mr. Beeching is confident of the public's appreciation.

"I don't think anyone minds supporting an organization which is not only helping animals but is helping people who, like old-age pensioners, want to give their pets proper care but sometimes can't afford to," he said.

'God Save The Queen' Attacked

HALIFAX (CP) — Quebec students attending a law conference here today protested the singing of God Save the Queen and a toast to Her Majesty at a dinner sponsored by the Nova Scotia government Wednesday night.

Jean-Laurier Demers, president of the Quebec caucus at the National Centennial Conference of Canadian Law Students, said in a statement the provincial government "deliberately called for allegiance to monarchic symbols on three occasions" during the dinner.

He said God Save the Queen was sung twice and the Queen toasted once.

Mr. Demers criticized the government for its "narrowness of outlook."

"Silence was enforced as to any reference to a truly Canadian hymn, namely O Canada, to which all would have responded whether from conviction or respect," he said.

SFU Goes Into Red As Enrolment Zooms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Simon Fraser University plunged into debt to finance capital expansion in its second year of operation, financial statements showed Wednesday.

Bursar Don Ross said the university's debt of $6,600,000 shown for the year ending March 31 will be paid off by 1969.

He said the money was borrowed against forthcoming provincial grants and the balance of SFU's share of the Three Universities' Fund.

The university's growth forced the indebtedness, Mr. Ross said. Enrolment has jumped to 5,000 this semester from the 2,500 students when it opened in September, 1965.

"The students had to be accommodated which meant getting the buildings up before the money for them was in the bank," he said.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A ridge of high pressure over the B.C. interior gave sunny skies there today. However, cloud has spread to coastal areas ahead of a Pacific disturbance and winds on the Charlottes have now increased to gale force. This weather system gave rain to most of the outer coast today with the rain expected to spread to the lower mainland Friday morning. The precipitation will also spread through the interior with mixed rain and snow in the central interior late today and some showers in the southern interior Friday afternoon.

EMBRACE at door of St. Peter's Basilica in the Vatican began historic meeting today between Pope Paul and bearded Patriarch Athenagoras, spiritual leader of the world's Orthodox Churches. It was the first visit by an Orthodox patriarch to Vatican in more than 900 years and is aimed at reuniting two branches of Christianity. (AP Wirephoto.)

PLEDGE EFFORTS FOR CHRISTIAN UNITY

Church Leaders Embrace At Historic Meeting

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul and Patriarch Athenagoras prayed side by side in St. Peter's Basilica today, repeatedly embraced in the kiss of peace and pledged unceasing efforts to reunite Christianity.

Never in the history of the two churches had such a meeting occurred—the leader of the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics and the head of the 150,000,000 Orthodox praying together inside the largest church in Christendom.

It was the first visit by a leader of Orthodoxy since the church split in 1054. It marked a giant step toward future reunion.

Before cardinals, Orthodox metropolitans and the 200 bishops from around the world here for the Vatican synod, Pope and patriarch vowed anew to do all in their power to make reunion a reality some day.

The vast basilica echoed with applause as the Pope and patriarch, standing before the main altar, embraced again and again.

Then leading Roman Catholic cardinals came to the patriarch to exchange the kiss of peace with him.

The visit of the bearded, 81-year-old patriarch to the Pope—their third meeting—was expected to accelerate contacts between their churches. Athenagoras came to Rome to repay the visit the Pope made to him in Istanbul last July. They met first in January, 1964, in Jerusalem, when Pope Paul made the first trip outside Italy by a modern pontiff.

The Orthodox Church, with 150,000,000 members, is closer in doctrine and spirit to the 500,000,000-member Roman Catholic Church than any other Christian faith. Because of this, the growing rapport between the Pope and the patriarch is expected to produce the most fruitful developments in the drive to reunite the world's Christian churches.

Athenagoras came to Rome after a tour of Yugoslavia, Roman and Bulgaria. He conferred with heads of the Orthodox churches in those countries seeking support for his unity efforts.

EXPO DEFICIT SOARS ON OPERATING COSTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Expo 67 will run a final deficit of about $250,000,000, an informed government source said Wednesday.

This would be about five times the net cost for Expo originally predicted in 1963.

If the Expo corporation recovered little of the expected $70,000,000 from disposal of assets on the site, the deficit would go higher.

Expo continues to run close to its revenue targets, but operating expenditures have climbed beyond all expectations.

As of last week, revenues totalled $116,000,000, or 95 per cent of projections.

MONTREAL (CP)—School children of Quebec will have a chance for a final fling at Expo 67 Friday—a couple of days before the official windup of the six-month fair.

Premier Daniel Johnson announced in Quebec City Wednesday night a provincial cabinet decision to give all school children and teachers a day off for a final visit to the world's fair.

Pope Urged To Make Stand Clear

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—A special committee of Pope Paul's consultative synod of bishops recommended today that he issue a clear-cut document on matters of doctrine and morals, including birth control.

This follows a resolution passed by a congress of 3,000 Roman Catholic laymen here last week asking the Vatican to leave the choice of birth control methods to married couples.

The month-long synod, drawing to an end, suggested that the Vatican put out a positive and pastoral declaration to meet demands for a new rule of faith in the ferment following the 1962-65 Vatican council.

The declaration would include church teaching on moral problems and therefore birth control, a Vatican spokesman said.

Demands for a new rule of faith were aired in the synod to establish what the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics should believe and what they should not following the spread of clashing interpretations of modern church teaching.

Joey's Son Sues

ST. JOHNS, Nfld. (CP)—The Telegram said Wednesday it is being sued for $100,000 by William R. Smallwood, son of the Newfoundland premier, over publication Monday of a story on a Supreme Court hearing to decide custody of William Smallwood's four children.

ROBERTS BANK

Bonner Hits Federal Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Bonner described Wednesday Ottawa's announcement of long-range federal plans for a superport at Roberts Bank as "a meaningless statement."

Mr. Bonner, in a telephone interview from London, said of last week's announcement by federal Transport Minister Hellyer:

"The promise to develop the port over 30 years is, in all charity, a meaningless statement . . . a nothing promise. If you look back over 30 years and see what has taken place in Vancouver then you realize that anybody could develop the port in 30 years."

Mr. Bonner, who also is British Columbia's transport minister, said that while he was not, at the moment, "agreeing or disagreeing with the federal proposal," he would raise the matter in cabinet when he returns from Europe.

Mr. Hellyer announced last week the federal government would spend $50,000,000 over 30 years to build a superport at Roberts Bank, just south of Vancouver, to handle bulk loading for giant freighters.

Roberts Bank is the same spot where the B.C. government has said it plans to build a superport under a provincial harbors board. Mr. Hellyer's plan would come under the National Harbors Board.

Mr. Bonner said his tour of port facilities in Europe has shown him that a federal agency is not required for proper port development or administration.

Let Forestry Guide Market, Says Hamilton

OTTAWA (CP) — Alvin Hamilton, former Conservative agriculture minister, suggested Wednesday that the forestry and rural development department take the lead in establishing national marketing goals for fish, forestry and agricultural products.

He told the Commons that Forestry Minister Sauve has full power under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act to seek provincial co-operation in such an initiative.

Mr. Hamilton spoke as the Commons gave approval to the department's $50,478,000 spending program for the year ending March 31. Today it goes on to the manpower department's spending estimates.

The former Conservative cabinet member, who introduced ARDA during his administration, said the four Atlantic provinces should get together for the production of fish, forestry and farming products.

GETTING TOGETHER

He also suggested that Quebec and the Atlantic provinces forget provincial boundaries and come together to meet the growing world demand for pulp and paper.

Farmers in Eastern Canada have had experience in cattle, said Mr. Hamilton.

"We have heard from department officials and others that Canada and the United States are moving towards a crisis in respect of beef," he said.

"We have heard there is a possibility that in the next few years Canada will have to import beef, because we cannot supply it from the present grass supply in the Prairies and the little that is available in Eastern Canada."

While there was no market for fresh or dried fish, there was a growing demand for processed fish. Canada had the technical knowledge to meet the demand and should put it to use.

No Crash Program —Hellyer

CALGARY (CP) — Transport Minister Hellyer said Wednesday night Vancouver will probably be Canada's largest seaport within a few years.

In a speech to the Calgary Chamber of Commerce, he said he bases this view on "the great deepsea harbor which is to be built at Roberts Bank, Vancouver," and the development of container traffic on ships.

Mr. Hellyer said the Roberts Bank development was no crash program but was expected to begin in the 1970s with the first phase of construction, which would cost some $10,000,000.

Container traffic — the packing of goods in large containers that remain sealed until delivery — had not grown as fast on the Pacific Coast as it had in the east.

Statistics for recent years show that Montreal is still Canada's largest port in terms of cargo tonnage handled, but by a slim margin over Vancouver.

Students Rebuff Administration On Birth Control

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Students at Manchester University voted 110 to 83 Tuesday to defy the university administration and install machines vending contraceptives inside one of the school's buildings.

A student spokesman said unwanted pregnancies force an average of 40 girls to quit the university each year.

University authorities turned down a request for the open sale of contraceptives. Registrar Vincent Knowles said after the vote: "I don't think the students can go installing machines without some kind of permission."

Before Plunging Into Pools

REPORTS OF SERIOUS DETERIORATION in the structure of the Crystal Garden, facing the city with heavy costs of repair or replacement, indicate that the community's acquisition of the property gratis from the CPR carried problems as well as benefits. Now the difficult question of whether to undertake minimal repairs, a full renovation, or construction of a completely new building is one to tax the full wisdom of council members.

The proposal to build a new facility immediately raises another question: one swimming pool or two? The Crystal Garden, of course, was built not only for its pool, although this was the major feature, but also as a centre containing ballrooms, an exhibition room, salt baths and other items. As Mayor Stephen observes, the city has taken on enough tasks in the maintenance of recreational facilities and hardly needs to be in the "ballroom business." Dropping this would simplify to some extent the construction of any new swimming pool accommodation. But location presents another demanding problem: Is the present site, chosen more than forty years ago, still the best one for the purpose?

As a centre for tourist patronage it forms a valid part of the facilities in the area: the new museum, Thunderbird Park and the nearby hotels. It is fairly centrally located, too, for some residents, but many of its local patrons must come a considerable distance to use it. Opinions on this point will be in sharp conflict.

But what the city is now faced with—which may not have been readily apparent until today—is the need for a complete overall assessment of recreational facilities, present and projected, not only for the city itself but for the region. Until such a survey is made—and anything based on immediate needs of several years ago will probably be out of date in this fast-changing community — there can be only patchwork and guessing in locating the key recreational centres for Greater Victoria as a whole.

There should be a careful study of the population distribution, not only as of today but as likely to obtain over the next two or three decades. There should be full information on possible traffic trends, on expected alterations in the ratio of young and old residents, on the possibility of changes in the popularity of various sports. Only on this basis will it be possible to place swimmining pools, tennis courts, skating rinks and such public centres to the best advantage for long-term use.

We have had such studies made for hospital accommodation, for sewers, for schools and similar needs. But piecemeal, localized guessing as to placement of pools and ice surfaces, based only on the immediate needs of today, and of one municipality or another, must lead to errors and eventually wasted money.

Modern requirements call for large expenditures from the public purse for recreation. Whether taxpayers like it or not it is a definite trend, and one which will develop rapidly in the coming era of increased populations with increased leisure time. But a prime necessity is a factual basis on which the regional program may best be carried out. Reasonable expenditure for this information would be money well spent.

Political Economics

THE RISING TIDE OF PROTECTIONISM in the United States—which has dismayed and embarrassed Washington officials from President Johnson down—is being met with not unexpected threats of retaliation from a number of countries which have been quick to point out that the United States sells more abroad than it buys and had a surplus of $3.8 billions in its trade account last year.

Among the bills before Congress which have raised the greatest indignation are restrictions on imports of textiles, steel, electronics, rubber footwear, petroleum, dairy products, meat and even furs. While it is not certain that these measures would violate the Kennedy Round agreements—for they are non-tariff measures—they certainly would undermine it.

President Johnson has reacted to the Congressional moves by sending four cabinet ministers to testify at hearings on the bills, Secretary of State Rusk, Agriculture Secretary Freeman, Interior Secretary Udall, Commerce Secretary Trowbridge, and the President's special representative for trade negotiations, Ambassador Roth. But the incredible result of this administration pressure on Congress was a stormy scene on Capitol Hill, where special police had to be brought in to escort the witnesses through a shouting mob of legislators, lobbyists and spectators. And the leading supporters of the protectionist bills — Senators Hartke, Dirksen, Bennett and Long — accused the administration spokesmen of trying to put over a "snow job" on Congress and "obscuring the issues."

The strongest reaction to the bills has come from Japan, which delivered an official note of protest to Washington and threatened to cut American imports by 25 per cent if the measures become law. Other governments have not taken official notice of the situation as yet, but reports from European capitals indicate they take a very serious view of any attempts by the United States to curtail trade.

All of the import restriction bills would be subject to presidential veto if they passed Congress and some observers feel that this is part of the political game being played by opponents of the President. Forcing Mr. Johnson to use his veto powers could make him very unpopular with the special interest groups — which include a fairly broad spectrum of labor and industry.

'De-beautifying' B.C.

THE B.C. FEDERATION OF LABOR has heard a succinct criticism of present provincial government policy permitting extensive commercial invasion of the parks—particularly by mining and logging interests.

"It gains us little if, in a drive for shorter hours, longer vacations and more prosperity," the federation's resources committee reported, "we end up with no place to go to rest and relax with our families because pollution has won the day."

The committee called for a ban on mining and logging in provincial parks, for mass reforestation and for a halt to the release of wastes into lakes, streams and rivers.

This makes sound conservation sense, but a large part of the resolution can become completely irrelevant under present terms of the parks act. Under one clause, the government reserves the power to change park boundaries at will. In other words — and there are instances to illustrate the point—the government can avoid mining and logging in parks merely by announcing that the area some company wants to log or mine is no longer a part of the park. Perhaps that was one of the points the Federation had in mind when its spokesman said:

"We had better wake up and start raising good, old-fashioned hell or face a 'Beautiful B.C.' the sight and smell of which would turn your stomach."

Tory Doubts

By ALAN HARVEY
from London

BRITAIN'S Conservative party has buried its leadership problems, but can't quite shake off its past. As freely predicted, the centenary conference gave an overwhelming vote of confidence Saturday to party leader Edward Heath, whose authority had been questioned. Through no fault of his own, Mr. Heath's personality had become a talking point. Television touched the ultimate in absurdity by asking him, as though expecting a negative answer, whether he had enough warmth, whether he glowed with the fires of leadership.

Partly to make up for the TV program, whose only justification would be their own muttering the 4,000 delegates stood and cheered for four-and-a-half minutes after Mr. Heath's closing address to the four-day conference, held in Brighton. They were determined to give TV their answer — for the time being anyway.

Mr. Heath helped his own cause when he spoke. His speech was widely voted his best performance to date. He conveyed conviction, seemed relaxed and even managed a few jocular passages.

He pleased the Tory faithful. What he did not do was persuade observers that the Conservative party has come completely to terms with itself as an opposition force.

Atter 13 years of power, from 1951 to 1964, the Tories left office without a solution for Britain's economic problems. This failure has left lingering suspicion among the uncommitted. New Tory policies are looked at with a fishy eye, lest old Tory viewpoints lurk beneath.

The phrase "search for identity" was heard from the floor, and political columnists picked it up. With old attitudes under scrutiny, the Tories are signposts. A party in transition finds that even tradition is not always safe.

There were ringing speeches at Brighton, but mostly generalities in a telling phrase. These were dismissed as rhetoric, dressed up with nowhere to go. If the Conservatives have not yet elaborated a new philosophy, distinct from the Labor government's middle-of-the-road socialism, nobody should be surprised. Thirteen years of Conservatism and three years of Labor, all in the same atmosphere of economic duress, suggest that governing Britain no longer lends itself to simplistic slogans.

Protest in Trafalgar Square

Traynor

AS THE bus jerked its way up Whitehall, we could see the red banners draped over the balustrade at the National Gallery end of Trafalgar square. In the middle distance, a pennant-draped line angled down and away from the lower reaches of the Nelson monument, as if it were some elephantine sailboat mast. The weekday throngs of pigeons had given way to a tightly-packed human mass. In a moment, we were standing in the shadow of Canada House, a sedate sandstone pile walling in the west side of the square.

A loud, metallic current of words pulsated above the heads of the crowd from a phalanx of loudspeakers. "Time has come to smash white oppression ... Non-whites are victims of oppression, discrimination everywhere ... European — only immigration laws in Canada, Australia ... Justice and equality but justice above all ... Bloodshed if necessary ... Third world must unite ... White militants welcome ... Must be prepared to fight."

As we moved into the crowd below the balustrade, we could pick out the banners of the Anarchists, the Communist student groups, the radical young Liberals, the various Vietnam protest movements. The slogans were taken at random from the lexicon of protest: "Genocide Johnson ... Wilson government is bosses' government ... Johnson's baby powder — napalm ... Politics to blame for war, taxes — abolish politics! ... Smith must go."

Militancy

We stopped below the midpoint of the balustrade directly in front of the microphone, which periodically acquirred a slightly different voice preaching a slightly different kind of militancy. Beside us a pair of bobbies stood impassivly, facing the crowd, only their eyes moving among the mini-skirts, the olive-drab parkas, the curiously still faces broken only occasionally by a glint of humor. As close to us as the bobbies on the other side, a tousled, pea-jacketed girl student held aloft a yellowing human skull, split precisely into top and bottom halves for classroom scrutiny but now hooked and scotch-taped into a whole. Just beyond the skull was a small boy sitting on his father's shoulders and displaying a yellow label button with the caption: "Vive Che."

It wasn't always obvious this was a protest against the Americans in Vietnam, but it was plain enough when we looked closely at those pennants angling down from the Nelson monument. They were miniature North Vietnamese flags.

Then, too, there was the nasal American urging his countrymen to do more than defy the draft. And from Bertrand Russell or his associates, there was the inevitable telegram bitterly denouncing American "militarism" and exhorting the world to resist American "expansionism."

At the end, the insistent pulse of noise from the loudspeakers stopped abruptly, and the rumble of the traffic re-asserted itself. There was a ripple of desultory clapping and the crowds shuffled listlessly toward the Strand to get in line for a circuitous march to the American embassy. The head of the column moved off behind a dark youth with a loudhailer who was beginning to chant: "Harold Wilson, John-son's poodle." The sharp October afternoon gave the scene something of the flavor of halftime at a football game.

Next morning, Monday, 44 of the demonstrators were in court on a variety of charges including assault. A group of bobbies, each the double of the pair who had stood an uneventful afternoon watch among the crowds, had been posted around the American embassy to await the demonstrators. Some were on horses. When the demonstrators arrived and massed in front of the building, the mounted police attempted to break them into smaller groups. Fights broke out. The demonstrators threw mud and pieces of wood at the police. When it was over, the 44 were under arrest, 11 policemen were in hospital and 19 others were injured. There were a further 12 people from the crowd injured. Militancy had had its day after all.

Only the Cliches Left of the Revolution

Bartlett

HE WILL remain the "Infallible Mao" to his countrymen but he is seen from here to have suffered a total frustration of his plans for the Cultural Revolution. The decline in Mao's stature at home will be imperceptible to the outside eye. He will still bask in the focus of China's cult of personality. No rational citizen will speak out against him. The celebration of his 75th birthday in December will be an orgy of adulation.

But when a politician bets on his personal charisma and loses, he has lost heavily. It is difficult to disguise the indignity of the fact that the army which carried Mao into power has blocked his intention to carry China into a new revolution. He was only able to prove that the status quo has become stronger than he is.

Mao's present condition, even the state of his mind and health, is obscured by the veil which Communists wrap about their leaders. But while he presumably commands continued deference, it is clear that he no longer enjoys the decisive word in policy councils.

The most opportunistic of his associates are marked for purging and even his wife, Chiang Ching, has endured the humiliation of putting out her firebrand in public. "Is there an army in the world as good as ours?" she asked in a speech that must have been difficult to deliver.

The great aim of the Cultural Revolution was Mao's dream of wiping out differences in pay to create a truly classless society. But the classes which he intended to help and which arose under his banners have been damaged. The elite groups which he set out to attack have been strengthened.

The students are urged to return to their schools under the cloud of a massive backlash. They are despised as hooligans by the city-dwellers, thoroughly mistrusted by the army and denounced as "selfish" by government spokesmen.

No Jobs

Worst of all their rampage has damaged the prospects of a solution to their malaise. Their restless response to Mao reflected their dismay at the lack of employment opportunities for high school and college graduates. The system has produced 22 million of them since 1960 but it has not produced jobs to match their numbers. Now the revolution has threatened the momentum of industrial development, the only answer to their plight.

Similarly the worker-peasants whose envy of the industrial laborers led them into the Cultural Revolution have not been helped by it. They departed their suburban communes and moved into the city only to be repulsed by laborers who had taken up arms to protect their jobs.

The cries by the Mao group against trade unionism and "economism" did not soften the determination of those who had good jobs to hold onto them. The hated principle of privilege in the working classes was upheld when the army responded by putting down the interlopers.

The people who have accrued wealth under the Red Star had to lie very low while the struggle raged but they have not been permanently affected. Russian propagandists complained during the fighting that the well-to-do districts, where "almost 90,000 capitalists and their families live a life of luxury," were amply protected. The attacks against them seem to have gone no further than diatribes.

Mao's revolution has left only its cliches, which persist like a bad habit, and a patchwork of innovative compromises, which are designed to pull the fragmented society together. It has produced no justifications for its instigators and it fell short of becoming a catastrophe only through the blessing of a bumper harvest.

Individual Fluoridation

Once again the fluoridation question raises its ugly head, and once again I ask why should this be compulsory for those who object? Thousands do. Why cannot those who want it put it in their water as they use it?—Dorothy Abraham, 1125 Faithful.

Termites In Texts

Many parents will be grateful to Mr. Ted Wood and Dr. Victor Rogers for their opposition to vulgarity in school text books, and will endorse the forthright opinions expressed by one of your columnists (Miss Forbes, October 18) deploring the "cult of ugliness" in present day thinking.

According to the Oxford Dictionary, education is "culture or development of powers, formation of character—often qualified as intellectual, moral, etc."

Aside from the "ugliness" deplored by Miss Forbes, are these English text books not supposed to be examples of a high standard? It must be confusing for the young student to find that the stamp of approval has been given by the Board of Education to such words.—M. Maclennan, 1310 Topaz.

Those UBC Geographers

I have been overwhelmed by the favorable letters from all over Canada concerning my comments on the surprising errors which I found on maps of Canada drawn by some of my geography students.

This was not a "test" as many persons may think of tests. The class of 65 Third and Fourth Year students, was asked to draw and name any locative information (cities, provinces, rivers, lakes, etc.) that they knew. They were told that the purpose of the map, which was not to be marked, was for me to know their visual (mental) impression of the map of Canada.

The point overlooked in all the discussion is that 40 of these maps were good ones. The poor maps were, however, much poorer than I have seen in recent years, and their locative misconceptions stranger than usual.

I repeat that my concern was not with the errors in the map exercise, but with the concepts which lie behind those errors and the problems of communication with students who have these misconceptions. How does one discuss problems of Prairie wheat economy with a student who does not know that Saskatchewan exists? How does one communicate about Prince Rupert as a port or rail terminal when the student believes that it is east of Panhandle Alaska and near the Yukon border? What does one say about the impact of the St. Lawrence Seaway upon the cities of Ontario to a person who believes that all of Ontario is west of the Great Lakes?

I suggest that these matters are of "great consequence" to Canadians who wish to "think" intelligently about Canadian problems.—J. Lewis Robinson, Professor and Head of the Department of Geography, The University of British Columbia.

Looking Back

From the Times, Oct. 26, 1907.

A motion prohibiting the sale of opium in the city in a commercial way was laid over to the next council meeting.

The motion reads as follows:

That seeing the universal acceptance of the prejudicial effects of the unrestrained use of opium, this council memoralize the Dominion government to interdict the importation, manufacture and sale of opium except for medicinal purposes.

The motion was introduced by Ald. Hall, acting on the suggestion of the Citizens' League.

Quebec Liberals Ponder Need for New Powers

After adopting a formal resolution at its recent convention rejecting "separatism in all its forms", the Quebec Liberal Federation sent to a study committee a lengthy report on constitutional affairs prepared under the chairmanship of former education minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie.

The report will serve as a basis for spelling out the kind of "particular status" the Quebec Liberal Party would like Quebec to enjoy within Canadian federalism.

This is an extract from the report on the new powers that might be considered necessary to Quebec in such a solution.

The constitution, in its present form, is a constant source of frustrations and wasted energies, of overlapping jobs and of conflicts. The efficient working of the modern state needed by Quebeckers demands a deep transformation of this situation. This transformation necessarily means a new division of (legislative) powers.

The new powers needed by the State of Quebec:

In this perspective, one must wonder which new legislative and administrative powers are necessary to Quebec to organize the collective life of Quebeckers according to their own needs and aspirations.

One could hold that, in a way, all gestures and consequently all powers of a state have a direct or indirect influence on the development of a people's collective personality. But in an era when the interdependence of nations is so much a part of daily reality that it incites all states to seek formulas for drawing closer together and co-ordinating (their efforts), one must try to define the minimum of powers which cannot be left to an external authority without endangering its collective personality.

French Culture

To speak of our collective personality is immediately to raise the matter of everything directly affecting language and culture: the individual's culture through institutions of learning and the arts; the culture of the masses through movies, radio and television. Those are fields where Quebec must assume truly outstanding responsibilities, and must possess the constitutional jurisdiction necessary to this end.

The development of this collective personality demands just as much that the State of Quebec give itself an immigration policy which takes into account its cultural and economic objectives. To this end, Quebec must obtain a jurisdiction more complete than that it now enjoys in this area, notably concerning criteria of selection for immigrants and the selection itself.

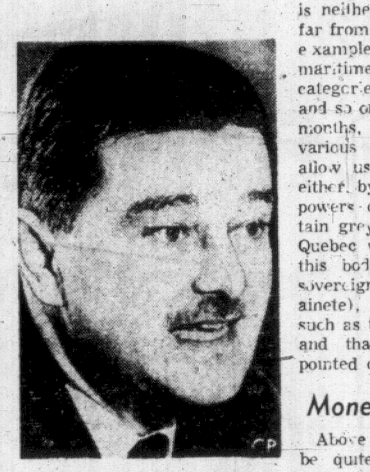
Direct Links

Social security and assistance, including health, are too directly linked to the structure and values of a society for the State of Quebec not to have exclusive responsibility for them. Moreover, reasons of political and administrative efficiency demand that this sector be the responsibility of a single government.

The manpower sector, already related to two major jurisdictions of Quebec, education and labor, and raising problems peculiar to Quebec because of the language and culture of Quebec workers, can certainly not escape the State of Quebec, any more than the field of adult education and trades training (formation professionnelle).

The responsibilities that the State of Quebec assumes and will assume demand that it have broader powers for matters touching on the orientation of its economic development. The latter so influences the state's activity and the whole development of a collectivity and, moreover, is conditioned to such an extent by education, manpower, labor, social security, fiscal policy (and) public investments, that it is unthinkable for the State of Quebec to have no role in matters such as currency, credit or tariff policy. That does not imply that Quebec should have its own currency or establish its own customs, but it (Quebec) as a matter of great necessity, must participate directly in the elaboration of monetary and tariff policy. That is too important an instrument in the organization of collective development for it to be set aside.

The jurisdictions in matters of marriage and divorce, so closely related to civil law, should belong to the State of Quebec. The same is true of the powers in the fields of insurance, (and) commercial and financial companies, which are of very great importance for our economic development.



PAUL GERIN-LAJOIE
. . . a transformation

In the modern world, if the State of Quebec wishes to exercise effectively its powers to insure a maximum development of the collectivity and individuals of Quebec, it must possess the fullness of sovereignty in the fields left to it exclusively and, as a consequence, have recognized for itself an international personality allowing it to negotiate understandings (ententes) and to participate in international bodies whose activity extends to sectors of its own sovereignty.

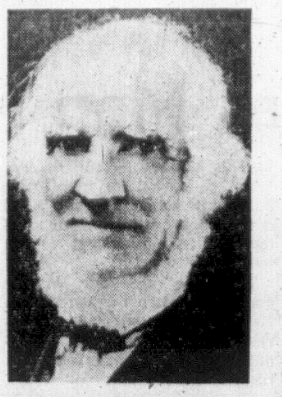
Finally, it is obvious that the sovereignty of Quebec would lose much of its meaning if the State of Quebec did not have the capacity to mend its own constitution without any restriction. This power must therefore be clearly established.

We have given this enumeration — for which we have drawn inspiration from the various studies prepared over recent years, either within the framework of work done by the (Quebec) legislative committee on the constitution or in the variouos university or political circles — in order to illustrate the powers with which we wish Quebec to be equipped in addition to those it possesses already. (This) is a list which is neither complete nor final, far from it. We could add, for example, undersea rights, maritime fisheries, certain categories of transportation, and so on . . . During the next months, studies will go on in various circles which will allow us to fill out the list, either by including new powers or by clarifying certain grey areas. The State of Quebec will have to exercise this body of powers in full sovereignty (en toute souverainete), without hindrances such as those which now exist and that we have already pointed out.

Money Needed

Above all, it is necessary to be quite conscious that the State of Quebec could not exercise this body of powers without a considerable increase in its financial resources. In the hypothesis of a division of legislative jurisdictions between the State of Quebec and a Canadian central state, it would be necessary to foresee a fiscal division different from that existing today, to correspond to the rearrangement of responsibilities, a rearrangement resulting both from a new constitution and from the changing of the nature and relative importance of governmental responsibilities in our modern world.

The sovereignty of Quebec in this group of fundamental fields constitutes the measure of self-determination which henceforth seems necessary to insure the development of Quebec's collective personality.



John Muir

Founders Of B.C.

There were 16 Indian war canoes in Fort Rupert Harbor when John Muir arrived—and 16 poles on the beach, each with a human head impaled on it. Because Mrs. Muir was the first white woman to land there, the Indians offered her a choice of any two of the grisly trophies. She declined.

This is part of the story of pioneer coal miner John Muir and his family as recorded by his son Michael. John Muir was Scottish born and raised as a miner. But in 1848 he signed on with Hudson's Bay Company and brought his family to Vancouver Island in the sailing vessel Harpooner. He landed at Victoria with his wife, four sons and a daughter and a group of friends and relatives—in all, a party of 17.

They soon departed for the mines at Fort Rupert where Muir sunk a shaft and Indian troubles resulted. The Indians wanted compensation for their land rights. This was no sooner smoothed over than labor problems arose with the white workers—among them Muir's son Andrew and his cousin, John McGregor. They not only objected to some phases of their duties, but they felt the company store was taking all their wages. The two young men organized Vancouver Island's first strike and were jailed for six days.

The family stayed at Fort Rupert less than two years. After a short sojourn in Nanaimo, Muir moved to Sooke in 1851, where they took over the estate of Capt. W. C. Grant, the first settler independent of the Hudson's Bay Company on the Island.

They built a fine farm with a dairy and imported cattle. Then they bought the engine from a wrecked steamer and set up a sawmill. Soon they were producing lumber for the coast, the Orient and Australia. The family business prospered. John Muir became a magistrate and in 1856 a member of the House of Assembly at Victoria, representing Sooke.

The Muir farm, "Woodside," was well known; so were the Muirs as the family multiplied. Mrs. Muir died in 1875 and John Muir in 1883. He was remembered as one of the most respected of Victoria district pioneers.

American Outlook on World One of 'Moral Impatience'

By SIR DENIS W. BROGAN

(Professor of political science at Cambridge University, Sir Denis is a long-time student of the United States and author of many books on the American scene.)

One of the most sagacious remarks about the American people was made by Mr. Dooley: "Americans are short-distance crusaders."

I used to quote this to my classes in Cambridge and Oxford as an explanation of a good deal of American life that puzzled, and even alarmed, the more phlegmatic English.

I used to point out that there was no example of any American winning any of the distance races in the Olympic Games; they won only in the sprints.

After the Tokyo Games, I could no longer say that. And I think it can be plausibly argued that since the Second World War, the Americans have shown a great deal of patience as well as the more generally admitted virtue of generosity.

●

Nevertheless, Mr. Dooley is still in many ways right. The United States would not exist in its present form if the Americans had not been short-distance crusaders, willing to try anything once and abandoning things that fail.

You can see the quickly abandoned enterprises all over the United States: future great cities that are barely villages; future great cities that are not even villages; "universities" that are barely colleges; railroads that do not start or end where their titles suggest. The United States is certainly not a country in which much is built to last forever. The reporter who was sent off by the New York World to cover a disastrous fire in Rome, N.Y., and reported: "This town was built in a day," was more than a humorist; he was an observer.

I have been reflecting a good deal since I last left the United States in April on the justice of this old complaint. In one way, the complaint is very unjust.

●

The United States has been at war, with comparatively short intervals, since 1941. It has not managed to liquidate its political investments or responsibiities with the ruthlessness shown by Gen. de Gaulle. It has not said, "Include me out," as a great part of Europe has done—with a good deal of moral smugness.

After all, the Vietnam war is about to enter its fifth year. The Korean war, before it, was the third most expensive war in men and money in American history. In the same way, many American acts of generosity have backfired.

The rulers of Austria said, after their empire had been saved by Russian intervention in Hungary in 1849, "We will astonish the world by our ingratitude." They did. And many of America's most generously subsidized states, for example, Pakistan, are doing just this at the moment.

Of course, even American folk wisdom insists on the folly of expecting gratitude. "Do a man a good turn and he'll never forgive you." And many Americans are beginning to realize that it was rash, if not downright silly, to expect gratitude even when American aid was given without strings "in a general honest thought and common good to all."

But there is something in the belief that American impatience is one of the weaknesses of American policy inside and outside the United States.

The fact that American history has been unprecedentedly successful, that it has known only one real catastrophe (the Civil War), that it has never lost a war (though sometimes it has only drawn) makes it easy for Americans to expect quick results from their rulers. If they do not get quick results, they assume that the rulers are incompetent monsters or even traitors.

●

All European countries have learned the hard way that even intelligent, patriotic and courageous rulers may fail because the odds are against them. Most European countries have national traditions of miracles to give hope in bad times. Americans are able to believe that their successes were their own doing.

Even if it could be argued that the American Revolution was saved by that great Admiral de Grasse, the fact that France was an ally of the United States was due to that most astute of diplomats, Benjamin Franklin, so that it was really an American victory after all—a judgment with which I agree.

But in the years that have followed the overwhelming victory of 1945—a victory as complete as that of 1865—the belief in what I called, in 1952, the "illusion of American omnipotence" has been more and more undermined.

It could be said that the Korean War was an American victory. It did what it attempted to do: prevented the taking over of the whole of Korea by the Communists of North Korea and, behind them, by the victorious Communist regime of Chairman Mao. But there was no Appomattox; there was no surrender at Rheims.

The Vietnam War is even more disconcerting; its results are far more ambiguous. There was something one could call a South Korean government, and perhaps it represented the Korean nation. Syngman Rhee was not a very successful or totally edifying national leader, but he was much more impressive than Diem.

●

Then when we consider the disparity in forces between the two sides, American impatience becomes very natural. After all, the most brilliant American achievement of the Korean War, Gen. MacArthur's landing at Inchon, was followed by the intervention of Communist China, which was, in potentiality at any rate, one of the greatest powers in the world.

But neither China nor the Soviet Union has openly intervened in the Vietnam War, and the continued resistance of this small, backward, recently created political unit is humiliating.

The weight of numbers, and overwhelmingly the weight of material, is on the side of the United States, even if we leave out, as I think we should, the army of South Vietnam.

Impatience has produced the politically disastrous and materially not very productive bombing of North Vietnam. But if the American people were as keyed up as many of their critics assert, they would support Gen. Curtis Lemay's proposals to "Bomb North Vietnam back to the Stone Age."

In this impatience, there is both the American temperament and the political naivete of aviators which I noticed in the RAF in the last war. But I don't think that at the end of April I saw much violent passion to end the war at once by exercising all American power.

And I am being told now by American visitors who were hawks a month or two ago that they think the movement of temper is not to blast North Vietnam out of existence but to find some way of getting out of the war with the least possible loss of face.

But there is something in the impatience charge, and the impatience is rather a moral impatience than a technical or practical impatience. The moral impatience comes from the dominant American Protestant, or rather "Puritan," tradition.

In this tradition, the moral commitment of the nation is tremendously important. You often have even Catholic American divines (e.g., the late Cardinal Gibbons) quoting holy writ: "Righteousness exalteth a nation."

Since it is righteousness that exalteth a nation, it is necessary that the acts of the nation should be righteous. This has meant some hard labor to maintain that righteousness exists, since the United States has got into such morally ambiguous wars as those against Mexico and Spain.

●

It would be possible to be ironical about this claim to righteousness, as were Gen. Grant, James Russell Lowell and Abraham Lincoln. But the desire to be right as well as victorious is deeply embedded in the American psyche.

At the present moment, this has its practical drawbacks. From what I hear and read, a great many Americans are at least as annoyed with the failure of the peoples of Europe to see the ethical grounds for American aims in Vietnam as they are with the failure to give any practical support to American action.

Americans may quite rightly resent the brusque condemnation of their position recently voted by the Labor Party conference in Britain.

Nevertheless, this kind of moral impatience, this demand for moral support, is a very important part of the American attitude to the outside world.

Nobel Literature Prize Has Political Overtones

By ROLAND HUNTFORD

STOCKHOLM—The Nobel Prize for Literature long ago abandoned its original intention of immediately rewarding original contributions to literature in favor of becoming either an accolade of mediocrity or the safe recognition of the accepted writer.

But only recently has it given the impression of being used as a diplomatic or political weapon.

This has been strengthened by the presentation of the 1967 prize to the Guatemalan writer, Miguel Asturias. The Swedish Academy, which awards the prize, gives as its reasons his "highly colored writings rooted in a national individuality and Indian traditions."

In a radio broadcast, Dr. Anders Oesterling, secretary of the Academy, mentioned especially three novels: Viento Fuerte (Strong Wind), El Papa Verde (Green pope), and Los Ljos de los Enterrados (The Eyes of the Interred) as instances of "a new and burning theme—the battle against the domination of the North American trusts in the shape of United Fruit."

These novels denounce in no uncertain terms "United States imperialism". By Dr. Oesterling's emphasis on this aspect, the impression has gained ground that it was this that the Swedish Academy was primarily interested in acknowledging.

The political tint to the Nobel Prize may be said to have started with the 1964 award to Jean-Paul Sartre. It was the Academy's first acknowledgement of left-wing intellectuals, although Sartre was so insulted at the thought of a "bourgeois" recognition, that he declined the prize.

The prize to Michael Sholokov in 1965 seemed to confirm the trend. This was clearly intended as an act of reconciliation to the Soviet government after the award of the Nobel Prize to Boris Pasternak in 1958. Both the Soviet authorities and Sholokov accepted it as such, and praised the Swedes for their action.

Pasternak was prevented by the Soviet authorities from going to Stockholm, and he was compelled to renounce the prize. His criticism of Soviet society in Dr. Zhivago was then considered high treason, more or less, and the Swedish award interference in Soviet domestic affairs.

Sholokov was one of Pasternak's harshest critics, and his smugness in accepting the prize in Stockholm did not exactly show the Swedish Academy in a good light.

The Sholokov award fell into place among the various diplomatic and other activities undertaken by the Swedes to improve relations with the Soviet Union.

Most Animals Develop A Body Support System

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

The problem of body support arose very early in the development of animals upon the earth, in fact even before animals began increasing in size beyond that of a single cell. As a result most groups developed some system of holding the body together thus enabling them to develop larger and more complex bodies.

Carl

There are a few exceptions. Most sea-anemones, jelly fishes and their relatives lack mechanical support yet some of them have attained considerable size. Sea anemones may be 8 to 10 inches in diameter and more than a foot high and jelly fishes range in size up to 6 feet across in the case of the giant "sea-blubber" of the Atlantic.

The various kinds of creatures that go under the general name of "worms" also attain considerable size without benefit of a skeleton, though some, such as the round worms have an outer coating of tough cuticle that helps support the body and a number of sea worms live in tubes of their own making which perform the same function.

While some single-celled animals such as foraminifers and radiolarians developed individual structures that might be called a skeleton the first group to use a support on a large scale is the sponges. In these animals the mass of cells which makes up the body is held together by a framwork of either needle-like spicules of silica or limestone or by a mesh of more flexible horny material called spongin. In either case the structural support enables the sponge to attain considerable size and complexity.

A support of another type is found in the starfish group. In these animals limestone plates are developed beneath the skin to form an interconnected meshwork which provides attachments for body parts yet allows for a considerable amount of bending and twisting. Their cousins, the sea-urchins, also have plates but these are now fused together to form a rounded shell which completely encloses the soft parts and at the same time provides a support for the moveable spines and tube feet.

A skeleton in the form of an enclosing solid shell is developed to its highest degree in the molluscs. In most clams and snails the shell can completely encompass the body in which case its function is chiefly that of protection rather than support but in slugs and cuttlefish which have much reduced shells, the reverse seems to be the case.

It would seem that the ideal skeleton is one that gives the greatest support to the body but at the same time provides maximum protection for the vital parts and permits free and easy movement of the appendages. These objectives have been achieved in nature in two very different ways by the development of a jointed shell covering the entire body as in arthropods and by developing a system of jointed rods and plates on the inside of the body as in vertebrates. Each has been eminently successful inasmuch as it has enabled members of these two great groups to dominate the animal kingdom during certain periods of history and indeed one sub-group, the insects, outstrips all others in diversity and numbers.

WOMAN STABBED 105 TIMES

Insanity Ruled as Man Not Guilty in LSD Killing

'THE CHAIR BEGAN TO BLEED'

NEW YORK (AP)—A jury has found Stephen Kessler not guilty by reason of insanity in the LSD slaying of his mother-in-law—believed one of the first homocide cases to involve the hallucinogenic drug.

Three times the New York State Supreme Court jury of 11 men and a woman had reported itself hopelessly deadlocked and each time the court directed the jury to try again. The verdict came Wednesday afternoon.

Justice Edward Thompson ordered the 32-year-old former medical student, who has admitted taking marijuana and LSD, placed in the custody of the State Mental Hygiene Authority.

With the announcement of acquittal after 12 hours of deliberation, the Harvard-educated Kessler burst into tears. Throwing his glasses on the defence table, he buried his face in his hands and sobbed: "I still say I don't know what happened. I had no reason to kill her. I loved her."

The lone spectator in the courtroom when the verdict arrived was his mother, Mrs. Henrietta Kessler, a faithful attendant during her son's four-week trial. She also wept.

Kessler could gain his freedom by proving that his insanity was temporary and that he now is of sound mind.

Kessler was charged with the first-degree murder April 11, 1966, of Florence Cooper, 57, his mother-in-law. She was stabbed 105 times in her Brooklyn apartment.

At no time during the trial did defence lawyer Maurice Edelbaum dispute the murder charge. The issue was Kessler's sanity and the LSD factor.

A defence psychiatrist testified that in talks with Kessler after the slaying the defendant told of taking his heaviest doses of LSD the weekend of the murder.

"The chair began to bleed," Kessler was quoted as saying. "It turned to wax and the wax began to drip as though it were melting.

"My feet were 10 feet from my head."

The prosecution contended that Kessler determined to remove Mrs. Cooper when she stood in the way of a reconciliation between himself and his estranged wife, Mari-Ann.

Group Elects Lane To Head New Slate

LANE
. . . new president

Dr. R. M Lane was named president of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria at the annual meeting Wednesday to succeed George Maycock.

Re-elected to two-year terms were Miss Olive Heritage, Gordon A. Brown, J. G. Lort, J. D. Wilson, Joseph Cubliffe and Anthony Roberts. Newly elected for two years are C. P. Wilson, Geoffrey Greenhalgh and Dr. Alan Gowans.

Also elected was Walter Stenner who will serve out the one year left open with the resignation of Prof. Tony Emery.

Also leaving the board this year are Clare Copeland and B. A. Tobin who headed this year's nominating committee.

Women Pour Cash Into Gallery Work

The women's committee of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria is more than a group of tea pourers.

In the past year, the annual meeting learned Wednesday, its 87 members have donated $500 to the culture fund; spent $300 on decorating the Harris Gallery; put $1,000 in trust; bought a $600 typewriter and donated $2,000 toward operating expenses.

It has conducted the picture loan plan and made $1,113; sold 11 pictures to raise $2,000, besides assisting in tours of the gallery and encouraging groups to make tours.

ART GALLERY HONORS KER

R. H. B. Ker was named honorary life vice-president of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Ker was honored for his work in the community and for the gallery.

He gave $30,000 for the construction of the Ker wing to commemorate the 100 years his family had lived in B.C.

SHARP INCENTIVE FROM HIGH TAXATION

Make Firms Pay for Pollution, Conservationist Urges

Pollution is always "the use of a public resource for private profit," a public meeting was told Wednesday night.

The comment came from Roderick Haig-Brown, noted conservationist, author and magistrate from Campbell River.

He said this is most obvious in the case of private pollution, but it was equally unjustified from municipalities—"a mortgage payable by future generations."

Speaking to about 400 persons in the McPherson Playhouse, he said:

"Pollution laws put the onus on the sufferer to prove damage. Pollution is most easily detected at source—it should be taxed there till it costs more to pollute than to clean up."

EXAMINE WASTE

This, he said, would be to the long-term benefit of industry because it would make it examine waste in realistic economic terms.

Nearly all waste has value, but the problem was to learn how to get the value from it.

This happened in the case of Cominco's Trail smelter, which at one time was ruining farms and forests across the border and bringing complaints.

As a result, the company is "making as much or more money" from pollution recovery as other aspects of operation.

Taxation would provide "a very sharp incentive" for pulp and paper mill waste. If technical problems could not be solved immediately, most of the waste could go back to the forests "as the farmer puts manure back."

PULP MILLS

Air pollution from pulp mills "streams over the forests lands" and it was time someone answered the question: How much in loss of annual forest increment is this type of pollution causing?

Turning to Portage Inlet and the Gorge, main subject of the meeting, he said this area is to Victoria what Lake Washington is to Seattle.

"That was a problem that was bigger than the Gorge and that was cleaned up," he said.

"The Gorge is obviously an extremely complex issue. The answers won't be simple. They will take time.

"There should be a guiding principle—restoration, preservation and enhancement of the whole natural ecology.

"Action can only come about through the continuing interest of taxpayers. There is nothing like a local quarrel over the details of plans to take the pressure off politicians."

He called the Gorge a "grossly wasted asset and a betrayal of the (Victoria) site chosen in 1843. It has to be brought back as an asset."

Provincial and federal governments must provide leadership and subsidies to attack pollution and "all the fair words are nothing unless governments, and taxpayers behind them really mean them."

BEAUTIFUL CITY

Mr. Haig-Brown called Victoria one of the "three or four" most beautiful cities in Canada.

"I would like to think that people reading such a statement 100 or 200 years from now would say: Yes, and it is still true"

On the asset side today, he listed gardens, trees, Beacon Hill Park, Centennial Square, downtown rejuvenation, "magnificent" legislative building, "fine" new courthouse and "wonderful" university.

On the critical side there was mill smoke, sewage outfalls on Marine Drive and the Gorge.

Aquatic biologist Dr. Alan Austin of the University of Victoria said the activities of man can result in changes occurring in a matter of decades which would have taken thousands of years under natural change.

Wastes formed nutrients for plants which form food for other organisms and these features tend to build up and enrich the muddy bottom of Portage Inlet.

The depth of the waters was decreasing and he projected this will lead to mudflats, then salt marshes and when the tide can't climb over them a fresh water area.

Despite man's capacity to destroy a natural system, "we have not shown an ability to improve natural situations."

He suggested cutting off of waste dumping, cleaning up a 30-square-mile drainage area, possibly sweeping algae off the surface.

It would take many generations, he said, and the real value of such a natural feature "will not be realized in our generation."

Saanich and Esquimalt have already announced a study, assisted with advice from university experts, on the whole Colquitz drainage area from Elk Lake to the Gorge.

Lloyd Smith, president of Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Society which sponsored the meeting, said "never was any society so happy to have its thunder stolen. We are completely in accord with the step that has been taken."

Other speakers at the meeting included Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant, who gave details of last weekend's study announcement, engineer John Graeme, who reviewed the many studies done in the last 16 years, and Aubry Kent, who recalled the heyday of the Gorge 60 years ago.

Joint Efforts On Marijuana Probe Urged

A Uvic psychology professor Wednesday proposed a federal government liaison with U.S. government marijuana research.

Dr. Gordon Hobson, acting head of the psychology department, said unless Canada already has access to competent studies, a close eye should be kept on the U.S. National Institute of Mental Health.

The U.S. government has placed a high priority on studies by the institute, which may take two years. It is hoped to determine whether dangers of the drug have been exaggerated.

TWO POINTS

Dr. Hobson recently wrote to Ottawa regarding feasibility of marijuana research by his department, although he pointed out today earlier reports of his interest missed two points.

"We're not evangelistic about this. We believe this work should be done by the federal government or sponsored by the federal government."

Also, Dr. Hobson said it may be that research already is conclusive in Canada. He has not had an opportunity to search out any pertinent journals in existing libraries.

When Ottawa rejected the suggestion research might be undertaken here and it was pointed out that possession of marijuana even for research is illegal, Dr. Hobson wrote again to R. C. Hammond, chief of the division of narcotics control.

LAST YEAR

He asked to be informed of references supporting the official position. It was based on a decision by the United Nations Narcotic Commission in Geneva last year.

"I haven't heard from them yet," he said.

If it develops that Canada has no adequate source of research (and Dr. Hobson said he meant this kindly), then the U.S. studies offer an opportunity to improve our knowledge.

"I don't know what has been done or is being done in Canada. But I deduce that if it's illegal, no work is being done.

"If so, it behooves our government to keep in touch," he said.

HOME GARDEN

Soil Work In Gale Challenging

By HILDA BEASTALL

Winter vegetables in the home garden are of such great value that neglect of them should be rated as a family crime.

Hilda

The fact of being able to grow leeks, turnips, parsnips, brussels sprouts and winter cabbages (naming the more commonly grown) is a privilege afforded by our coastal location.

Their care during the winter months entails time spent in rain or chilly winds to see that the roots are not becoming exposed, or loosened by gales.

This loosening of roots is a quite serious menace to the cabbage tribe. It will prevent tight "buttons" forming on brussels sprout plants, and reduce heading of cabbages.

Half an hour a week is well spent in firming the plants into the soil with the feet. Cabbages like a firm soil because they have a rather hard, woody root, not a mass of fine roots like a lettuce.

MUDDY WATER

Tall sprout plants should have had a stake placed near them in September, and two firm ties may be needed for each plant. Lacking this support, they may soon be whirling in pools of muddy water, and produce nothing of value because the roots will be loose.

As the season progresses, some yellow leaves will develop. These can be removed as they appear since they are no longer useful to the plants. If they drop and lie on the soil, fungus troubles are encouraged as they rot. On the compost heap with other unwanted leaves of turnip, leek and parsnip they may decompose safely when covered with a sprinkling of soil.

MESSY JOB

Pulling or digging the root vegetables from wet soil is a messy job. I have no illusions about it, but I do find ways to make it less unpleasant.

One is to use a pair of old, easily washed woollen gloves to protect the hands from the ice-cold water clinging to the leaves. Put on in the house when they are clean, warm and dry, they keep hands just comfortable for the one job of getting the required quantity of vegetables.

A pail or tub of water outdoors, emptied perhaps once a week, is used for giving the roots a quick clean-up before taking them into the kitchen for further cleansing.

3 Per Cent Housing Rate Suggested

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal government should lend money for housing at three per cent instead of the new mortgage rate of 8¼ per cent, the British Columbia Federation of Labor was told Tuesday.

"That's the best investment Canada could make," said John Hayward, of the Amalgamated Transit Union. "Money at 8¼ per cent is just usury and any government lending money at these rates should not be in office."

Delegates to the federation's annual convention passed a number of resolutions calling for government aid in housing.

They included a housing board with power to set maximum interest rates, rents and purchase prices and a call for unions to tell their memberships about the present availability of housing funds.

BOOK TELLS POLICE HISTORY

Get Tough With Crime Urges Ex-RCMP Chief

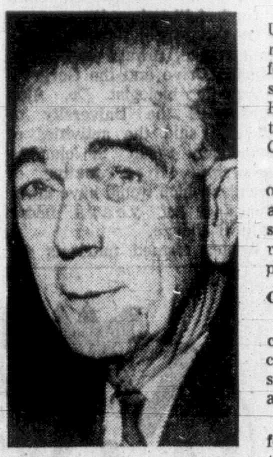
A hard reasoned argument for tougher laws to control organized crime was made in Victoria Wednesday by C. W. Harvison, retired commissioner of the RC[illegible]

He was [illegible]ity on a cross-Canada to[illegible]blicize his new book, The [illegible]men, which is not only an autobiography but also an account of h[illegible]e RCMP developed from [illegible]early frontier days to bec[illegible] a modern police force.

Mr. Harvison, 65, wrot[illegible] book in two years aft[illegible] retirement from the RCMP in 1963 but his writing was interrupted by one year when he served as an adviser on police affairs to the Trinidad government.

He said the biggest surprise he has had since the book was published is the publicity given to his statements that U.S. crime syndicates are deeply involved in Canadian crime.

He said, "I didn't think that was news any longer. To my positive knowledge the U.S. crime syndicates have been selling services in Canada for 30 years."



HARVISON
... new methods.

Mr. Harvison said back in the thirties the better organized and financed American criminals supplied equipment and techniques for illgeal distilling and track information for unlawful gambling.

He said there is now deep U.S. involvement in Canada in narcotics, counterfeiting and fake stock rackets. He said the syndicates operate mostly in Eastern Canada but their activities are spreading to the West Coast.

Mr. Harvison said the well-organized crime organizations are gaining on the police and he said part of the blame is the restrictive laws that hamper police prosecutions.

CRIME GANGS

He favors the treating of criminals who form part of a criminal organization more stringently than individuals who are first or second offenders.

He said criminals are not forced to answer police questions or to take the witness stand in their own defence if they are charged, nor may a judge point out to a jury that an accused person has not taken the stand.

He said such a restriction is unjustifiable today. He said he did not want to force accused persons to prove their innocence but the least that could be done is to at least point out to a jury that they haven't given evidence on their own behalf. He said, "If they are innocent they should have no fear of the truth."

MODERN WORLD

Former commissioner Harvison said many legal rules today were developed a long time ago and are totally unsuited to modern conditions.

Alerting the public to the dangers of organized crime as well as pointing out what he considers to be the need to change some of the rules were two of the reasons he wrote the book.

But it may not be his last venture in authorship. His publisher has already suggested an outline of a second volume.

Rites Set Saturday For Royalty's Friend

A Victoria man who fought beside King George VI at the battle of Jutland died here Tuesday at the age of 75.

John Jenkins, who was acquainted with many members of the British Royal Family, died at his home at 791 Pandora.

During the First World War Mr. Jenkins served as a petty officer aboard HMS Collingwood with King George VI, then Prince Albert.

He often recounted how the young prince called the range while he swung the 12-inch guns in the forward turret of the battleship, his wife said.

WAS GUARD

When the Collingwood later carried members of the Royal Family overseas, Mr. Jenkins had the opportunity to meet them while acting as guard.

"He knew such people as the Duke of Windsor and Earl Mountbatten, Prince Philip's uncle, and several others," Mrs. Jenkins said.

He spoke to Queen Elizabeth as a nursing orderly, when the Queen visited Canada in 1951.

"He told her he knew her father and she was very friendly," she said.

Mr. Jenkins came to Canada in 1920 after he left the Royal Navy. He had lived in Victoria since 1964.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. from Hayward's Funeral Chapel with Rev. Dr. J. W. L. McLean officiating. Burial will be at Colwood.

Besides his wife, Mr. Jenkins is survived by three brothers, William in Terrace, and Alec and James in Winnipeg.

Cabinet To Assist Project

The provincial cabinet Wednesday agreed to pay a 25 per cent share toward the $700,000 pilot project in public housing planned by Saanich municipality.

The mone[illegible]ill be used to purchase 5[illegible]xisting homes scattered through the municipality for rental at special rates to low income families.

Under the arrangement, Saanich municipality will not have to contribute any of the capital cost.

The federal government will put up $525,000 through Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation and the provincial government will provide $175,000.

Card Cheater Jailed

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Rodivoje Nikolic, 28, of Prince George, Tuesday was sentenced to one year in prison after he was found guilty in magistrate's court of cheating at cards. The charge was laid Aug. 19 following a police raid on a construction camp card game at Hudson Hope. The raid was preceded by an undercover RCMP investigation.

SNOWFALL STALLS CHAIN-LESS CARS

REVELSTOKE (CP)—A 10-inch snowfall on the Rogers Pass section of the Trans-Canada Highway Wednesday stalled several cars without snow tires or chains. Police said the cars had to be towed off the summit of the pas.

Light snow also fell Wednesday at Allison Pass on the Hope-Princeton Highway, but traffic was not affected.

INDUSTRIAL POLLUTION is raising a big stink at Niagara Falls. Filthy brown sludge collects in pools near Maid of the Mist dock on the Canadian side. (CP Wirephoto.)

Famed Honeymoon Mecca Just Like Septic Tank

By JACK GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The smelly Niagara River, still famed for its beauty and its honeymooners, may become known as the biggest—and most poisonous—septic tank in North America.

The filth, including cynamide, in the international waters of what was once one of the best fishing areas on the Great Lakes has prompted Senator Robert Kennedy of New York to ask for a Canadian-United States conference on the situation.

The Niagara was the worst case turned up in a survey of air and water pollution in Ontario by The Canadian Press.

The survey was backed up Friday by allegations — which the Ontario government said it would investigate — that two farmers were suffering from flurosis brought on by fumes from a Dunnville area fertilizer plant.

And Wednesday, Alderman Tony O'Donohue of Toronto jabbed at an air pollution problem becoming more or less acute over Ontario's booming industrial cities.

He told board of control that air samples in downtown Toronto showed pollution "considerably above the level assumed dangerous by the U.S. Public Health Service."

He blamed sulphur dioxide, which city officials said is spewed from chimneys over Toronto to the amount of more than 100,000 tons a year.

But the black Niagara situation overshadowed every other area in the province.

Joseph A. Montgomery, industrial manager of the Niagara Falls, Ont., Chamber of Commerce, said 1,200,000 pounds of solids daily, including 1,000 pounds of cynamide and 75,000 pounds of oil and grease, are dumped into the river from Buffalo and Lackawanna, N.Y., industries.

JOINT AGREEMENT

The dangerous pollution exists despite a regulation of the International Joint Commission, which administers Canada-U.S. boundary waters, that one country is not allowed to pollute the waters of the other.

The survey elsewhere showed both good and bad features emerging in a situation where increasing population and industry yearly add to difficulties.

The government recently announced all 1969-model motor vehicles must have anti-pollution devices on their exhausts.

Industry and municipalities are moving into line to spend the millions of dollars it takes to keep air and water clean.

The Ontario Public Health Association convention at Niagara Falls Thursday was told that the government is planning to fight air pollution by taking over control from municipalities step by step, with provincial inspectors taking over jurisdiction.

W. B. Drowley, provincial pollution control chief, said Metropolitan Toronto's program will be taken over on Jan. 1, followed by the Hamilton, Peel County and London programs later next year.

Campbell Will Attend Housing Meet

Premier Bennett said Wednesday he is sending Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell in his place to attend a federal-provincial conference in Ottawa on housing and urban development.

The conference was called for Dec. 11 by Prime Minister L. Pearson in invitations sent to all provincial premiers last week.

However, Mr. Bennett declined comment on another telegram sent him this week by the Citizens Housing Council of Vancouver asking for a special session of the provincial legislature immediately to deal with the housing crisis in B.C.

It's Dry Down There So Far

At 110-feet and still going.

But as yet, no sign of the big strike.

That's the word from Beacon Hill Park where drilling crews are seeking an alternative water supply to take some of the pressure off city taxpayers.

Parks superintendent Herb Warren said the crew will go to 150 feet before pausing to appraise the situation.

If they find the deep well they are looking for the water will be used to supply Goodacre Lake and the other smaller ponds in the Beacon Hill chain.

Two Impaired Drivers Fined

Two men were fined in magistrate's court Wednesday for impaired driving.

Charles Stobbs, 587 O'Connell Place, was fined $350 after court was told his car collided with the rear of a car stopped for a red light at Lampson and Esquimalt Oct. 17.

Dennis Craddock, HMCS Qu'Appelle, was fined $250. Court was told he was driving in an erratic manner on Atkins Avenue Sept. 25, and his car ended up with the front wheels off the road.

BRITISH LABOR LEADER HITS BACK

Red 'Plot' Called Nonsense

LONDON (CP)—Britain's Labor government, beset by big and costly labor disputes, is finding little agreement with its claim that it's all part of a Communist-Trotskyite plot.

The latest dissenter is George Woodcock, powerful general secretary of the government-supporting Trades Union Congress, who calls it "nonsense."

Woodcock's scornful rejoinder Wednesday was a direct slap at both Prime Minister Wilson and Labor Minister Ray Gunter, who for weeks have been vainly trying to figure out, particularly, how to halt dock stoppages at London and Liverpool which are striking at the heart of the country's vulnerable exports.

Gunter alleged last week that Communists and Trotskyites, normally implacable enemies, are ganging up to create a "winter of disruption" for Britain.

SETTLEMENT FAILS

Wilson quickly seconded the idea. After failing in an unprecedented attempt to work out a settlement personally at Liverpool last weekend, he said in Parliament that he has evidence of the Red plot.

"Until I see some evidence, I flatly refuse to believe it," Woodcock said after a meeting of the TUC's general council.

He spoke of government "blathering" and added that "evidence" produced by Wilson about Communists in a seamen's strike last year amounted to "damn all."

Secretary Frank Cousins of the big Transport and General Workers Union—whose members are on wildcat strikes at the two key ports—also has rejected the allegation.

So has Communist Leader John Gollan.

In Parliament Wednesday, Wilson was challenged to produce his "evidence." Conservative Neil Marten asked him to tell more about the plot so Britain will be "forewarned." There was no immediate answer.

Meanwhile, the London-Liverpool stoppages continued to pile up a heavy bill of expense. The Export Houses Association estimated Wednesday night that more than £200,000,000 ($600,000,000) of export goods are being held up as 143 ships lie idle. More than 60 per cent of the country's shipments abroad go through the two ports.

The two strikes began separately in September.

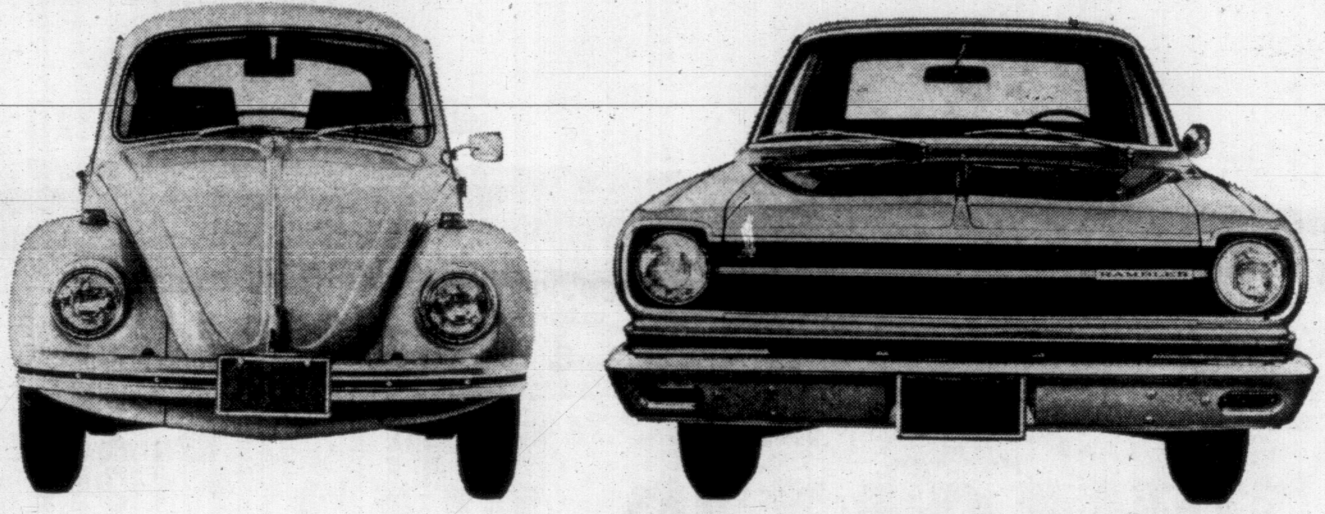
For basic transportation, this was a good idea.



We're taking it one step further.

The VW approach to basic transportation—no change for the sake of change—makes sense. We're taking that same approach and applying it to a domestic compact: our Rambler American.

The result is an improvement on the basic idea. Our Rambler American seats six. It has a real family sized trunk. It's powered by a modern 128 hp Six; a 145 hp Six and a 200 or 225 hp V8 are optional. You can order a 3-speed automatic transmission. It has a heater designed for Canadian winters. It is covered by a 2 year/24,000 mile warranty on the complete car plus a 5 year/50,000 mile warranty on the complete power train. *

And because we have discontinued the annual model change for the Rambler American, we've been able to price it between the too small imports and the too costly compacts.

Not only is the initial cost lower, but the cost of replacements will also be lower—and resale value will be higher.

If you and your family have outgrown the import you now own—don't change your thinking. Just take it one step further—to a Rambler American from your nearby American Motors/Rambler dealer.

Here's the proof that dollar for dollar, Rambler American is the best automotive value in the world.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most of the activity was concentrated in oilseeds in dull trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Oats and barley trade was light and domestic.

Rye prices held to a narrow range in light trade aided to some extent by firm Chicago grain prices.

Lakehead prices for IWA, class two and domestic wheat were down one cent.

Tingling Cash Tune For Beatles

LONDON (UPI) — The Beatles played another tinkling tune when they checked in on the stock exchange with the full year's results for their Northern Songs Company.

During the year to the end of April, pre-tax profits climbed from 614,000 pounds ($2.28 million) to nearly 843,000 pounds ($2.36 million) and the directors are stepping up the total dividend payment from 40 to 56 per cent with the payment of a final of 32 per cent.

The directors emphasize that of the increase, 165,000 pounds ($462,000) of net income from royalties is attributable to Lenmac Enterprises Ltd., which owns rights over songs composed by John Lennon and Paul McCartney, and was acquired by the company earlier this year.

Shareholders have already been told that profits from Lenmac will be "substantially less" in future.

Former Mine Officer Wins Injunction

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edward Dobell, former secretary-treasurer of Cowichan Copper Co., won a Supreme Court order preventing the sale of 450,000 of the company's treasury shares to anyone but himself.

The injunction, granted by Mr. Justice Peter Seaton, against the company and its president Osgood MacDonald, is good until the trial of Mr. Dobell's action for damages for breach of contract.

Mr. Dobell claims breach of an agreement he entered into with Mr. MacDonald to lend the company $100,000.

He said he put up $90,000 and Mr. MacDonald advanced the other $10,000. The money was secured by a company debenture with the privilege of converting it to shares at 20 cents each.

Court was told a dispute arose between the two men following the agreement and a proxy battle ensued in which Mr. Dobell was ousted as a director at the company's annual meeting in April.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Seaton said Mr. Dobell exercised his conversion privilege but was unable to get his shares. He said that if Mr. Dobell had converted his shares before the annual meeting the results of director balloting would have been different.

Blame Tax Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Gulf and Western Industries' directors have dropped a plan to acquire the outstanding shares of Famous Players Canadian Corp. Ltd. but approved in principle a merger with Universal American Corp.

Gulf and Western owns 51 per cent of Famous Players, but plans to acquire the outstanding shares were scrapped Wednesday because of tax problems.

A spokesman said Gulf and Western is expected to make a revised offer shortly, which ultimately would mean reorganizing part of Famous Players' operations and Gulf of Western's Canadian operations into a separate corporation.

Famous Players operates 308 theatres, distributes motion pictures and has interest in several Canadian television stations and community antenna television systems.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Washington Gets Tough

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Kent

If B.C. legislators need encouragement for stiffening anti-pollution policy and enforcement, they need look only to Puget Sound where eight paper mills have been served the ultimatum: clean up or close.

Even though the pulp and paper industry is one of the most valuable in the West, the state of Washington acting jointly with the federal government feels the tourist and fishing industries are too valuable to jeopardize by waste solids and sulphite liquor.

This is one of the more stringent views taken by government in a pollution war that is gathering momentum.

Puget Sound paper makers include Crown Zellerbach Corp., Scott Paper Co. and Weyerhauser Co., who say a program to clean up 80 per cent of waste solids and sulphite liquor would cost $90 million.

The solids problem has to be licked by Sept. 30, 1970 and by 1972 substantial progress has to be shown toward eliminating the liquor waste.

Weyerhauser says such a tough attitude may be met with closure of its Everett mill, and Fibreboard Paper Corp. questions whether such an outlay could be made without some return.

* * *

The policy was handed down by a three-man panel, consisting of two federal Water Pollution Control Administration representatives and one from the Washington State pollution enforcement bureau.

Impetus to anti-pollution measures has been given by an aroused public, even though pollution control has been in effect to a degree for more than 20 years in Washington.

There is indication that when current five-year permits for effluent disposal expire Dec. 18, the new rule may be incorporated in renewal provisions.

Areas around Bellingham, Anacortes, Everett and Port Angeles are heavily dependent on the paper complexes operated by Georgia-Pacific Corp., Rayonier Inc., Simpson Lee Paper Co. and the others mentioned.

The panel's decision was based primarily on the finding that pulp waste is damaging to shell and other fisheries.

At the same time, industry through its own studies has found that fish thrive in some contaminated water and that known levels of sulphite liquor waste in outer bays and harbors are not harmful to other water users.

The outcome of this confrontation will be watched avidly by the B.C. pulp, paper and mining industries, and by conservationists, recreationists, health authorities and the fishing industry, all with interests in virtually the same waters as flow in and out of Puget Sound.

B.C. benefited by tourists to the tune of $280 million this year, estimates the provincial department of travel industry.

Most of it was spent on food, $81.2 million, according to a new brochure published by the Queen's Printer. Other leading items were travel at $67.2 million; lodging, $56 million; retail buying at $47.6 million, with entertainment ($16.8 million) and all other spending trailing ($11.2 million).

The estimate is $13 million more than what tourists are calculated to have spent in this province last year.

Western Mines Ltd. estimates its quarterly earnings at Sept. 30 as $766,000 before interest and depreciation, and pre-production writeoff. The previous quarter estimate was $633,291, and both are unaudited. A complete report will be ready about mid-November.

Manpower Problem in Mining

FREDERICTON (CP) — Canada's mineral industry is faced with a manpower crisis of unprecedented proportions, President E. D. Brown of the Canadian institute of mining and metallurgy said Wednesday.

"The future growth of the industry will remain in serious jeopardy until this problem is solved," Mr. Brown said in a statement released here.

By 1970, he said, the mineral industry would require an additional 14,000 employees to maintain its current rate of growth. Last year Canada's mineral production value exceeded $4,000,000,000.

INTERNATIONAL SILVER DECLARES STOCK SPLIT

NEW YORK (AP) — International Silver Co. directors declared a 2-for-1 common stock split Wednesday.

The split is scheduled for distribution Dec. 1 to holders of record Nov. 16.

Net income of the world's largest silverware manufacturer for the three months ended Sept. 30 was $2,703,000 or 75 cents a share compared with $2,559,000 or 73 cents a share a year earlier.

AGREEMENT RATIFIED

Ford Workers Return to Jobs

DETROIT (Reuters)—More than 160,000 Ford workers were ready to return to factories across the U.S. today after approving a strike-ending agreement described as the richest in the history of the U.S. motor industry.

But it will be several days before the Ford plants—idle for seven weeks—will be producing cars again.

The new work contract ending the nationwide strike was accepted overwhelmingly, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, announced Wednesday night. The agreement ratification made it effective immediately.

Reuther said workers should begin returning to their jobs today and Friday. However, local disputes may block a quick return to work at as many as 33 plants.

The contract provides for an immediate 20 cent-an-hour pay rise for production workers and an additional 30 cents an hour for skilled tradesmen.

The union also did not achieve one major goal—wage parity for Ford workers in Canada, but Reuther has said the union would continue to press for this. Canadian workers make 35 cents less an hour than their U.S. counterparts.

COSTLY WALKOUT

The strike, fourth longest in the U.S. car industry history, began Sept. 6, when a three-year contract expired.

It was estimated to have cost Ford about $1,000,000,000 in lost production and the strikers nearly $170,000,000 in wages.

Many workers in Ford plants in Canada were laid off during the strike because of a lack of car parts for assembling in Canada.

The union hopes to make the Ford agreement the model for agreements to be sought with General Motors and Chrysler.

LONDON (Reuters)—Ford Motor Co.'s assembly lines halted today and 9,000 men were out of work because one machine operator refused to make a tool change.

This stopped the daily output of about 2,500 Cortina Zephyr, Zodiac and Anglia models. About half normally go for export.

The dispute over who should change the cutting head of a machine in a Ford crankshaft department threatened another crushing blow at Britain's economy.

BM BOOSTS DIVIDEND

TORONTO (CP)—The Bank of Montreal declared a dividend of 12 cents plus 4 cents extra payable Dec. 1, to shareholders of record Oct. 31.

New Housing Starts Up In September

OTTAWA (CP)—Starts were made on 13,479 new houses and apartments in September, an increase of 33 per cent over housing starts a year earlier, but the annual rate of construction eased slightly, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. reported today.

The Crown-owned housing agency said the rate of construction represented 140,600 housing units a year, down from the rate of 146,300 a year represented in the 13,343 housing starts in August.

The figures apply to urban centres of 10,000 population and over.

CMHC said there continued to be a low level of mortgage lending by the banks, trust and insurance companies before the maximum interest rate allowed under the national Housing Act was raised to 8¼ per cent from 7½ at the end of the month.

All of the decline in the housing starts trend in September was in single detached dwellings. There was a significant increase in the number of new apartments started.

GAINS IN ALL AREAS

Housing starts in all areas of Canada, urban and rural, during July, August and September, were 41.7 per cent higher than a year ago at 56,634. This represents an annual rate of 178,400, taking seasonal variations in the construction industry into account.

The Economic Council of Canada has said that the country needs 180,000 new houses and apartments a year, rising to 200,000 by the end of the 1960s, to keep up with the growth of population and family formations.

In the larger urban areas, September starts included 4,002 single detached houses, down 5.5 per cent from a year ago; 734 duplex and semi-detached houses, up 51 per cent from a year ago; 685 row-housing units, up 18.5 per cent from a year ago, and 13,479 apartments, up 66.6 per cent.

There were 10,684 housing units completed during September, compared with 10,728 in August, and seven per cent higher than a year earlier. During September, there were 84,477 houses and apartments under construction, compared with 81,652 in August and up 21.3 per cent from a year earlier.

ENERGY BOARD TOLD

Additional Gas Exports Would Mean Lower Rates

VANCOUVER (CP) — A senior official of Westcoast Transmission Company told the National Energy Board Wednesday that approval of its application to export additional natural gas to the United States would allow the firm to reduce its rates to its major Canadian consumers.

D. P. McDonald, senior vice-president of Westcoast, gave this assurance to the board, which is holding a public hearing into Westcoast's application for an alteration in its licence to permit a reduction in the price it will receive for natural gas exported to El Paso Natural Gas Company in the United States.

Mr. McDonald said Westcoast has not signed a firm agreement with its Canadian consumers, Inland Natural Gas Company and British Columbia Hydro, but said a consolidated offer made to each company could be taken as the maximum rate.

He said the main basis for consideration of the application should be whether the export is in the Canadian public interest.

The key question before the board, which opened its hearing here Tuesday, is whether the board will approve the daily export of an additional 200,000,000 cubic feet of Canadian gas to El Paso daily at a price dictated by the U.S. Federal Power Commission.

Earlier this year, the board approved Westcoast's original application for permission to sell additional gas to El Paso at 35.42 cents a thousand cubic feet, deeming the price fair and reasonable.

Subsequently, the U.S. commission ruled that El Paso could not pay more than 29.5 cents.

Westcoast now is seeking Canadian approval for a price agreement signed Oct. 2 on the terms outlined by the U.S. authority.

Mr. McDonald said the proposed price scale is comparable to Canadian rates.

Royal Trust Boosts Rate

MONTREAL (CP)—The Royal Trust announced Wednesday it is increasing the interest rate paid on savings accumulation accounts to 5 per cent from 4½.

The new rate will become effective Nov. 1. It is calculated on the minimum monthly balance and payable semi-annually.

Lower Earnings

TORONTO (CP)—Loblaw Groceterias Co., Ltd., had slightly lower earnings in the fiscal year ended June 3, due in large part to consumer protests in the United States over higher food prices, the company's annual report says.

It shows consolidated net income of $16,054,000 or $15.35 a share, compared with $16,775,000 or $16.08 in the previous fiscal year.

Mao Delivers New Thought: Stop Revolting and Grow

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A new round of "urgent appeals" to peasants to concentrate on production, along with other reports from Asia, raises the possibility that China is headed for a food crisis next year.

Peasants are warned repeatedly by newspapers and local broadcasts that their work is "bound up with preparations for war and famine." They are ordered to stop participating in the cultural revolution violence, to stick to their farms and indulge in "revolutionary work" only after hours.

An indication of official worry, belying broadcast boasts of bountiful crops, comes in reports from elsewhere in Asia that the Chinese have sought unsuccessfully to buy rice abroad. They already are buying wheat in Canada and elsewhere.

Peasants in some areas are urged to grow two crops annually, both wheat and rice. This evidently is opposed by peasants unaccustomed to wheat production.

The signs are that the cultural revolution's violence caused serious disruption of farm production. In addition, China's press and radio have spoken frequently of natural calamities in spring and summer. These reports say application of "Mao Tse-tung's thinking" overcame such setbacks, but the tone of many broadcasts contradicts this.

In the spring, China's press reported serious difficulties in many areas, including Honan, Kirin, Kwangsi, Kiangsu, Tsinghai and Kwangtung provinces. In some areas insufficient rain and snow in recent years brought drought conditions. Some areas reported spring floods followed by late summer drought. Tsinghai reported capricious weather: excessive rain at sowing time, waterlogging, insect pests and the like, and then September drought. Kwangtung reported a huge farm area badly affected by spring cold and summer drought.

The rural area around Shanghai reported drought in August and called for a "people's war" against it.

Recently Honan, an important rice-growing area, got an "urgent notice" from the Communist party and its military commission in Peking, demanding total army and militia support to farmers in autumn harvesting, plowing and sowing. The order was duplicated in other areas.

China is more isolated now than ever and may find severe difficulty in making up prospective shortages. Even if China were on good terms with her neighbors—which she is not—there would be little rice available for purchase.

China's mainland ally, North Vietnam, also faces rice troubles which will be difficult for Peking to relieve. Drought in August seriously affected many state farms, says Hanoi's agriculture ministry.

Militia To Honor Pearkes

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes is being showered with farewell ceremonies despite his agreement to an extension of duty until next spring.

A Government House spokesman said a number of goodbye parties were arranged prior to the announcement and the sponsors are following through on them.

Latest of these is a testimonial dinner at New Westminster Saturday. The Militia Training Conference there coincides with a tribute planned by B.C.'s 14 militia units. When Mr. Pearkes' official leave-taking was set for the end of this month.

A guard of honor and artillery salute will preface the dinner. It will be attended by more than 250 militia officers from all parts of the province.

Pleads Guilty In Pub Theft

Joseph Manseau, 24, of No. 34, 855 Douglas St., pleaded guilty in magistrate's court Wednesday to stealing $27 from a woman in a pub Tuesday evening.

Court was told Manseau struck up a conversation with a woman in the Royal Olympic beer parlor and eventually joined her table.

She left the table for a few moments, and when she returned, $27 and a movie pass were missing from her purse.

She called police and gave them a description of the alleged thief. Police officers apprehended Manseau a short time later.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the case to Nov. 3 for pre-sentence report.

Home for Museum

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's war museum got a new and official home Wednesday. The home is on Sussex Drive, the first building the museum can really call its own. Up to now, it has been living in a temporary building adjacent to The Mint.

ACCUSED mass murderer Leo Held died today in a Lock Haven, Pa. hospital of bullet wounds suffered in gun battle with police Monday. His death rules out chance of ever learning what led to his killing of six people and wounding a like number. Police had not questioned him because of critical nature of his wounds and because of fear of violating his constitutional rights. (AP Wirephoto)

Stokeley to Return

CAIRO (AP)—Stokely Carmichael, sayn he plans to return to the United States soon to organize a "mass boycott of the 1968 U.S. presidential elections." Carmichael, currently visiting here, told the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram he plans his return shortly after travelling to a number of "friendly countries." So far he has visited North Vietnam, Cuba, Guinea, Algeria and Syria.

BABY BONUS EYED IN U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—A program to give every child in the United States a cash allowance—similar to the family allowance program in Canada—has been proposed by a conference that studied the matter. The U.S. grants would range from $10 to $25 a month.

About 50 experts in business, economics, labor, civil rights, government and social policy argued the matter for three days and agreed that it would be a good thing for the federal government to start planning along those lines.

Remember Don Hamilton? Doug Fletcher does. Hamilton played lacrosse, diaper league through junior company, for Fletcher who invented the game here.

"I used to referee the games in outdoor boxes," Fletcher was saying this week. "Often they would stretch into dusk.

"With holes in the goalnets and players obscuring your view it was difficult to tell whether a goal was legitimate or not. But it was never that way with Hamilton. He would admit it promptly.

DON HAMILTON
. . . tribute from Kamloops

"When Don wasn't playing he would assist with coaching. His attitude was never 'How much do I get?' but 'What can I do to help'?"

Subsequently Hamilton played on three Minto Cup (junior) champion teams. In 1961 with Victoria Shamrocks he held Peterborough scoreless in a Mann Cup playoff game. No goalkeeper before or since has matched that mark.

He left the boxla beat on that note and little had been heard about him since.

Except in Kamloops.

Transferred there from Calgary, he organized a Senior B and a junior team, set up a minor program which has grown to 150 embryo Jack Biondas, age six to 21.

When he left recently to take a promotion in Vancouver, the Kamloops Sentinel paid him a tribute that would make the town's galloping pinup boy Phil Gaglardi choke on his beer.

Wrote the Sentinel's Lou Demerais: "Kamloops lost it's father of lacrosse and I wonder if we realize just how great our loss really is . . .

"Don Hamilton deserves the highest merit award this city has to offer and if Kamloops doesn't have one, we should start one and give the first to him . . ."

How about "Prime Minister", Mr. Demerais? It's rather popular in these parts. . . .

Sign of the times: In a Toronto newspaper this advertisement — "World Hockey, Winter Olympics, Grenoble, France, 1968. Join Maurice "Rocket" Richard, who will be leading our tour to the Winter Olympics, departing Toronto, Feb. 4, 1968. Write or call FRANK MAHOVLICH TRAVEL Ltd."

Ah, the impoverished professional athlete. Does Punch Imlach know you're moonlighting, Frankie? If you don't do a little selling out on the ice you had better tell Maurice to save a ticket — for F. Mahovlich.

Whee! The People—Where-Are-They Dept.? Shed a small tear for the philanthropists in Minnesota and Philadelphia, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, Oakland and Los Angeles who put up $2 million each for a National Hockey League franchise.

Most of them saw the franchise as a licence to print money. In the words of the German philosopher Wienerschnitzel, "und too late ve get schmart."

Last week when Montreal-New York drew 15,925, Detroit-Toronto pulled in 15,782 and Boston-Chciago counted 16,001. Minnesota-Pittsburgh played to 3,885, Oakland-LA packed in 3,419, and St. Louis-Minnesota had a lusty 4,112.

Two for Tee: How many golf courses are there in B.C.?

What are the locker rooms like at Terrace?

What's the best time of day to play at Penticton in summer?

The answers: 95, are you kidding? and, 5 a.m.

Seriously, there are 95 courses (a few are fairly coarse); Terrace is not exactly Oak Bay, and a guy could die of dehydration playing at Penticton under a summer mid-day sun.

These salient facts and countless more are contained with illustrations in a booklet to be published early next year by the Department of Travel and Industry.

The idea belongs to Bill and Muriel Teetzel. They sold the department, were commissioned to hit the trail Aug. 1. They started at Chilliwack, finished 94 stops later at Gorge Vale.

"The way we see it," Bill Teetzel says, "golf can bring people into B.C. and keep them longer — if they know where the courses are and what amenities are available."

And how did the Teetzels (Bill is a 16 handicapper, Muriel a 27) play?

"We spent a lot of time looking and not enough concentrating on our game," Bill Teetzel said.

Anybody who can explain his score that way should be in the Belleville Street Manor and not working for it.

AT MEXICO GAMES

Swimmers Wonder If Medics Are Right

MEXICO CITY (CP-AP)—Some experts in sports medicine agree there is a psychological barrier facing athletes in the high altitude of Mexico's capital.

They say the much-discussed altitude bugaboo can easily be overcome with training.

But many swimmers are beginning to wonder if that's entirely true after the comparatively slow times at the pre-Olympic Games pool Wednesday night.

Four of the five swimming gold medallists complained about the 7,347-foot altitude having a tiring effect on them. Not a swimmer came close to a world record in 10 races Wednesday, counting heats and finals.

SWIMMERS DOMINATE

Although American coaches say their charges are not in top form, the U.S. team hopes to dominate the swimming, as it did at this year's Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, and close the medal gap with Russia.

The U.S. made a fine start in swimming, winning nine of a possible 15 medals but nothing else in other sports. The Russians added other gold in cycling and fencing, and lead with 27 gold while the Americans and Italians are tied for second place with nine apiece. The two-week Olympic rehearsal has four more days to go.

Don Schollander of the U.S., considered the best men's freestyler in the world, took the 100-metre freestyle in 54.5 seconds, almost two seconds off fellow American Ken Walsh's pending world mark of 52.6, set at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg.

Andrei Dunsev of Russia won by three lengths over American Peter Williams in the men's 400-metre individual medley. His time was 5:00.7.

Other U.S. winners were Debbie Meyer in the women's 800-metre freestyle and Lynn Vidali in the 100-metre backstroke and the Dutch world butterfly champion, Ada Kok, captured the 100 butterfly.

Other gold medal winners Wednesday were: Russia in the 4,000-metre team pursuit cycling; Robert Van Lancker and Daniel Goens of Belgium in the tandem cycling; Marcel Rosca of Romania in the rapid fire pistol and Switzerland's Ervin Vogt in the free rifle; and world champion Alexey Nikachikov of Russia in the men's epee fencing.

BACK-UP MAN

Although he could have used it during other parts of National Hockey League game at Toronto Wednesday night, Los Angeles goalie Terry Sawchuk was getting it on this play as Brian Kilrea (19) darts in to back up Sawchuk, who has just made save. Maple Leafs found Terry lacking in help often enough to clip Kings 4-2 and snap three game losing streak.

Pep, Promise of Cats Didn't Distract Rivals

NEW WESTMINSTER — Victoria Cougars showed coach Doug Anderson more pep, push and promise here Wednesday night. But New Westminster Royals weren't awed to distraction.

B.C.'s best in 1966-67, Royals methodically and relentlessly taught the "new kids" a lesson. For Victoria it was a painful 9-4 session their fourth such (against one win) in the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

They came out of the first period in fair shape, trailing 2-1.

Then the egg hit the fan. Denis Houser popped in two goals within 23 seconds and it was "Good Night, Irene" for the Cougars.

PENSLTY PARADE

Royals gave Cougars ample chances to move in. For 25 minutes out of 60 they were shorthanded, ticketed to the penalty box for militancy beyond duty.

But Victoria couldn't capitalize at crucial moments, rattling posts or failing to display the sharp edge of cohesion that comes from togetherness.

For a first-year team playing only its fifth game, coach Anderson noted that there were areas of improvement — "in passing and overall attack."

REQUIRED STITCHES

The Cats lost first-string centre Dennis Ferrill early in the game. Hit in the face by a flying puck, he needed six stitches and returned only in the dying minutes. One of his wingers, Barry Clarke took a jolting board check early in the first period, was so dazed he didn't return until the second session.

Anderson will "probably" rest Ferrill Saturday when the Cougars host Kelowna in Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m.

Other lineup changes are "likely," Anderson added.

In another league game first-place Penticton defeated last-place Kamloops 8-5.

The Moscow team meets the Canadian national team Dec. 23 in Vancouver.

AT UVIC SATURDAY

Homecoming Events Will Strain Muscles

Old grads meet undergrads in a series of contests of skill and science in a vast Homecoming Day program at University of Victoria Saturday.

The faculty and even outsiders will participate in some of the events, letting the sore muscles crop up where they may and no doubt will.

Novelty events are scheduled for the morning. At 10:30 there will be three road races over a 1.19-mile Ring Road course. Winners will cross the finish line closest to fixed times of five, nine and 12 minutes. Anyone finishing under those times will not be considered for awards.

A challenge croquet match between two-man teams from faculty and students will get off at 10:45. If that proves too exhilarating for some viewers they can take in the "chariot" race at 11.

RUGBY MATCH

The "athletes" take over the serious competition at noon, commencing with a rugby match between the Uvic team and alumni.

Vikings' soccer team tests the alumni at 1 p.m.

The day's dessert will be two basketball games in the evening.

Uvic Jayvees of the Intercity Junior Men's League meet the "Fat Five" made up of pre-1960 grads in the first game. The second game will be between Jayvees and younger alumni and may be the most spirited and serious combat of an otherwise fun-filled program.

British Pro Shows Foes His Heels

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Former British Open champion Peter Thomson increased his lead to six strokes by firing his second straight 69 today in the Australian Open golf championship.

The second round was marked by the withdrawal of slumping Bruce Devlin and by a fit of temper on the part of a U.S. touring pro, Bert Yancey, who bent a six-iron over his knee.

Yancey, who had a 77 Wednesday, was playing par golf until he came to the 11th hole and sent his approach shot to the back of the green.

He took his six-iron and bent it over his knee.

"I don't know why I did it," Yancey said. "I suppose I just became too emotional."

Thomson's 69-69—138 over the 6,702-yard, par-73 Commonwealth course sent him six strokes ahead of Peter Townsend, the rookie English pro who added a 71 to an earlier 73.

Kings Earn Praise But Bow to Leafs

Hawks Improve To Gain Tie With Rangers

By The Canadian Press

Los Angeles Kings came down to earth Wednesday night, losing their first National Hockey League game, and Chicago Black Hawks finally showed signs of recovering from a season-long slump.

Impressing even Toronto Maple Leafs, to whom they lost 4-2, Los Angeles remained on top of the expansion Western Division while New York Rangers moved within a point of Montreal Canadiens, leaders in the East, with their 2-2 tie against Chicago.

In the other two scheduled games, both involving expansion clubs, Pittsburgh Flyers battered California Seals 4-1 and Minnesota North Stars edged St. Louis Blues 3-2.

Toronto defencemen Marcel Pronovost and Tim Horton were loud in their praise of the style of hockey played by the Kings—the same style that won the Stanley Cup for the Leafs last season.

HOLDING THEIR OWN

"They're playing basic hockey—the stuff you teach kids—but they're playing it well," said Pronovost after the game.

"No team is going to beat them badly if they play that way," added Horton, "They're making a few mistakes, but they're making up for them with hard work."

But even hard work couldn't overcome the accumulated power of the Leafs, who broke a three-game losing streak while ending the Kings' five-game string without a loss.

Toronto got goals from Jim Pappin, Ron Ellis, Bob Pulford and Frank Mahovlich as Bill Flett and Ed Joyal replied for Los Angeles.

In New York, the Hawks appeared headed for their first win of the season after six losses, leading 2-1 in the third period after Pit Martin and Bobby Hull had scored to erase a first-period New York lead on a deflection off defenceman Pierre Pilote's skate that was credited to Rod Seiling.

Hull had given Chicago the lead with one of his patented 50-foot slapshots—his seventh goal of the season—in the third period. But seven seconds later Vic Hadfield finished a play started by Jean Ratelle.

Following the game, Hadfield said admiringly of Ratelle's passout from behind the Chicago goal after drawing three including goalie Denis Dejordy away from the mouth: "Jean made some pass, didn't he?"

New York manager-coach Emil Francis added: "The way he was surrounded, his stick must have had eyes on it to get the puck out like that. It was quite a pass."

'I SHOT'—RATELLE

"What pass?" chimed in Ratelle. "I shot the puck. You can't score if you don't shoot, so I shot."

"He got the puck to me and took half their team with him," returned Hadfield. "Who cares how he did it."

In Pittsburgh, Ab McDonald scored twice to pace the Penguins in an 18-penalty game that cost Pittsburgh the services of Earl Ingarfield with a cracked kneecap for six to eight weeks.

Ingarfield was carried from the ice in the first period after colliding with California defenceman Bob Baun.

Val Fonteyne and Billy Dea scored single goals for Pittsburgh with Bill Hicke banging in a rebound on a power play for the Seals.

LOSES SON

Andy Bathgate, who has been giving fans and youngsters a lesson in courage for years by playing on a pair of knees that would keep most men at home with their garden, reached a new high Wednesday by scoring an assist for Pittsburgh even though his son had died at birth only hours earlier.

Ray Cullen scored a spectacular goal with about two minutes remaining on a pass from Bob Woytowich to give Minnesota its victory. Ron Atwell had tied the score for St. Louis earlier in the period.

MEET O'KEEFES SATURDAY

Royals Hope Irish Lads Can Whip Englishmen

The English and the Irish don't go at one another with hammer and shillelagh any more. Or do they?

They might Saturday when Victoria O'Keefes, needing a win more than Paddy needs a fresh pint of ale, host New Westminster Royals who don't know what losing means this young Pacific Coast Soccer League season.

When the teams trot out onto Royal Athletic Park at 2 p.m., much of the Royals' hopes will be pinned on a pair of 19-year-old Irishmen, right-wing Dennis O'Hara and centre-forward Mervin Spence.

★ ★ ★

Fresh from Ballymena in the Irish First Division, the lads have added solid contributions to what coach George Wright feels is the best New Westminster team since 1961.

He may have something there. The Royals are undefeated in two league games, have yet to surrender a goal.

Against this apparent powerhouse O'Keefes (one win, two losses) will send out two experienced Englishmen, Dick Joyce, 28, and Peter Wheaton, 24.

Their background is a top London amateur league. In their first start they each scored twice as O'Keefes took a 5-0 decision from Victoria District All-Stars in the Tony Hope Trophy exhibition game.

Considering the stakes it could be quite an afternoon for English-Irish adherents-spectators. There is no truth to the rumor that they will be frisked at the gate for homemade Sputniks or over-ripe tomatoes.

Runners Find Unity—Slap Down Buckaroos

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Phoenix scored its second Western Hockey League victory of the year with a goal per period pace that beat the defending champion Portland Buckaroos 3-1 Wednesday before 3,385 fans.

Phoenix goalie Gils Banville and the Buckaroos' Marv Edwards each had 33 stops in a goaltending duel.

Roadrunners mustered unity for the first time in the season and were able to stop the Bucks' power plays.

Phoenix's go-ahead goal was scored by 19-year-old Walt McKechnie — his first point as a pro. Tommy McVie and Brian Smith got the other Phoenix goals. Larry Leach spoiled Banville's shutout bid.

FIELD GOAL PROBLEMS . . . . . . PLAGUE PRO GRID CLUBS

Don't Stop Your Boy from Kicking

NEW YORK (AP) — If you have a son, tell him to go out in the backyard and start practising field goals. The pro football business is in trouble with a shortage of accurate place kickers.

For some strange reason both the National and American football league teams are having problems with field goal kickers.

The NFL kickers have made good on only 94 of 199 attempts, or 47 per cent as compared to 55 per cent last season. The AFL kickers have made 51 of 114 or 45 per cent against 52 per cent for the 1966 season.

In the NFL the only kickers over the .500 mark are Jim Bakken of St. Louis Cardinals (17 of 23), Tommy Davis of San Francisco '49ers (7 of 13), Sam Baker of Philadelphia Eagles (7 of 10), Don Chandler of Green Bay Packers (7 of 12) and Mike Clark of Pittsburgh Steelers (5 of 8).

The AFL booters who have made more than they have missed are the venerable George Blanda of Oakland Raiders (7 of 13), Jim Turner of the New York Jets (9 of 16) and rookie Jan Stenerud of Kansas City Chiefs (7 of 13).

An injury to Charlie Gogolak, who pulled a muscle, has left Washington Redskins in such trouble that they have made only three of 14 attempts. The old pro, Lou Groza of Cleveland Browns has only three of 10 but two came in one winning game.

ARNOLD PALMER
. . . trouble, trouble

Arnie's Chance to Win Now Rated at 300 to 1

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The burning issue was not whether Arnold Palmer would win the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament, but whether Arnie and his Army would fade out of the scene entirely with 36 holes yet to be played after today.

Las Vegas is renowned for its gambling and one of its prominent apostles, Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder, went so far as to bet intimate friends that Palmer was no better than 300 to 1 to win the thing and 2 to 1 to qualify for the two rounds remaining after today's second round.

George Bayer, with an opening round 66, five shots under par for the Paradise Valley Country Club's 36-35—71, led the way into the second round.

Six players were just one stroke off, but if Bayer's position was perilous, consider Palmer's problem.

He was not only 10 strokes back of Bayer with a 76 Wednesday, but there were almost as many people as Arnie's Army crowded in between the leaders and Mr. P.

Palmer, however, is a man of considerable magic. A year ago he had a first-round 71 and scooted to an 80 the next afternoon.

Yet he charged back with a 67 and his 285 gave him a tie for second place.

Jack Nicklaus, with 71-77-68-66—282 won the 1966 tourney and Jack is in better shape with his initial 68 this time around.

Tied at 67 were Ken Still, Terry Dill, Frank Beard, Julius Boros, Bo Wininger and Homero Blancas.

Stockers Plan Step Up Hockey Ladder

Added firepower and a new goalkeeper may put the emphasis on "move" for Stocker's North Americans in the Vancouver Island Hockey League.

Stockers are 1-1 in the won-lost column and plan to step higher on the hockey ladder Friday night when they play Esquimalt Tudors at the Sports Centre.

University of Victoria Vikings face Queen's Own Rifles in the opening half of the weekly doubleheader, starting at 7:45.

Ex-Winnipegger Brian O'Neill is Stockers' new goalie, and coach Doug Anderson is hopeful he may be instrumental in a banner year for the Movers.

Other new additions are Jim Shkwarok, with Vikings' last year; centre Nick Nicolletti, an ex-Combo; former UBC Thunderbird Les Bergman, Bob Holness and Glenn Vickers. Holness and Vickers, graduates of Victoria minor hickey, are returning to the league after a layoff of two seasons.

Stockers were hit with one big loss Wednesday when team captain Jim Middleton moved to Winnipeg to take up a new job.

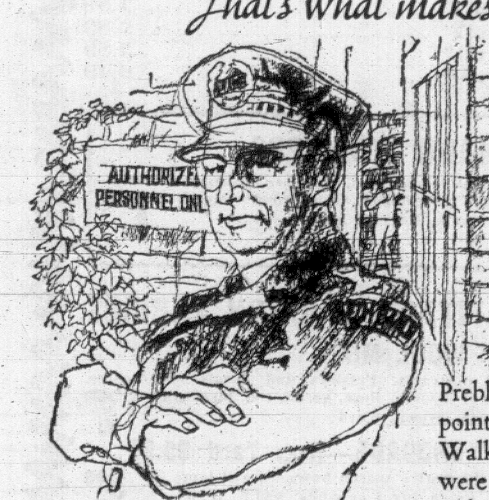
1060 YATES at COOK 384-1144

Hiram Walker's Special Old Canadian Whisky is blended first; aged later. That's what makes it Special.



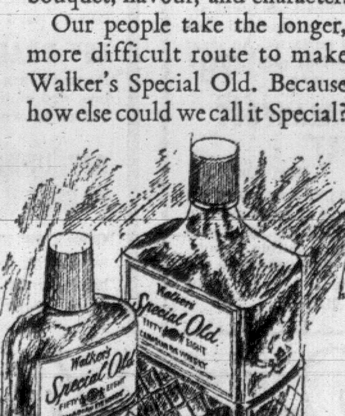
So special, in fact, that no one is allowed to enter our blending room except the handful of people who belong. After all, there's a whisky being born in there.

Because a whisky is born when it's blended. (Most whiskies are blended just before they're bottled. Like maybe last week.)

But Walker's Special Old was blended long ago. The very day that its ingredient whiskies were distilled. They were carefully and painstakingly combined.

Preblended. To reach that elusive point of perfection that creates Walker's Special Old. Only then were they sealed in white oak casks. To age and mellow. Together. The result is incomparable bouquet, flavour, and character.

Our people take the longer, more difficult route to make Walker's Special Old. Because how else could we call it Special?



We blend it before we age it.

Wolman-Snider Parley Delayed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A scheduled meeting planned between Jerry Wolman, owner of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, and Ed Snider, fired last Thursday as operating head of the Eagles, was postponed. No new date was announced.

Wolman fired Snider, a long-time friend, in a front office dispute and replaced him with Joe King, 38-year-old business manager of the Eagles.

Snider is president of Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League. No reason was given for his dismissal.

Tyees Travel Shutout Route Over Esquimalt

Oak Bay and Mount View consistently score close victories in the Inter-High School Soccer League but Victoria High is making a habit of banging off big wins.

The Tyees were at it again Wednesday. They bombed winless Esquimalt Dockers 4-0. It was their fifth win in eight games; the others finished in draws.

Tyees have strength where it counts—up front and in goal. They have scored more often than any team (20 goals) and have been the least open-hearted (only five goals against). The latter statistic reflects the fine play of goalkeeper Kjeld Brodsgaard.

In four of his team's victories, Brodsgaard was the ultimate guard—he shut out the opposition.

TORMENTED DEFENCE

Glen Robinson was Tyees' aggressive offensive leader. He scored two goals, tormented the Dockers' defence with crisp lace to his mates. Stu Wallace and Luigi Nambrance scored the other Vic High goals. Don Elbany was Dockers' most effective player.

Oak Bay and Mount View remained two points behind Tyees, shading Mount Douglas and Claremont 2-1 respectively.

Peter Mason scored both OB goals after Lorne Bunyon had put Mount Douglas ahead on a rebound.

Claremont was draped out of the playoff race by Bill Walker's two goals. His first came on a corner kick which caromed off goal-keeper Ken Lundeen.

Ted Clark brought Claremont even with a 30-yard drive but Walker headed in the decisive goal on a pass from Bill Gerard.

"But, dear, that's my karate black belt!"

Two Grocers Rate Top Priority

Steve Woods and Don Gately are two names getting consistent mention from Victoria Chinooks these days.

Gately and Woods are the two players Chinooks fear most as they prepare to meet Vancouver IGA Grocers in a pair of Inter-City Junior Basketball League games this weekend.

It could be a clash of unbeaten clubs when Chinooks and Grocers open their series at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the Central Junior High School gymnasium. Second game will be played Sunday at 3 p.m. on the same floor.

Both games will follow Inter-City Senior Women's Basketball League games between Victoria Rawlings and UBC Thunderettes. The girls start at 7 Saturday and 1:30 Sunday.

Chinooks and IGA currently share the junior league lead with Vancouver CYO Saints. Each of the three clubs has started the campaign with two straight victories.

Height, speed and aggressive hustle feature the play of coach Gordon McNab's Grocers, with much of the altitude provided by Gately, a six-five centre who is both an outstanding rebounder and a constant scoring threat.

Woods, a swift six-footer, is a shooting slicker. He currently leads the IGA club in scoring but he gets plenty of help from mates like forward Brian Henderson and guards Don Redmond and Gerry Kalmas.

Victoria coach Moe Turner, who says his club is ready for anything the Grocers send onto the floor, was pleased with defensive work as the Chinooks overpowered University of Victoria Jayvees in two games last weekend.

He's expecting a tougher test this time and chances of Chinooks extending their victory skein could well depend on how their defenders handle Gately and Woods.

A New Experiment in SEX EDUCATION

How would you like to be a teacher instructed to give high-school students a course in sex education without any special training? To a class where one girl had attempted suicide; two had had illegitimate babies; and nine complained of drinking parents? Read the intriguing story in November Reader's Digest . . . how, lacking special qualifications, but possessing objectivity, imagination and a genuine respect for young people, this teacher in a small-town high school developed a course which brought both criticism and profound thanks. It's a very different look at the sex education problem . . . now in November Reader's Digest.

Isuzu Bellett.
The economy car that didn't cut corners to get under $2000.

When it comes to cutting corners, we're square.

That's why the Isuzu Bellett ended up with 4-speed syncro-mesh and a 71 h.p. engine that tops 90 m.p.h. (That's 42% more horsepower and 13% more speed than the biggest-selling economy car.)

And the Isuzu Bellett ended up with 4 doors and 4 headlights. (That's 100% more doors and 100% more headlights than the biggest-selling economy car.)

And the Isuzu Bellett ended up with an all vinyl interior. Whitewalls. Undercoating. And a locking gas cap. All standard equipment. (The biggest-selling economy car doesn't have any of these features so there's no percentage figuring it out.)

There's one place we're at a standoff with the biggest-selling economy car. We have independent 4-wheel suspension. So do they. We don't mind sharing the glory on this one point.

Of course, we get up to 40 miles to the gallon. That's why we call the Isuzu Bellett an economy car.

Otherwise, it would probably be the cheapest luxury car going.

$1,998 suggested list price, p.o.e. Toronto, Montreal & Vancouver, plus freight, local & Provincial taxes.

The Sasquatch—myth, hoax or fantastic reality—has lumbered its way into the newspapers again, and before this day is out, anthropologists will gaze upon what may or may not be its living, moving likeness on film.

If what they see lends credibility to the swarm of Sasquatch reports that has accumulated through the years, the inevitable next step will be to bag a Sasquatch.

Expeditions will probe Sasquatch habitat; and sooner or later, some bug-eyed searcher may find himself exchanging stares with a pretty fair replica of childhood's bogeyman.

Assuming that the human primate carries a rifle, how stands his moral and legal position toward what could conceivably be an infinitely remote ancestor of our species? If he shoots and kills, has he collected a unique animal specimen, or is he guilty of homicide?

Since we are told that this consideration has already caused one self-asserted Sasquatch sighter to hold his fire, I think that a ruling from the A-G's department might be advisable.

My own feeling is that the Sasquatch, if he exists and can be tracked down, could be netted (although I wouldn't want any part of that endeavor) or perhaps potted with a hypodermic dart.

Or he could simply be left alone to wander his remote domain unproven and unpestered. After all, why spoil a good story?

A while back, I told you about Preville, one of Montreal's self-sufficient residential communities. Stroll its streets on a garbage collection day, and you will see mighty few of the familiar, battered and often odorous old-style garbage cans.

Instead, set out for the pickup crews in front of each property, are large, plump green plastic bags secured at the neck with a twist of wire-cored tape.

These liners are very easily installed. You lower one of the tough bags into a can and fold its top back around the can's edge. There's no mess, no smell, no bother. Protected by its liner, the can stays fresh as a daisy.

First shopping trip after we came home, we learned that our favorite supermart stocks these bags in packages of 10, with ties included. Price per pack, 69 cents when we bought 'em.

In Saanich where we dwell, collections have reverted from summer's one-a-week to a biweekly roundup, so the bags for our two cans cost us but seven cents a week.

We're pleased, the fellows on the gobble-truck are pleased, and so I think are all who have tried these handy liners.

Time now for a stockholders' report on a University of Victoria student whom readers of this column generously took a long chance on when I aired his plight something over two years ago.

His name — or rather the name which I chose to protect him — is Kelly, and as you may remember, he was in desperate shape when he made his appearance here. Determined at all costs to get a university education, he was struggling to make do with borrowed textbooks, while existing on apples hooked from a tree, and the occasional sandwich from a friend's lunch.

Readers by the dozen and the score checked in with offers of help that added up to an expense-paid freshman year for him.

Kelly was grateful then and still is. He's a third year student now, with a woods-working summer behind him, and his future prospects bright.

"The finest thing that ever happened to me," said Kelly when we met the other day.

Pedestrian Reported In Fair Condition

Accident victim Lim Choy, 72, is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Choy was rushed to hospital at 7 p.m. Tuesday after being struck by a car on Government Street.

HAZARD or a harmless entertainment? Halloween masks are under fire today by National Safety League and police authorities. They say the small holes impede side vision by children roaming dark streets on trick-or-treat rounds. Pat Caton, 1205 Esquimalt, displays current crop of masks in a department store here. Sales, as usual, are brisk.

SAFETY LEAGUE RAPS MASK USE

Little Rouge, Eye Shadow May Save Your Child's Life

Halloween masks are a danger to small children, Victoria Police Chief John Gregory said today.

Parents should use face makeup on children dressing up for trick-or-treat rounds Tuesday night.

Chief Gregory endorsed a code of Halloween safety rules issued this week by National Safety League of Canada.

★ ★ ★

Masks, say the league, often obscure a child's vision. Eye openings are often inadequate and there is always a danger they will slip down over the eyes.

The league suggests that a little rouge, eyebrow pencil, eye shadow, lipstick or perhaps cornflower and zinc oxide can transform a child into a clown, ghost or pirate.

Other safety measures:

Light-colored costumes and shopping bags make the child more visible to drivers. Reflector tape can serve the same purpose while providing the wearer with a suitable ghostly effect.

★ ★ ★

Costumes should not be so long they will trip the wearer. They should be flame-resistant. (Clothing may be flame-proofed by dipping in a gallon of warm water containing nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid. Wring the garment by hand and repeat the bath after each washing).

Flashlights should be used in jack-o'-lanterns, never candles.

Warn children to stay on sidewalks and never dash to the street from between parked cars. Teach them to travel in groups. Teach them the danger in soaping windshields.

PROMOTION to acting rear-admiral of Commodore Robert M. Battles was announced today. Admiral Battles joined the navy in 1941 and was superintendent of HMC Dockyard in Esquimalt until March. He was assistant director of communications-electronic division of international military staff of NATO in Washington.

CO-ORDINATOR NEEDED

Children 'Short-Changed' In School Library Service

Children are being short-changed in library services, a Victoria Public Library official said Wednesday.

Mrs. Isabelle Goodman, head of the children's department, said there is a need for "specialized libraries related to school studies."

Speaking at a meeting of the Institute of Victoria Librarians, she said local school systems need a library co-ordinator.

And elementary schools need libraries and a book information centre for pupils.

The lack causes pupils to turn to the public library for books it doesn't have and can't purchase because of insufficient funds.

"I think children are being short-charged with regard to books. There is no excuse for not providing schools with efficient and well-equipped libraries."

John Lort, Victoria head librarian, said the school board allots $5 per pupil for books. The public library received $3.50 per person.

He said the book problem, especially in specialized fields, is growing because more people now attend adult education classes in the evening than attend high school by day.

School libraries were not open to them nor were the libraries stocked with sufficient books to take care of their needs, he said.

Howard Gerwing, president of the Institute, said school libraries need drastic change.

"The situation is bleak and serious," he said. "Schools have few trained librarians and are poorly serviced."

The meeting was held in McPherson Library, University of Victoria, to consider recommendations submitted by the South Vancouver Island subcommittee of 13, British Columbia Library Association.

The committee, chaired by Priscilla Scott, was set up to study library conditions and problems in this area.

The meeting unanimously endorsed a recommendation to establish a joint library council for south Vancouver Island, composed of heads of all major libraries and including school board representation.

The council's main objectives would be to develop library services in this area and to see that grants and public funds are used to their best advantage.

They said the car involved was westbound on Pandora, driven by Tony Pastro, 1940 Haultain.

SAANICH-ESQUIMALT RIDING OUT OF LINE

2,351 People Too Many

Esquimalt-Saanich riding is one of three in B.C. which will have to be revised automatically after its first election under the new federal boundary definitions.

The "quota" for each of B.C.'s 23 ridings is a population of 70,830 with a 25 per cent leeway either side setting the maximum limit at 88,538 and the minimum at 53,123 persons.

But the latest census shows that Esquimalt-Saanich has 90,889 persons. Also over the maximum are Coast-Capilano at 92,326 and Prince George-Peace River at 92,778.

Under the new federal distribution legislation, which was based on the 1961 census, the boundaries must be revised if they fall outside the maximum-minimum limits in a decennial census, the next one coming in 1971.

But the five-year "little census" taken in 1966 shows that at 64 of the nation's 264 electoral districts already are out of line with the limits and undoubtedly will require re-defining after 1971.

The first national election has yet to be held under the new legislation and chances are that the changes will be made before the second country-wide poll is taken.

'BEEP-BEEP-BEEP'

Cut Out THAT Word, Advice from Minister

Vulgar Expression Held Unnecessary

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today gave the word on THAT WORD in a Grade 12 literature text book story using army language.

And it came out clearly as—"Beep, Beep, Beep."

Mr. Peterson said the existence of the four-letter word in the textbook was unknown to his department until the current controversy and has ordered an advisory curriculum revision committee which selected the book to reconsider its recommendation.

DOESN'T SAY HOW

He wouldn't say how the words will be eliminated if the committee recommends against them nor whether he will overrule it if the committee says the story should remain unaltered.

Mr. Peterson noted many persons have become aroused against the use of a vulgar expression for sexual intercourse in passages of dialogue among soldiers in the short story "Defender of the Faith" which appears in the textbook anthology.

"I don't want my children reading them—in textbooks or anywhere else," he told reporters.

"We know that students are aware of them. Indeed they can go to any newsstand and buy books with these words in them but why should they be in prescribed textbooks."

Mr. Peterson said he had read "Defenders of the Faith" by Philip Roth and personally thought it was a good story.

"But I don't think the use of obscene words adds anything to the story at all, in fact, it detracts from it," he said.

"And I'm not a prude. I've been in the army and I've heard that language."

He said the story would have had the same realism if the army vernacular had been disguised or merely alluded to so that the students could "read between the lines" to obtain the same impact.

THREE DOTS

He said the word could have been represented by three dots or "beep, beep, beep" instead.

"You don't have to have that type of obscene language, especially in a prescribed text-book to create an impact," he said.

"I wouldn't say the students are for (the use of) these words."

Mr. Peterson said the advisory committee and its subcommittees was needed to help with textbook list revisions this year because some 70 new titles have been added.

NONE AWARE

He said he was not aware whether "the excellent" subcommittee on English course texts had realized the words were in Mr. Roth's story included in the anthology it recommended.

"Unfortunately, none of the officials of my department were aware of the use of these words in this book or they (the words) may have been rectified before distribution."

Mr. Peterson was asked what he would do if the committee stuck by its recommendation.

"If that happens, you can come to me again and I'll have something to say then," he told reporters."

Painter Falls Off Scaffold

A 62-year-old painter is in good condition in hospital today after falling from a scaffold and breaking his hip on Wednesday.

Ernest Jones, of 119 Crease Avenue, was working at 3775 Mystic Lane when the accident occurred. He was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by the Saanich fire department ambulance.

'Politically Opportune,' Says Bunn

By DON VIPOND
Education Reporter

The chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board lashed Education Minister Peterson today for taking a political stand on the controversial Grade 12 English text which includes a four-letter word.

"Mr. Peterson is doing what he considers to be politically opportune," school board chairman Peter Bunn said after hearing of the education minister's statement.

The school board's 7-2 vote was a considered and mature decision in support of the professional educators who drew up the optional reading list, said the chairman.

The curriculum revision committee members are presumably tops in their field across the province. And the lay people, in this case the elected trustees, have backed them.

'COURAGE'

"It is my great hope," said Mr. Bunn, "that the B.C. Teachers' Federation will have the courage of their previous convictions not to back down before this political pressure."

"I'm strongly opposed to any form of censorship," Robert Kendrick, head of the English department at Oak Bay Secondary, said.

Opponents of the optional text had accused teachers of "promoting filth," he said.

"This is nonsense.

"They miss the whole point.

"The word is used in a setting where it would be found.

"I may teach a book about slavery but that doesn't mean I'm promoting slavery," he said.

'COULD HAVE KILLED HIM'

A .22-calibre bullet which struck Victoria city constable Harry Hoshal during an early morning police raid could easily have killed him, a B.C. Assize Court jury was told today.

Dr. Leonard Bapty said the bullet entered the left side of the chest and came to rest near the abdomen.

"Had it struck any of the vital organs, Constable Hoshal could have died on the spot," he added. But he recovered after Dr. Bapty removed the bullet.

The doctor was giving evidence at the trial of Frank Joseph Bedry (also known as Layton), who is charged with the attempted murder of Constable Hoshal and Molly May Robertson in the early morning of May 4; also with causing them bodily harm.

Bedry has pleaded not guilty.

Constable Hoshal was testifying at press time.

Ex-Track Champion Coach Dies at Home

Well-known track star and former YMCA coach Harry Mitchell died suddenly today at his home at 339 Foul Bay Road.

Mr. Mitchell, 45, was born in Victoria and graduated from Victoria High School where he was senior track champion.

During the Second World War he served with the RCAF as a mechanic.

Upon discharge he resumed his track activities and ran with the "Y". He was four times B.C. champion in the 100 and 220-yards events.

In 1955 he succeeded Bruce Humber as coach for the "Y" team.

He worked for Humber's for 17 years and was store manager at the time of his death.

He was a member of the First United Church where he took an active part in the youth program, was an elder on the Session and was director of Christian Education.

Mr. Mitchell is survived by the widow, Ruth, and two daughters Kim and Kelly at home.

Why Buy Art Treasures To Bury Them in Basement?

Why buy art treasures and hide them in the basement?

Colin Graham, director of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, told members at the annual meeting Wednesday the gallery has works of art worth $700,000 but $400,000 worth are kept in storage because the gallery is too small to display them.

He stressed the need for a new wing and said it is inadvisable to buy more paintings until the gallery is enlarged.

Victoria is in an unusual position, he said. Other cities get municipal grants sufficient for their operation, leaving them free to buy paintings with donations and other revenue.

Here the gallery has operating expenses of about $50,000 but gets only $8,500 in municipal grants. Of this $3,787 is paid back in taxes.

Donations have been made for specific purchases but there's no room for them.

The point was stressed again when artist Robin Skelton suggested the work of local painters should be supported so that the stages of development could be recorded.

COLIN GRAHAM
. . . gallery too small

This presents another problem, Mr. Graham said.

Much money available for "free purchase" and not earmarked by donors must be used for operating expenses.

This year the deficit is $5,000.

But in any event, he said, "we must get another wing, before we ask for any money to buy works of art".

Captain John Osborn, chairman of buildings and grounds, said the older part of the building needs repairs and money would have to be found for that purpose and "for possible renewal at some future date."

Retiring president George Maycock said the gallery had experienced a poor year financially but was successful in its "real function".

The children's art classes were well atttended and so were exhibitions.

He praised the provincial government for setting up a trust fund to aid the arts. He hoped that other levels of government would "realize that grants for the arts are not mere handouts for which people receive nothing in exchange."

Mr. Graham said he hoped to see a change in the next five years in the community attitude towards art and that people will realize "it is essential to good life as it is in other parts of the world and not peripheral to it."

Dancing Accessories Found in This Store

By PENNY SAVER

For the past week Penny has been busy making Halloween costumes night and day. I've been so busy manufacturing two witches, and a magnificent Robin Hood that I had entirely forgotten the major problem that always crops up this time of year—Christmas presents for relatives. These have to be sent in early November so the other day I realized I couldn't delay the shopping any longer. My Christmas spirit always fails me when I'm faced with the problem of buying gifts for people I scarcely know, but this year I had some ideas.

Some of our relatives in Eastern Canada belong to a square dance club and in one shop I found numerous items that they are certain to appreciate. One of my aunts should love the square dance jewelry I bought her—white earrings and a matching pendant decorated with a black motif of square dancers. This set was priced at $2.98. If you would like to buy a larger pendant I saw one that is a two-inch oval, encircled in brilliants and centered with a design of two dancers. This is attached to a black silk ribbon for comfortable wear and is priced at $3.95.

With all the wear and tear that a pair of square dance slippers must take, I'm sure that a new pair would always be welcome. A dancer's feet will certainly flash on the dance floor if they're encased in sparkling gold or silver mesh slippers. These come in a complete range of sizes and are priced at $3.98 per pair. For practice sessions, a comfortable but long-wearing pair of leather slippers is ideal. These come in black or white leather with elasticized tops and are priced at $4 per pair.

One reason my budget for Christmas shopping never works out is because I am always finding items that I can't resist buying for myself. In the same shop I found a great little gadget—a light-weight safety light. It has a white reflector in front and a red reflector in back and is made with a cloth strap that can be fastened onto the wrist. For anyone who must walk home on a dark winter night, this device will give visible protection. It is priced at $1.95 and the two batteries it requires, sold separately, are priced at 25 cents each.

Please give me a call at 382-3131 if you'd like to know where I shopped for these items.

Jewels and Candles Used As Theme of Installation

An impressive ceremony was conducted at Holyrood House, Tuesday evening, when Mrs. Elizabeth Ward installed the new officers of Victoria Credit Women International. Each new officer was presented with a miniature doll, exquisitely dressed and decorated in the jewels representing her office. The ritualistic lighting of candles added to the ceremony's color.

Miss Donna Lowe is the group's new president. Other new officers are Mrs. Alex Edwards, first vice-president; Mrs. Isabelle McClure, second; Mrs. H. J. Dye, secretary, and Mrs. H. Stark, treasurer.

Miss Lowe presented the retiring president, Mrs. Evelyn Taylor, with a past president's pin, the first of its kind to be given in the club.

Appointed as committee chairmen were: Bulletin, Mrs. Howard Flood; social, Miss Georgie MacKay; chaplain, Mrs. John Gibbons; historian, Mrs. E. J. Bell; pins and emblems, Mrs. Archie McKeeyer; conference, Mrs. Walter Woodley, and parliamentarian, Miss Audrey Harness.

Prior to the ceremony, members and honor guests enjoyed dinner. The table decor, elaborating on the jewel theme, was centred around placings of dolls, similar to those presented to the new officers.

Special guests at the affair were Geoffrey Ellis and Charlton Smith, president and vice-president of the Victoria Credit Bureau, and their wives.

Mr. Ellis, on behalf of the group, presented Mrs. Howard Flood with a Career Club pin in recognition of more than 25 years' service in the field of credit.

Mrs. John Gibbons and Mrs. Gordon Roberts were introduced as new members.

Sons of Norway Plan Fun Fair

The Sons of Norway will hold a family fun fair this coming Saturday at Norway House, 1110 Hillside Avenue.

The event will begin at 2 p.m. and continue during the evening. There will be booths of home cooking, sewing, Christmas novelties and decorations, and many other items.

Games have been arranged for both adults and children and tea will be served.

The affair is open to the public and proceeds will be used for the group's Christmas program.

Admiring some of the decorations that will present a Halloween theme at the second annual Jubilee Bonspiel of Allan's lady curlers are Mrs. Jack Becker, at left, bonspiel chairman, and Mrs. W. Wick, second vice-president. The bonspiel begins this evening and continues until Sunday. Thirty-two rinks will be in play at Allan's Curling Club. A luncheon will be held in the Chinese Village on Friday and a banquet will be held there Saturday evening. Curlers will wear costumes at Saturday's games.

DEAR ABBY . . .

This Hubby's No Clothes Horse

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a carpenter-builder who specializes in remodeling homes. He is a fine craftsman and takes pride in his work, having learned his trade from his father who was a builder. The problem is this: When my husband calls on a prospective customer, he feels it is all right to go directly from off a job in his old dirty work clothes. He says people know he is a working man and they might even have more confidence in his work seeing him that way.

I admit there are times when it is more convenient for him to call on folks to estimate a job on his way home from work, but I say he should take clean clothes with him in his truck and clean up before calling on these people.

My theory being that if people see him dirty and sloppy they might think his work is sloppy, too.

My husband insists that his appearing in old dirty work clothes has no adverse effect on his customers, but I think he is just making up excuses so he won't have to clean up.

He reads your column, so if you, or any of your readers have any ideas about this, I'd appreciate hearing an outsider's opinion.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Personally, if I were interested in a remodeling job, I would hire the man with a reputation for quality work and fair prices. If he came straight off a job in his old work clothes, I wouldn't object as long as he didn't track up my carpets.

DEAR ABBY: An old gentleman (?), one whom I have befriended on several occasions, recently betrayed my trust in him by stealing some rare coins from my collection, a valuable unset diamond, a revolver from my gun collection, as well as several old keepsake antiques, which I had intended to donate to the local museum at a later date. He accomplished this during a couple of social visits he paid me in my home.

Upon discovering my loss, I paid him a return visit, and while there I complained bitterly about the theft of these items. I didn't accuse him openly, but strongly hinted that he was under suspicion.

The next day he called on me, and had occasion to visit the bathroom. On his departure I found a few of the missing coins on the wash basin. However, the most valuable coins, the unset diamond and revolver are still unreturned.

The man in question is very well-to-do and respected citizen in this community. (So am I.)

What is the best way to regain my stolen possessions? I am positive this man is the thief, but wish to avoid publicity if possible.

VICTIMIZED IN OREGON

DEAR VICTIMIZED: In order to protect yourself, and regain your stolen possessions, I advise you to discuss this with your lawyer. (Clip this letter and reply from your local newspaper and mail it to the man in a plain white envelope —minus of course, this parenthetical addition.)

Garden City United Church Vows Precede Honeymoon in Portland

Following their wedding in Garden City United Church Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Brian Patterson left on a honeymoon to Portland.

The bride, the former Bonnie Kathleen Cook, wore a floor-length white satin gown styled on empire lines and featuring a Francois lace overjacket of scalloped lace with belled sleeves. A cathedral train of the same lace swept back from the shoulders. Her scalloped illusion veil misted from a headpiece of two white roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cook, 5090 West Saanich Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Patterson, 1503 Charlton Road.

Pink and blue chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony at which Rev. H. R. Whitmore officiated. Mr. Cook gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's attendants chose identical street-length pink sheath gowns featuring an A-line overdress with bell sleeves. Their headpieces were of net, held by a rose. They carried cascade bouquets of pink and blue chrysanthemums.

Maid of honor was Miss Norma Dean and the senior bridesmaids were Miss Julie Cook, the bride's sister, and Miss Wendy Patterson, sister of the groom. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Micky Cook, the bride's sister, and Miss Colleen Patterson, another sister of the groom.

Debbi Cook was flower girl for her aunt. She wore a street-length blue taffeta dress, styled on A-lines with bell sleeves and featuring blue overlace.

Larry Patterson, the groom's brother, was best man and guests were ushered by George Tautz and Richard Howes.

At the reception following in St. Christopher's Hall the head table was centered by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a bride and groom and surrounded with pink and blue tulle flowers. Silver candelabra completed the table decor.

Harry Mathews proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling the new Mrs. Patterson donned a red three-piece Italian knit suit with black accessories.

Travel to Edmonton After Local Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. James McGarvey travelled to Edmonton where they will be making their new home following their wedding in Sacred Heart Church.

The bride, the former Patricia Constance Johnsen, wore a gown of radiance crepe for the service. It was fashioned with a bodice of Alencon lace, styled with a bateau neckline, and belled sleeves tipping the elbow. A chapel train of Alencon lace swept back from the shoulders and a crown headpiece of lace petals, tipped with pearls, held her tiered illusion veil which misted to her shoulders. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Gold and bronze chrysanthemums with Mexican orange greens decorated the church when Fr. J. Planeta heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Johnsen, 3589 Quadra Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McGarvey of Belnaclough, Augher, County Tyrone, North Ireland. Mr. Johnsen gave his daughter in marriage.

Jack Lenaghan was organist accompanying the soloist Miss Leona Hanley who sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelis" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

Miss Virginia Johnsen, Montreal, attended her sister. She wore a gown of midnight blue embroidered brocade with a tulle headpiece en tone and carried a cascade bouquet of Jack Joice chrysanthemums.

Patrick O'Hagan was best man and Michael Green and Ben Perri ushered the guests.

At the reception following in Holyrood House a three-tier wedding cake, topped with miniature chrysanthemums, centred the head table. J. S. Carson proposed the toast to the bride.

Travelling to Victoria for the service were Mr. and Mrs. John Sinclair of Acme, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. B. Grand and Mrs. R. C. Erickson, the bride's grandmother, all of Tofino, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Philipson of Vancouver.

For travelling, the new Mrs. McGarvey chose a green tweed suit and mink hat which she accented with taupe and beige kid accessories.

DEIGHTON-LENDRUM VOWS

Wears Heirloom Necklace As Her Wedding Talisman

An heirloom seed pearl necklace belonging to the bride's mother was the "something old" talisman for Karen Elizabeth Lendrum when she became the bride of John Raymond Deighton in St. John's Anglican Church.

Given in marriage by her brother, John Lendrum, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white faille over taffeta styled with a fitted bodice that featured a portrait neckline, lily point sleeves and a waistband of Guipure lace. A full cathedral train, trimmed with matching lace, swept back from the waist. Her full cathedral veil misted from a single satin lily, centred with pearls. She carried a starburst bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis.

Parents of the principals are Mrs. Charles Lendrum, 247 Government Street, the late Mrs. Charles Edward Lendrum, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Deighton of Oliver.

White chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony and Canon A. G. Baker officiated.

The bride's attendants chose identical floor-length peacock green peau de soie gowns with portrait necklines. Their headpieces were pale yellow pill boxes in floral design. Suspended from their wrists were dainty bouquets of pale yellow chrysanthemums, fashioned into pompoms.

Bridesmatron was Mrs. Randall Harrison, sister of the bride, and maid of honor was Miss Treva Lewis.

Alex McLennan, Penticton, was best man. The guests were ushered to pews marked by white satin bows by Bruce Preston and Cary McLeod.

At the reception, held in the home of the bride's mother, the head table was centred by a two-tier wedding cake, topped with yellow roses. White candles, set in silver candelabra, accented the table. Lyle Wilson proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling on honeymoon, the bride donned a green A-line dress, chocolate brown wool coat, a green-trimmed whimsie, black patent accessories, accented by a pearl necklace and earrings.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Retired? How About Starting Your Own Small Business

With more folks living to an older age and early retirement becoming the vogue, the span of vital years between retirement and old age has been greatly increased.

This is a challenge, an opportunity and sometimes a problem. The majority of people feel a financial pinch when they retire. Ordinarily their income is much less than it was before. Even if they are secure financially, these years are often much less vibrant than they could be.

Many people in this age group, who are young in spirit and outlook and do not feel ready to give up active living, find it quite an adventure to start a new business. Thousands of them do so with great success. Many husbands and wives share the business and pool their energy and time.

For anyone who is interested in doing this there is a most helpful little book which gives you practical and knowledgeable advice and direction. It is called "Starting a Business After Fifty." Its author is Samuel Small, and it is published by Pilot Industries Inc., 42 West 33rd Street, New York 1, N.Y.

Mr. Small divides independent and semi-independent business opportunities for older persons into three classifications: 1. Your own business. 2. A franchised business. 3. "Cottage Industry." In each category he provides you with thought-provoking lists and suggestions and warnings.

I think that the cottage industry (or home industry) sounds extremely exciting and seems especially suitable for the older person. You do not have office expense or have to go back and forth to work. You are your own boss.

You probably will not have any employees and will need little equipment. You meet new people. In a way you bring the world to your door. This is a special bonus if you are at all low on energy. Also, remember that you can claim a tax deduction for the space in your home which you use for business.

Many cottage industries have become so successful that large companies have bought them.

It really gives me pleasure to recommend a book which I feel sure will be so helpful to so many of my readers.

I have a leaflet "Want a Business of Your Own?" If you would like to have it send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Centennial Theme For Church Fair

The parish hall of All Saints Church at View Royal was decorated in a centennial theme, using colorful flags and posters, when the Ladies' Guild held its fall fair on Saturday and raised more than $300. Mr. and Mrs. Bonar Law were in charge of decorations and the fair was convened by Mrs. B. Chater and Mrs. J. Pyne.

Miss Victoria, Miss Margaret Vickers, officiated at the opening. Miss Victoria, who is a member of the parish, and her chaperone were presented with colonial bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Stall conveners and their helpers wore old-time costumes in keeping with the centennial theme. There were booths of sewing, novelties, jewelry, home baking, candy, books, white elephants, garden plants and produce, toys and games. Raffles featured several attractive prizes, including a hand-knit sweater, a tooled copper picture and a hand-crocheted afghan.

A number of the church's Young People's group assisted guild members by acting as serviteurs for the tea that was served.

A perennial favorite at the church's annual fair is a children's contest. This year, boys competed by making model covered wagons and girls created centennial hats, using pie plates as a base. The novel chapeaux were modelled by their designers during the tea hour.

Accompanying herself on a guitar, Mrs. H. Olden entertained with a number of folk songs, including one written by herself.

Seen checking some of the items that will go on sale when Catholic Women's League, Queen of Peace Council, holds a bazaar on Saturday, Nov. 4, at 2 p.m. are, left to right, Mrs. Martin Koleran, Mrs. Robert Stirling, novelty stall convener, and Mrs. Frank Brown. Fr. M. J. McNamara will officiate at the opening of the event, to be held in the parish hall, 849 Old Esquimalt Road. Features include afternoon tea, a doll raffle, a fishpond and stalls of sewing, home cooking, novelties, attic treasures and Lucky Seven. Bingo will be played at 8 p.m.

Many Women Are in Favor of Abortions

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Almost 90 per cent of the married women in America favor abortion if pregnancy endangers the mother's health, a Princeton University physician reported Wednesday.

Dr. Charles Westoff, associate director of the office of population research at Princeton, said at a panel discussion on the social aspects of abortion that the figure was based on a survey of 5,500 women of all faiths.

He said the percentage was determined in the 1965 national fertility study, which he and Dr. Norman Ryder of the University of Wisconsin are in the final stages of evaluating.

BREAKTHROUGH IN ITALY

ROME (AP)—A law allowing kidney transplants from living human donors has won final approval in the Italian parliament. Previously transplants were permitted only from animals and corpses to human beings. The new law forbids sales of human kidneys and sets a year in prison and $3,200 fine as maximum penalties.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

As in any competitive game, the best bridge players take chances in order to force their opponents to guess.

In a recent team match, both West players opened with one spade and each East jumped right to game.

At the first table South, deciding that he was not going to be shut out, bid five hearts. West's first thought was to bid five spades and take a small loss. His next thought was to pass and leave things to his partner. Finally, West took a third course of action and doubled.

Then he led his singleton diamond. South won and led a low heart toward dummy, but West had planned his campaign to get a ruff. He went right up with his ace and played a low spade. East got in with the queen and returned a diamond to set the contract.

East and West weren't too happy with their result. They were afraid that other Easts and Wests would make four, maybe five spades, but their fears turned out to be groundless.

At the other table, North and South were playing all-purpose doubles. South doubled East's four spade bid primarily for takeout, but North decided to try to beat that contract.

He opened his singleton club. South took his ace and West falsecarded with the seven spot. This left South with some doubt as to the location of the deuce, but he had no reason to shift and returned the three.

West played his eight and North ruffed. This left North with a real problem. He wanted to put South in. Should he lead a diamond or a heart? If West had played the club deuce, North would have known that his partner had played his lowest club as a diamond preference signal—but where was that deuce? Eventually, North did decide on the diamond play and got his second ruff.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Television's new look provided a crowded scene Tuesday.

NBC-TV turned all of its three-and-a-half hours of prime time to two movies. It was like going to the theatre on Saturday afternoons in the old days, a double feature.

Stephen

The first film was A Hard Day's Night, starring The Beatles. When it was first released in 1964, it won high critical acclaim for its hand-held camera technique and the air of improvisation that resulted.

The Beatles romped and sang. The songs were loud. The movie was in black-and-white. It proved monotonous.

The Monkees do the same thing on television every week. They, too, romp and sing. They sing loud. They are with the times, though, in color. They are monotonous.

The Beatles were followed by a Jerry Lewis comedy entitled Cinderfella. If you are a Lewis fan, your channel selector did not get exercised.

Mine did. Over at ABC-TV there was a 90-minute adaptation of the Broadway musical Kismet.

It was another special in the network's eight eventful days which began Oct. 22.

Jose Ferrer, Anna Maria Alberghetti, George Chakiris, Barbara Eden, Hans Conreid and Cecil Kellaway (a formidable group) cavorted through the popular commoners-and-king theme.

The program provided pleasurable moments as such familiar tunes as Stranger In Paradise and Baubles, Bangles and Beads wafted through the room.

The adaptation was successful but it helped rob viewers of watching CBS-TV's documentary, "Where We Stand In Vietnam," and CBC-TV's debut of "Hatch's Mill."

The evening was too full. All it did was cause the viewer to continually change channels to try to capture the excellent fare provided on all channels. But the tid bits sampled failed to satisfy wholly.

It was a perfect example of senseless programming at its best.

COURTENAY — Death of Victoria sub-contractor Thomas D. Nunan was accidental and no blame should be attached to anyone, a coroner's jury here has ruled.

Mr. Nunan was working on a waterworks project at Comox Oct. 13 when he fell into a trench and an earth slide buried him.

The earth had been loosened by a heavy rainfall the previous night.

JOB PRESSURE

Colleges Swell To Meet Demand

VANCOUVER (CP) — A continuing demand by business and industry for university-educated employees is inflating the size of universities, says the dean of commerce at the University of British Columbia.

Dean P. H. White said this inflated growth of universities occurs in spite of the businessman's interest to see that only students likely to benefit from a university education are admitted because of costs.

"The practical answer to the request of business for university-educated people is that the university should seek to provide graduates in such numbers as are necessary whose education is most likely to endure for a lifetime."

Dr. White told a Vancouver Board of Trade meeting that society has two views of a university's responsibility to provide trained people for business.

One is that a university education is an end in itself and need bear little relevance to what the individual intends to do after graduation.

The other considers the university a farm club for the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

What many businessmen do not fully appriciate, he said, is the effects their hiring policies have on the size of universities — and consequently their cost.

In the long run "a public university will be obliged to accommodate about the number which society, including business, expects," he added.

Another question raised indirectly by business, he said, is that of continuing education.

"It is apparent that in the world in which we live the body of knowledge and professional skills are likely to be subject to fairly rapid obsolescence."

In the past this was met by continuing education offered by universities on a part-time basis for people at the beginning of a business or professional career.

This job, however, should be handled by technical and vocational schools, while universities should concern themselves with the continuing education of middle and senior management, he said.

THE BOBO
Peter Sellers
Royal Theatre

If you have enjoyed Peter Sellers as moon-rocketing clergyman, an international spy, a president, a general and a dotty old duchess, you will probably enjoy him as a singing matador in a bull ring.

The film, however, doesn't measure up to some of his previous efforts either in depth of humor or dramatic appeal. There are some highly diverting situations but overall the story is slight and the comedy rather superficial.

In sunny Barcelona, Sellers the matador hopes to get a booking in a theatre owned by Adolfo Celi. Near the theatre lives Brit Ekland, an exquisite beauty, who lives on the favors of a few men of means.

One of the luxuries she acquires is a convertible Maserati from auto dealer Ferdy Mayne, although it belongs to millionaire Rossano Brazzi who has waited many months for it.

Sellers is brushed off by the theatre owner, but persists in his efforts. Finally Celi agrees to give him a trial booking if he can conquer the beautiful Britt Ekland in three days.

Sellers poses as the emissary of a count who is anxious to meet the girl and is willing to pay handomely for the privilege. During the time they are together, she falls for Sellers and they spend a night under her roof.

However, when Celi asks for details of the conquest, Sellers is too much of a gentleman to give them and his theatre booking is cancelled accordingly.

At this point he achieves something of the wistfulness of Charlie Chaplin, the gallant tramp, and it is regrettable the rest of the film does not reach the depth of this particular episode.

The Bobo was produced by Elliott Kastner and Jerry Gershwin for Warner Brothers and directed by Robert Parrish. The screenplay by David Schwartz is based on his own play, The Bobo.

Hydro Sells Facilities In Alberta

B.C. Hydro has sold some recently-acquired installations in Alberta in order to avoid coming under federal regulation.

A B.C. cabinet order approved the sale, for an undisclosed sum, of 54.8 miles of transmission lines, a steam plant and a dozen substations inside the Alberta boundary to Calgary Power Ltd.

The facilities were part of the East Kootenay Power holdings which recently were purchased by the Crown corporation.

Resources Minister Ray Williston said the Alberta portion of the assets were sold quickly so that B.C. Hydro did not become classed as an extra-provincial company, making it subject to federal jurisdiction.

Man Remanded For Sentence

A North Surrey man on Wednesday was remanded for sentence Nov. 3 on 14 counts of false pretenses.

Andrew Toderian will also be tried on two similar charges at that time.

The accused pleaded guilty to four counts in Victoria, five in Burnaby, three from New Westminster, and two from West Vancouver.

In all these cases, Toderian admitted exchanging worthless cheques for cash last summer.

The two counts to which he has pleaded not guilty arose in Surrey.

$250,000 GIFT BY SVETLANA FOR HOSPITAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Svetlana Alliluyeva, daughter of the late Soviet premier Joseph Stalin, has donated $250,000 from the proceeds of her book to build and maintain a hospital in the village of Kalakankar, India.

It was the largest grant she has made from proceeds of her book, Twenty Letters to a Friend, discussing her childhood in Russia.

It comes just short of one year after the death of her Indian husband, Brajesh Singh, Oct. 31, 1966.

Sod-Turning For Eaton's New Warehouse

A start was made Wednesday on a new warehouse-distribution centre for all Eaton's store operations in the Greater Victoria area.

Completion of the 25,000 square-foot building, at a cost of more than $300,000, is expected to be during February.

Operating manager J. R. Noble, spokesman for the company, said the site at Royal Oak is exceptionally good because it commands the entire Saanich Peninsula area.

Eaton's officials, developer McLab Enterprises, and Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis took part in sod-turning on the property, which lies west of Patricia Bay Highway and West Saanich Road intersection.

Saanich hopes the area will become a light industrial park, centred by the new Eaton buildings' decorative concrete block and laminated beam architecture.

'Crashing' Day For Motorist

A man who was involved in two car accidents in one day and left the scene of the second, was fined a total of $180 in traffic court Wednesday.

Findlay Morrison, of 2861 Carlow Road, was fined $40 each on two counts of careless driving, and $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Morrison was the driver of a car involved in an accident near the intersection of Selwyn and the Trans-Canada Highway at 3:45 p.m. Aug. 15.

Six hours later, he was the driver of another car involved in an accident on Goldstream Road. He left the scene of the second accident.

Birds Poisoned

CORCORAN, Calif. (UPI) — Thousands of migratory birds stopping for food and rest in marshland south of here have died from an outbreak of botulism poisoning in the past several days. State Game Warden Jerry Perkins said Tuesday that up to 20,000 birds, mostly ducks, have died and another 50,000 are sick but alive.

Ontario Seeks To Sell More Around World

LONDON (CP)—Ontario Premier John Robarts said today a new international task force established by the province will speed a trade search throughout the world with new branch offices to be established soon in Zurich, Tokyo, Boston, Cleveland, Atlanta, Ga., and Kingston, Jamaica.

These offices, seeking new markets for Ontario products, will be in addition to those already functioning in such places as Milan, Stockholm, Dusseldorf, New York, Chicago and London.

"Because Ontario produces more than 52 per cent of Canada's manufactured goods, we have a vital stake in the future of world trade," Robarts said at a luncheon attended by Britain's leading industrialists and bankers.

OBTAINED NEW ORDERS

Ontario was "the springboard from which Canada's industrial expansion begins," Robarts maintained. Last year trade missions organized by the Ontario administration took representatives of some 200 companies on 22 selling missions to many parts of the world. These trips resulted in $15,000,000 worth of new orders "and countless more millions of dollars in repeat sales."

In addition 179 new manufacturing firms were established in the province last year representing an investment of $357,000,000 in land, building and equipment.

Robarts, whose government was re-elected a week ago, is on a brief visit to London to inspect Ontario House and confer with British and Canadian businessmen.

He praised Jim Armstrong who retires at the end of the year as Ontario agent-general at the age of 67 and introduced the new representative, Allan Rowan-Legg of Ottawa, a former Expo 67 official.

Student Wins Trophy, Scholarship

Nancy Dickson was presented with an achievement trophy Wednesday in an awards assembly at Esquimalt Secondary School which paid tribute to 16 of the school's scholars.

She is also the winner of a $300 University of Victoria alumni scholarship.

Winner of the Royal Canadian Legion Pacific Command scholarship for $300 was Denise Cammiade.

Other winners were:

Linda Jackson, a "Reach for the Top" scholarship for $80; Robert Calder, the $150 Esquimalt Lions Club Scholarship; Gillian Haines, the Dick Blakey Memorial Scholarship for $100; Frank Holm, the $200 PTA Council scholarship; Sandra Butler, the Esquimalt chapter IODE scholarship of $100; Joan Davidson, a $100 IODE bursary award.

Pamela King and Brad Mundy each won $50 school scholarships; Robert Paterson, a Navy League scholarship for $300; James Gray, a Future Techer Club scholarship for $60 and Philip Chang, a $300 Douglas Rotary Club scholarship.

Gary Wheatley was the winner of a $100 school bursary while Marjorie Andrews and Yvonne Vander Hooft won similar bursaries for $25.

Watercolor Gift to B.C. Wins Praise

Provincial archivist Willard Ireland Wednesday hailed a gift of 50 watercolors to the province.

The paintings were done by Henry Ogle Bell-Irving between 1883 and 1886, many of them depicting scenes along the Canadian Pacific Railway route through the mountains on which he worked as a construction engineer.

"This collection of watercolors, both in the artistic and historic sense, is one of the finest gifts to the provincial archives in recent years," Mr. Ireland said after receiving the paintings from Ian M. Bell-Irving of Vancouver.

POLISHING CHORE

Author Hampered By Lack of Time

By KATHRINE THOMAS

During his year at Oxford University as a Commonwealth visiting professor, University of Victoria's John Peter completed the rough draft of a third novel.

Now back home as acting head of the English department, he's having difficulty in finding time to polish the manuscript for publication.

Dr. Peter was nominated for the Commonwealth Fellowship by the department of English at Oxford on the basis of his many books and articles.

He is a well-known critical scholar whose published works include Complaint and Satire in Early English Literature and A Critique of Paradise Lost.

In 1964 his first novel, Along That Coast, received the Doubleday Canadian Prize Novel Award. Last year a second novel, Take Hands At Winter, was highly acclaimed.

As visiting professor he was associated with two different Colleges, Corpus Christi and Brasenose.

Four Lectures

"There didn't seem to be a tremendous emphasis on getting work done," Dr. Peter says. "I had a really heavy teaching load — four lectures in one year. But of course I put a great deal of thought and time into them.

"I did ask whether I was expected to write a book. 'No,' they said, 'you're here to enjoy England.' But they did have a very enlightened attitude—they thought all English Literature professors ought to write novels."

Dr. Peter had written three chapters before he left Victoria. But the rest of the rough draft was written in 19 days—while his wife and children were vacationing in South Africa.

"I have never written harder. By the time I was finished I really needed a rest. It's unusually fast way of writing for me. But the publishers like it, so perhaps it's the best way.

Acting Head

As acting head, Dr. Peter's administrative duties have prevented him from completing the manuscript.

"The novel has to be shortened and sent to the publisher, but where I sit now I can't get at it. It's sort of frustrating. I'd dearly love to get back to it.

"It's an escape story—about secret police and smuggling suspects out of the country. It's a much faster moving book with a wider appeal for readers.

"So much comes up in administration—I don't get the leisure to work on it. I'm not interested in being an administrator—I don't think you can combine the two jobs."

But Dr. Peter does believe it is possible to combine writing and teaching.

"It is essential in a way. A novelist tends to withdraw from real life which can be very dangerous. It is important for him to keep in contact with ordinary life. Teaching gives you contact with people—very lively people too.

"I've often wondered what I'd do if I wrote a novel that hit the jackpot. No matter how wealthy I became, I would always keep one course at a university.

"I feel this is tremendously important. In teaching literature, you are dealing with the deepest feelings—discussing problems of great delicacy and importance. You get to know your students' psychic make-up and they yours."

Dr. Peter found the changes in England since he was a graduate student at Cambridge very depressing.

"I didn't find England swinging or mod. The general economic climate is a very sick one. It's a terribly crowded island—gas fumes everywhere. How lucky we are to live in Canada—a prosperous developing country on the upgrade."

Author Enters Race In Oak Bay

An election race was assured in Oak Bay today by the announced council candidacy of James Audain, long time resident and author.

Mr. Audain joins Jack Rhodes and Ian Horne in a contest for two seats vacated by Coun. F. W. Hawes and J. D. Watts.

Both resigned in mid-term to be candidates for the reeveship. One year remains in their elected terms.

Mr. Audain, of 333 King George Terrace, is the author of "My Borrowed Life" and "Alex Dunsmuir's Dilemma". He is a grandson of James Dunsmuir, B.C.'s 14th premier.

Mr. Audain is a director of the Alcoholism Foundation, a former civil defence official for the province and was long associated with youth work. In 1962 he was defeated as a Social Credit candidate for Parliament.

Three incumbents seek reelection to two-year terms on Oak Bay council, Councillors Frances Elford, W. J. Wade and Walter Dodsworth. They are at present unopposed.

Also unopposed is the reelection bid of Oak Bay school board representative, board chairman Peter Bunn.

'HE FLOUTED AUTHORITY'

DUNCAN—K. L. C. Hasanen, dismissed from his teaching job here for refusing to allow a superintendent in his classroom, said today "I regard it as a legal matter and don't feel I should make any statement."

Dr. N. J. Dorning, school board chairman, said the Cowichan High School teacher was dismissed for misconduct after he had spent half a day trying to make the teacher change his views.

Hasanen refused to allow the principal or the superintendent into his classroom because he took the position that having supervisors in the classroom prejudiced the teaching situation.

He did not take that attitude in previous years, Dr. Dorning said.

"I have no doubt he is years ahead of most other teachers, but he flouted authority," said Dr. Dorning.

School principal Harold Proctor and district superintendent A. D. Jones, refused to comment on the situation.

A report is being sent to the minister of education.

Mr. Hasanen holds a master's degree from UBC and before coming to Cowichan three years ago was a teacher and principal in B.C. elementary schools for 12 years. At Cowichan he has taught Grade 12 English, Grade 11 socials and guidance and Grade 10 science.

COWICHAN FINDINGS

Southern Area Could Organize

DUNCAN — An investigation committee has reported to South Cowichan Taxpayers' Association it is financially feasible to establish a municipality in the area.

This would be the area of Cowichan School District 65 south of the Cowichan River and extending to Mill Bay.

Committee Chairman George Whittaker said Wednesday, "The people just wanted to know where they stand in relation to the annexation move by the city of Duncan.

"Rumor has persisted for a year that developed unorganized areas are not going to be allowed to remain unorganized.

VOTE ON NOV. 4

"We don't know the thinking of the provincial government but South Cowichan people wanted to know if they would be better off forming a municipality of their own rather than have part of the area swallowed by Duncan."

Duncan's boundary extension proposal due to be voted on Nov. 4 will encompass parts of the unorganized area south to Bench Road.

Mr. Whittaker said, "People in South Cowichan wanted to know if there was any good reason in resisting annexation.

"They wanted to know if it could organize itself into a viable unit, but it was not in the terms of reference of the committee to make recommendations."

Mr. Whittaker said the finding of the committee was that South Cowichan could organize a municipality which would be financially viable "at the present level of services."

He said, "There is a group which is seriously investigating other aspects of South Cowichan organizing itself because they fear it may be necessary to maintain the present conservative and agricultural character of the district."

5,664 PEOPLE

Population in the unorganized area investigated by the committee is 5,664, and the estimated annual revenue for such a municipality would be $302,280.

Tax assessment of $15,013,284 would give the municipality a yield of $150,000.

Mr. Whittaker said, "The farm community would still enjoy the $1,000 exemption on land and the $5,000 exemption on farm buildings for school purposes.

"But they would have to pay the same mill rate as residential property."

Mr. Whittaker said estimated expenditure of $255,875 were based at the same level of service as is presently supplied.

A member of the committee Frank Martin said residents would probably want the present level of service increased if a municipality was formed.

"These services could be increased under local improvement within a municipality at less than is now paid by each community under existing water boards."

The committee stated the estimated surplus would be $46,405 at a 10-mill rate or a possible rate of seven mills for general purposes with a reduction of .71 mills in the school rate.

Victim, Others 'Responsible' For Accident

NANAIMO — The victim was included in three men held responsible by a coroner's jury in the death of John Geshel on Monday.

Geshel was crushed to death when a truck rolled backwards in an attempt to attach a fork lift drawbar to it.

Death was accidental, the jury ruled, and added that Geshel, bricklaying contractor Gunther Ludwig and truck driver Neil Chartrand were negligent in allowing the truck to be reversed without proper signals.

The jury first placed the blame on the dead man but coroner Russ Inkster ordered the jury back with the admonition "the operator of vehicle is responsible."

Herring Fleet Docked

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal department of fisheries has ordered a total ban on winter herring fishing off the west coast, it was announced Wednesday.

The ban goes into effect Sunday and will remain until next Jan. 7.

Officials said catches have fallen off steadily in recent years and the catch for this season has been less than a third of a year ago.

Conservationists said the heavy inroads on herring stocks have upset the balance of nature, affecting other fish species such as salmon, which feed on herring roe.

Prices in the herring fishery have also been hit, due to a decline in world markets. The B.C. Fisheries Association recently offered fishermen $9.60 a ton, compared with the $17.40 a ton that had been in effect since 1965.

Plantings Increase

NANAIMO—Forestry Minister Williston said Tuesday that B.C. plantings of fir and hemlock seedlings will reach 75,000,000 a year by 1975.

LEGAL HISTORY was made in Nanaimo Tuesday when Mrs. Gladys Lillian Pitt of Parksville was hypnotized before a British Columbia Supreme Court jury in an attempt to improve her memory. Mrs. Pitt, who is charged with the attempted murder of her husband, is seen in a courthouse corridor during a break in the trial with her brother-in-law, Rev. John Pitt of New Westminster. Folk Festival A Success

PORT ALBERNI—The world came to the Alberni Valley this week to help celebrate amalgamation of the twin cities.

Dancers and singers from many countries were represented at the Centennial Folk Arts Festival in the Echo 67 Centre Wednesday. On Tuesday the Don Coassack Chorus played to a full house.

The Russian singers were sponsored by the Rotary Club which made the booking last spring. The appearance during Amalgamation Week was a happy coincidence.

The folk arts festival, sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi, included Estonian dancers, an East Indian fashion show, Highland, Japanese and native Indian dancers, Canadian folk singers, and Chinese, Indonesian and South African songs.

Norwegian, German and Ukrainian groups also performed.

Master of ceremonies was W. R. Joseph, English department head at the A. W. Neill school, a native Jamaican who has lived in the valley for five years.

CROWN OBJECTS TO TESTIMONY

Trial-Within-A-Trial

NANAIMO — A voir dire or trial-within-a-trial took up all of Wednesday's Supreme Court jury trial of Mrs. Gladys Lillian Pitt, 41, of Parksville, who is charged with attempted murder of her husband.

Canadian legal history was made here Tuesday when the accused was hypnotized in the witness box and later questioned in a state of post-hypnotic suggestion.

Court officials said they know of no other parallel case in legal proceedings. No evidence was taken while Mrs. Pitt was under hypnosis.

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins allowed her to undergo hypnosis after a time gap was revealed in her testimony concering events of April 22 when her husband, Ted, was bludgeoned with a hammer.

Wednesday's voir dire, one of several in the case, was ordered by Mr. Justice Aikins during testimony of Mrs. Roberta McDonald of Qualicum, daughter of the accused.

When asked by defence counsel R. C. Weir what kind of a man her father was, Mrs. McDonald replied that he disciplined her frequently.

Crown counsel David R. Williams objected to the line of questioning and the voir dire was ordered.

HYPNOSIS USE 'TERRIBLE'

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Trudeau agreed Wednesday with a Conservative MP's suggestion that he should investigate the use of hypnosis in a murder trial in Nanaimo.

In a Nanaimo courtroom Tuesday Mrs. Lillian Pitt, charged with attempted murder of her husband, Ted, was hypnotized in the witness box. She was questioned later while in a state of post-hypnotic suggestion. No evidence was taken while she was under hypnosis.

In the House of Commons Wednesday, Gerald Baldwin (PC — Peace River) described this procedure as "terrible" and asked Mr. Trudeau whether he would look into it.

SHATTERING would be the experience if these eight London workmen suddenly dropped everything and left. Everything, which looks a lot like nothing, is a 12-foot pane of glass being carried to American Embassy to replace a window broken during London anti-Vietnam protests on Sunday. (AP Wirephoto.)

British Hippies Bit Different

By RAYMOND PALMER

LONDON (AP) — Britain's happy band of hippies, the Flower People, say they are different from their American counterparts. Their declared aim here is not to "drop out" but to remain in society and change it.

Even so, the Flower People still have a lot in common with American hippies. They stroll along King's Road, Chelsea, in bare feet or sandals. They wear caftans—loose eastern-style tunics. Indian amulets, beads or bells swing from their necks.

They say the peaceful tinkling of the bells enables them to tune out the racket of civilization around them. The bells cost from 50 cents to $1.75. One distributor said he sold nearly 10,000 in a couple of weeks. Further supplies are being air-freighted from India.

The Flower People's anthem seems to be the pop song San Francisco and they follow its lyrical advice and wear flowers in their hair. Their slogan is "Make Love, Not War." Their ammunition—flowers.

When a police car pulled up at one of the open-air happenings recently, the Flower People opened its doors and practically filled the vehicle with plastic daffodils.

MANY WEEKEND HIPPIES

There are probably fewer than 300 hard-core Flower People in London. Several thousand more adopt the cult at weekends, putting it on as easily as they slip into flowered shirts and psychedelically designed dresses.

These weekend adherents turn out to turn on and enjoy themselves by following the credo: "Be yourself. Do your own thing. Do it now."

Their open-air haunts, besides King's Road, include Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly Circus and the public parks. Indoors they go to the Electric Garden Club in Covent Garden, London's huge flower and vegetable market; or to the UFO Club in north London. Its initials stand for "Unlimited Freak-Outs."

Both clubs provide simultaneous showings of underground and other movies, psychedelic lighting effects and dancing to such acid-rock groups as the Nervous System and the Pink Floyd.

Anything goes—including a recent nude ballet at the UFO which caused it to be thrown out of its previous base.

SOME TRY DRUGS

The Flower People say these kinds of experiences help in their search for expanded consciousness. Some also seek expanded consciousness through such drugs as marijuana, methedrin and LSD.

Less than a year ago London had a movement called the Underground. Their aim was to seek a permissive climate for experiments in literature, art, film, theatre, music and living.

At the centre of these activities was a small, loosely-knit group of imaginative people with a flair for seizing opportunities and a fine sense of calculating the right time to set a project in motion.

Most of them now are deep in the centre of the Flower Power project. The heartbeat of the movement is a fortnightly newspaper called IT, for International Times.

The contents range over discussions about the use of mind-expanding drugs, the arts, newsletters from overseas hippy centres, and news about drug raids and arrests and censorship.

Despite the emphasis on love, considerable hate is generated against authorities who fight drugs, and allegations are spread of police brutality and corruption. The Flower People have set up an organization called Release to help people arrested on drug offences.

ask Andy
HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Linda Eckert, age 11, of Rochester, New York, for her question:

When did they make the first calendar?

Mankind's first calendar is buried in the dim distant past of pre-recorded history, along with his first musical instrument and the fellow who invented the wheel. The best we can do is to examine the most ancient known calendars. None of them are perfect—but our present calendar is not exactly perfect either.

The Romans claimed that their calendar was bestowed upon them around 738 BC by Romulus, who founded their city. The Egyptians left proof that they were using a far superior calendar as long ago as 4236 BC. Pictures and notations of their ancient 365-day solar calendar have been unearthed and deciphered. The calendars of Mesopotamia were less accurate but they may have been older. For the priestly Magi of Babylon were the foremost star-gazers of ancient times. And since any earth calendar keeps a daily record of the earth's seasonal orbit around the sun, it must be put together by experts who have the time and patience to chart the moving pattern of the starry heavens.

Astronomers of China and India also were using fairly workable calendars thousands of years ago. But perhaps the most fabulous early calendar was a huge circle of massive stones erected on Salisbury plain in southern England. This monstrous relic is called Stonehenge and archeologists estimate that it has been standing more than 4,000 years. For ages, one of its stones was known to be a marker for the rising sun on the summer solstice. Recent research suggests that the great monolith was much more than a yearly calendar.

Fallen pillars and slits between still standing stones may well record an age-old procession of solar and lunar eclipses. Some experts suspect that Stonehenge may prove to be the most accurate of ancient heavenly computers, in some respects perhaps as accurate as any timekeeping computer we have today. When studying this and other ancient calendars, there are several things we must remember. It takes time, generations of time, to clock the changing celestial patterns brought into view by the orbiting and rotating earth.

Calendar Improved

What's more, the earth is illumined by both the sun and the moon. This double time check was very confusing to early astronomers. Some based their calendars on the seasonal path of the sun and others trusted to the changeable phases of the moon. Some tried to fit a number of lunar months into a solar year. This method produced some confusing results because these two time periods do not fit together in a neat time schedule. The orbiting earth seems to ignore the timetable of its satellite and even its own rotation. There is not an even number of days in the solar year and each New Year begins at a different time of the day.

There is no doubt that the earliest known calendars were not the first. They were remade from less accurate prehistoric calendars. Our own calendar descended from the one bestowed by Romulus. Its original ancestor had 10 months, 304 days and ignored 60 days of mid-winter. Various adjustments were made by politicians who wanted extra months to collect taxes and extend their terms in office. By 46 BC the Roman calendar was some three months ahead of the sun. In that year, Julius Caesar instituted a reformed calendar with 12 months and 365 days plus an extra Leap Year day. The Julian calendar was made more accurate by Pope Gregory in 1582 and his Gregorian calendar is the one we still use.

Our calendar is almost but not quite accurate. The difference between it and the true solar year of the seasons is a mere 26.3 seconds. Astronomers estimate that the calendar year decreases in length by about half a second every century. We needn't worry too much about this tiny adjustment, but many sensible people do want to change our clumsy system of days and months. Experts have suggested several streamlined systems. Let's hope that world opinion will soon force the adoption of one of these simplified calendars.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Bill Murrell, age 12, of Crescent City, California, for his question:

How did Eastern Island get such a name?

The Christmas Islands were named because the captain of a wandering sailship first came upon them on a long-ago Christmas Day. Florida was named because Ponce de Leon reached those balmy shore when the tropical vegetation was enjoying its flowering season. In Spanish, he named the place the Land of Flowers. By now you have guessed how Eastern Island happened to get its odd name. Voyagers from the Western world happened to discover the small island by chance on a long-ago Easter Sunday. The year was 1722 and the captain of the sailing ship was an admiral, no less, of the Dutch navy, Admiral Roggeveen.

Other European ships may have found the tiny mid-ocean island before and failed to mention or note it on their charts. But certainly the lonely island had been discovered by ocean-going Polynesians ages before. It was already settled by one and perhaps two groups of pioneers from other Pacific islands. They called their island home Rapa Nui and they still do. They also still think of isolated Rapa Nui as the very centre of the earth and often call it the Navel of the World.

Angels, Devils 'Seen' by Accused

RCMP Describe Conversation as Man Committed on Capital Murder Counts

HOFFMAN
. . . will stand trial

BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—A man, who police say claims to have seen angels and the devil, was committed Wednesday for trial on two counts of capital murder.

Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, of Leask, Sask., is to be tried in Queen's Bench court for the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. James Peterson, shot with seven of their nine children at their Shell Lake Sask., farm home last August.

Shell Lake is 125 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

Two RCMP officers testified at Hoffman's preliminary hearing Wednesday that Hoffman told them after his arrest of seeing angels and devils.

Sgt. G. W. Fraser, one of the officers who arrested Hoffman, said the farm laborer once told him about picking berries when "a devil came along, picked them all and ate them. But angels drove the devil away . . ."

He said Hoffman had told him that one night "the devil had his hands around him."

Hoffman also told him he had been a patient at a mental hospital.

Hoffman was found mentally fit to stand trial at a hearing Aug. 25.

DEVIL DESCRIBED

Cpl. A. T. Gawthrop said Hoffman had described the devil, but not the angels, to him. The devil was tall, black and "had no genitals."

"That was the word he used."

The corporal said Hoffman told him he believed he had supernatural powers and that once he had fought the devil "who came to his house and had him by the throat."

The bodies of the persons were found Aug. 15 by a neighbor, W. J. Lang, and Hoffman was charged Aug. 21, two days after he was arrested on his father's farm near Leask, 60 miles southeast of the Peterson farm.

Magistrate J. M. Policha said a preliminary hearing is intended to determine not the guilt or innocence of an accused, but whether the Crown has produced sufficient evidence to warrant a trial. He was satisfied that Serge Kujawa, chief prosecutor, had provided sufficient evidence from 14 witnesses and 28 exhibits.

The magistrate asked Hoffman whether he cared to say anything.

Defence counsel Ted Noble of North Battleford replied that Hoffman had nothing to say and that the defence would submit no evidence at the preliminary hearing.

The next session of Court of Queen's Bench is scheduled to start Jan. 8 at Battleford, 90 miles northwest of Saskatoon and about 90 miles southwest of Shell Lake.

FOUND IN WAR CLEANUP

Israel Cracks Down On Arab Dope Trade

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli police are fighting their own war in the occupied west bank of the Jordan River and the Sinai Desert—against narcotics.

Detectives following Israeli tanks which overran the Arab territories in the June war rounded up many smugglers and pushers. Undercover agents trailed others.

One Arab was killed resisting arrest in a raid on an East Jerusalem den. Dozens have been arrested, many in the Holy City, and nearly 1¼ tons of hashish and opium worth $500,000 seized.

The most spectacular haul was a ton of hashish that an army patrol stumbled on in a desert cache near the Suez Canal.

There's more where that came from. A vast ring, controlled from Beirut, Lebanon, is still operating and smugglers are busy.

East Jerusalem, the biblical city of Jericho and teeming Gaza were major distribution points in the network until the Israelis moved in, officials say.

The hashish originated in Syria, where it has been grown for centuries, and was smuggled through Jordan to Egypt and North Africa. It is banned in both countries, but the smugglers paid out huge sums of money to buy off officials and army officers, the narcotics bureau says.

OFFICERS ON PAYROLL

"We know from what we found in Sinai that senior officers were co-operating with the organization and allowing it to use Sinai as a distribution centre," a captain in the bureau reported.

"Military planes and trucks were used to take hashish and opium all over the country. We uncovered large quantities of hashish in army camps in Sinai and even found four kilos (nine pounds) in an army ambulance abandoned in the desert."

Captured documents, including Arab League narcotics agency papers, showed top Jordanian officials were on the smugglers' payroll.

The Israelis say if the Arab states co-operated with them they could stamp out the traffic, but the Arabs refuse. Israeli agents work, however, with Interpol and the United Nations narcotics agency.

Ideas Win Out Over Spanking

Youth Council, School Board Communicate for First Time

A threatened "spanking" failed to materialize when the Victoria Youth Council tried opening lines of communication with the Greater Victoria School Board Wednesday night.

The four trustees who showed up for an informal meeting with the youth group lent a sympathetic ear to the VYC's suggestion for a students' advisory board at school board meetings.

The advisory group would be able to offer trustees the views of youth on issues affecting their schooling.

But the sympathy wasn't obvious at the outset when school board chairman Peter Bunn told the four-man delegation to start talking, trustees were listening.

"Not me," interjected trustee Mrs. Frances Thompson, former chairman and the board's senior member.

"I'm a mother and a grandmother and I've come to spank you good," she said with a grin.

The youth council proposal showed that a public bruising at the hands of Mayor Stephen last week had not gone unheeded.

Student Advisory Board Eyed

Quoting chapter and section from the Public Schools Act the VYC suggested the students' advisory board be a consulting group of students from the school district, with each member representing a block of students on a basis yet to be established.

The mayor last week termed a VYC approach to city council "juvenile" and chastised the group for "not doing their homework."

The youth council had demanded a referendum on youth representation on council and school board as well as a new centre for youth.

But the Municipal Act prevented such a thing, the mayor pointed out.

"We very much believe that decisions should be made by the people affected by them," said Charles Barber for the VYC Wednesday night.

"And it's very evident that young people are affected by the decisions of this board."

Students can come to the school board now but don't, he was told.

Like an Ogre to Young Girl

"The school board might appear like an ogre to a girl in Grade 8 who doesn't like her home economics course," said Barber to illustrate why he thought the board didn't hear from more students directly.

A students' advisory group would complement the work of the school board.

Some of the points dealt with in 90 minutes of amicable discussion:

- School board meetings are now attended by representatives from the PTA, women electors, teachers, principals and students planning to teach, said Mr. Bunn.

Perhaps a good initial move would be to have students interested in the advisory board turn out for a few meetings to see what it's all about.

- The school board's "system" isn't made to let people know what's going on, said Alan Elford, 18, a first-year Uvic student.

When the school board chairman asked him point-blank what changes he would make to improve schools, Elford said teachers should be given more freedom to teach the way they want, to rouse interest in their pupils.

- Fear of the school system and the need to conform keep students from speaking their minds, said David McLean, chairman of the students' council at Uvic.
- Handfuls of high school students have been skipping classes to come to the VYC offices and voice their frustration over the inadquacies of the schooling they are getting.

"This kind of attitude is being presented to us again and again," said Barber.

If the student advisory board were established it would not have representation from the VYC. The youth council is merely trying to get the project under way, he added.

Mr. Bunn said he felt sure trustees would be happy to meet with student spokesmen. But not, he added, if it was just going to end up as a "beef session."

"We have no intention of undermining the administration."

Teachers Won't Get Holiday With Pay

Public school teachers are exempt from the statutory holiday with pay regulation, a labor department official said Wednesday.

This means teachers are not entitled to a holiday with pay in lieu of Remembrance Day which falls on a Saturday.

The statutory holiday regulation, which went into effect Aug. 1, sets out eight statutory holidays including any day substituted for the holiday.

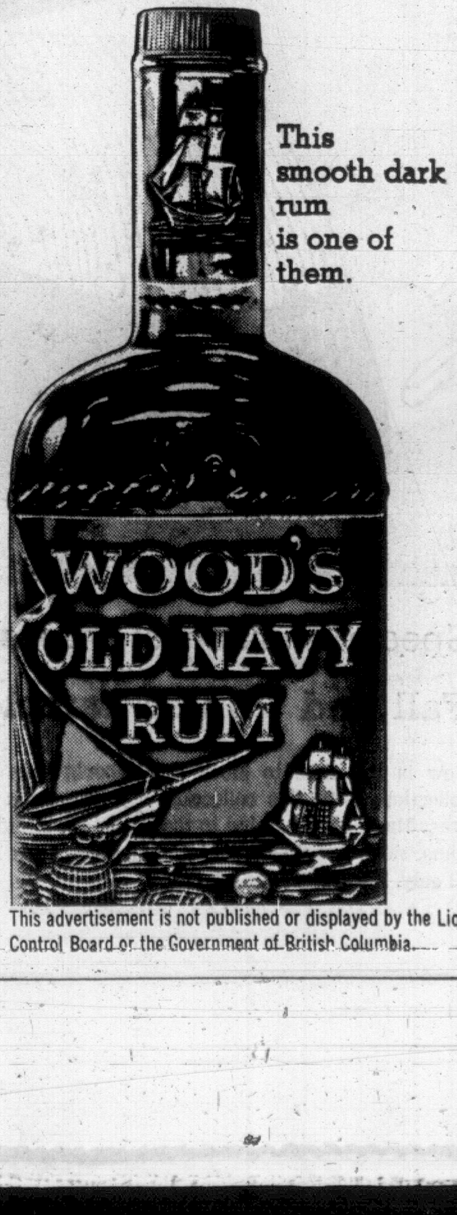
When the holiday falls on a non-working day, employees are entitled to a holiday with pay at a later date. When an employee is required to work on a holiday, he also gets a holiday with pay at a later date and must be paid time and one-half for work done on the holiday.

Three exceptions to the regulation are:

- Employees who by regulation are exempted from the Male or Female Minimum Wage Acts;
- Employees covered by collective agreements under the Labour Relations Act;
- Car, bus, heavy duty industrial equipment, mobile home and truck salesmen.

The labor department official said a regulation was passed Oct. 11 exempting teachers from the Male and Female Minimum Wage Acts.

There are very few things left for the men in this world.



This smooth dark rum is one of them.

U.S. Students Spread Anti-Vietnam Protests

CROWNING HIS WIFE in glittering ceremony today is the Shah of Iran who began rites by crowning himself and sitting on throne for first time in his 26-year rule of the Arab nation. (AP Wirephoto.)

BELATED CORONATION

King of Kings Crowned As Roses Fall on Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Guns boomed and planes bombed Tehran with roses today as the Shah of Iran set a jewelled crown on his head and named himself King of Kings and Light of the Aryans.

It was the longest delayed coronation in history. Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has ruled for 26 years but delayed his coronation until his 48th birthday, after his campaign to modernize Iran was firmly established and after he had an heir.

The shah crowned himself, then rose from the fabled Peacock throne and placed a crown on the head of his kneeling third wife, Empress Farah, 20 years his junior. She was the first woman ever crowned in Iran's 2,513 years as a monarchy.

Calls to prayer echoed from minarets through the land and crowds dropped to their knees shouting "Javid shah!" (Long live the shah!). The coronation was broadcast and televised from the glittering Golestan Palace opposite Tehran's old bazaar.

REVELRY ABOUNDS

Iran, which has been transformed into the fastest developing and most stable in the Middle East by the Shah's revolution, erupted in a fervor of celebrations.

By donning the Pahlevi crown with its 3,755 jewels and the pearl - embroidered coronation cape, the son of a semi-literate Cossack officer named himself heir to Cyrus the Great, the Persian emperor who ruled the civilized world 25 centuries ago before the Roman Empire was born.

The Pahlevi dynasty dates back only to 1926, when the Shah's father—an officer in the Persian Army—led a military coup, seized the throne and crowned himself Reza Shah the Great.

Reza Shah's son came to power in 1941 when Britain and Russian troops occupied the country and deposed the father for allegedly being pro-German. But the son refused to be crowned for more than two decades because "there is no pride in being the king of a poor people" and also because his first two wives did not give him an heir.

Today the six-year-old son of the shah and Empress Farah stood at their side. And throughout the country were new signs of wealth from the royal revolution which has ended Iran's feudal system of landholding and poured much of its oil wealth back into modernization of the country.

BULLET-PROOF COACH

Frantically - shouting crowds lined the 11-mile route along which eight white Hungarian horses pulled the $78,000 blue-and-gold bullet-proof coach in which the shah and his empress rode from their Marble Palace to the Golestan Palace. The crown prince rode behind them in a coach pulled by four black horses.

More than 7,500 soldiers plus police and gendarmes kept the cheering, flag-waving crowd behind barricades along the route through the brightly-decorated capital. Two squadrons of imperial lancers and a battalion of infantry escorted the procession.

Led by the commander of the imperial guards and an escort with swords aloft, the little crown prince looked solemn in a gold encrusted replica of his father's uniform, as he walked through the blazing hall of mirrors to the throne rome.

The coronation chamber, 50 yards long, glittered like a giant diamond beneath five chandeliers of crystal. About 500 diplomats and Iranian dignitaries packed the room on grey-upholstered benches, while a crowd of 5,500 waited in a grandstand in the courtyard of the palace.

Empress Farah followed her son, wearing a Dior gown of white Swiss silk and an emerald necklace. Six ladies-in-waiting walked behind.

Egyptian Oil Fires Controlled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firefighters brought the oil fires in Egypt's Suez refineries under control Wednesday night, 40 hours after Israeli shells set them blazing.

The United Nations Security Council reacted to the artillery duel—which each side accused the other of starting—by condemning all violations of the ceasefire which ended the June Arab-Israeli war. It did not censure Israel as the Russians demanded.

UN Secretary-General U Thant asked the Security Council to increase the number of truce observers to 90 from 43 and requested four patrol boats and four small helicopters for them.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reports the fires under control at the Nasr and Suez refineries, which filled nearly three-fourths of Egypt's domestic petroleum needs. The flames were not expected to be out until some time today.

SHELLING KILLS 16

Egyptian officials reported eight civilians and eight military men were killed in the shelling and 60 civilians and 32 military men wounded.

Al Ahram says 17 storage tanks were set on fire but gave no further details on damage.

Governor Hamid Mahmoud of Suez told visiting correspondents the damage was extensive. He also said some shells hit houses, schools and factories.

Al Ahram also reports that several ships of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean would arrive today at Port Said, at the northern end of the Suez Canal, for a "friendly visit." A number of Soviet warships visited Port Said in the tense weeks after the June war but despite the Kremlin's support of the Arabs took no action against Israeli forces in the adjacent Sinair Desert.

At the United Nations, the Soviet Union had asked for a resolution condemning Israel and demanding reparations for damage caused by its guns. A U.S. resolution condemned all violations of the ceasefire and insisted on observance of the truce.

ESCALATION DENOUNCED

The 10 non-permanent members of the 15-nation Security Council, which include Canada, worked out a compromise, condemning ceasefire violations and expressing regret over casualties and property damage. It was approved unanimously.

The resolution appealed to both Israel and the Arab states to "cease immediately all prohibited military activities in the area and to co-operate fully and promptly" with UN peace observers.

The compromise sidestepped any action that might be construed as a move toward a permanent settlement, such as authorizing Thant to name a special representative to seek a peaceful solution of the issues left by the June war.

THOUSANDS CLASH IN SPANISH RIOT

MADRID (UPI)—Thousands of rock-throwing university students skirmished with riot police today after an anti-government march on the ministry of education was dispersed by police cavalry charges.

The clashes came after mounted police swinging long leather-bound riot crops galloped full tilt into a group of demonstrators silently marching to protest "the general repressive policies of the government."

POLICE TO RESCUE

Mob Harasses Navy Recruiter

OBERLIN, Ohio (UPI)—Helmeted police lobbed tear gas shells and a water barrage at a crowd of 150 Oberlin college students today to free a navy recruiter trapped in his car more than four hours.

The students, their arms linked together, had surrounded the military sedan and refused to heed police orders to disperse.

About [illegible] policemen, highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies moved in with a water truck to break up the demonstration.

The water and gas fusillade scattered the students, many of whom were singing We Shall Overcome and shouting "Hell no, we won't go," and enabled Lt. Cmdr. C. R. Smith of Detroit to leave his car.

NO INJURIES

No injuries or arrests were reported.

After the students were scattered, many of them appeared at Oberlin City Hall and the police station to protest the police tactics.

Officers estimated about 150 students were involved in the blockade of Smith's car. More than 200 other students lined the street and sidewalks, some carrying placards protesting the war in Vietnam.

The blockade began when Smith tried to drive onto school grounds to begin two days of campus recruiting.

NO POWER

One large group of students immediately surrounded the car. Another group paraded on the sidewalks with signs and placards.

The blockade occurred on a public street across from the school, and Oberlin authorities said they had no power to stop it.

Two other navy recruiters made it onto the campus without incident. Authorities said they also arrived in cars but escaped detection of the students.

SIT-DOWN SNARLS UNIVERSITY

MONTREAL (CP) — About 500 students at Sir George Williams University began a sit-down demonstration in the lobby of the university's main building today in response to their student society's call for a one-day boycott of classes.

Jeff Chipman, president of the Students' Association, called on the 5,200 day students of the university to go on strike in support of demands for a greater student voice in the government of Sir George Williams.

Bombers Hit Power Plant In Hanoi

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Navy bombers raided an electric power plant near the heart of Hanoi today. Two pilots reported shooting down a supersonic MiG-21 just south of the North Vietnamese capital.

Flyers bombed the power plant, 1.1 miles north of the centre of Hanoi, continuing for a third straight day intensified U.S. raids on bridges, rail yards and MiG air bases around Hanoi and Haiphong.

The U.S. command said results of the latest Hanoi raid were not yet available. But it announced earlier that 10 more MiGs were destroyed or damaged on the ground during strikes Wednesday on the Phuc Yen air base 18 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, in a dispatch from Hanoi said U.S. planes bombed and strafed the centre of the city. The dispatch said five U.S. planes were shot down and several American flyers bailed out.

The U.S. command made no announcement of any plane losses today but said three U.S. fighter-bombers were shot down Wednesday.

Pentagon Protesters Refuse Food

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten women and 13 men are reported to have refused to eat since they were arrested during anti-war demonstrations at the Pentagon last weekend.

They and 31 others — who are accepting food — are the only persons still being held of the 667 persons arrested during the march on the Pentagon. An estimated 35,000 persons took part in the rally at U.S. defence department headquarters. Some of them camped on the Pentagon mall until arrested or forced to leave at midnight Sunday.

Among the men at the jail is Rev. Daniel Berrigan, a Jesuit priest who works with the United Religious Group at Cornell University. He has refused food since he was arrested.

Block Recruiters From Napalm Firm

By The Associated Press

Student anti-war protesters held demonstrations on three of the major U.S. college campuses Wednesday while a National Student Association leader announced plans for a conference on "student power."

All of the campus demonstrations were aimed at protesting the presence of recruiters from the Dow Chemical Co.—a chief manufacturer of napalm being used in the Vietnam war.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Senate subcommittee has started investigating the National Conference for New Politics—the coalition group of so-called "new left" organizations.

The investigation is reported to have been authorized Oct. 11, and now is under way. The new politics conference includes militant civil rights groups, Communists, socialists, anti-war groups and others.

In Cambridge, Mass., about 400 Harvard and Radcliffe students held a Dow recruiter captive for seven hours in a conference room before they voted to release him.

FACE SUSPENSION

As a result, Dr. Fred L. Glimp, dean of admissions at Harvard, said some students face suspensions of up to one year. Many of those participating were from the Harvard chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society.

Student demonstrators at the University of Illinois in Champaign forced the cancellation of job interviews by a Dow representative.

They locked arms to prevent interviewers from entering a conference room.

University Chancellor Jack Peltason announced the cancellation of the interviews and said disciplinary action would be taken against those who participated.

Twenty University of Minnesota students, who spent Tuesday night in the placement office to protest recruitment by Dow, announced plans for a 48-hour fast "to express our compassion for these innocent victims" of napalm.

In New York City, however, more than 100 Columbia University students rallied in support of a policy allowing military, industrial and professional recruiters on campus.

Edward Schwartz, National Student Association president, announced in Washington a "student power" conference at the university of Minnesota Nov. 17-19.

"The reckless use of police on campuses last week," he said, "has merely highlighted the lack of concern that administrators feel toward students and has lent new urgency for our drive to encourage student power on campuses."

Broken Wings, Sick Bodies; SPCA Does Care!

By TED GASKELL

There doesn't seem to be much left in the animal world to surprise Dave Beeching and his staff at the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals centre at Napier and Burnside.

They've looked after swans too heavy to fly, dogs poisoned by mouse bait, a wild cat trapped in a bathroom, spent weeks feeding fawns every two hours and tried to repair broken wings of birds brought in by unhappy children.

Once Mr. Beeching hired a boat and went over to Chatham Island to investigate what proved to be an unfounded complaint about the condition of sheep there.

•

All this is taken in the SPCA stride and is in addition to an almost fulltime job of looking after strays, operating a pound and finding homes for unwanted animals.

No wonder the $43,798 budget for 1968 includes a $6,930 deficit, the SPCA's share of the $600,000 set as the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal target.

Looking after animals is costly.

"The service operates 24 hours a day with staff on call for emergency service," Mr. Beeching said.

"Last month the SPCA found homes for 57 cats out of the 451 brought in for adoption or as strays. More than 140 were put to sleep at the request of the owners. In July 590 cats were handled.

"The society found homes for 58 of the 90 dogs brought in for adoption. More than 60 were impounded but only 40 were claimed by their owners."

Many cats and dogs are kept at the shelter and many will find homes with the people who come around looking for pets.

And what pets!

At present there are beautiful Labradors, two fine boxers

MINUTEMEN POISED TO KILL, N.Y. TOLD

NEW YORK (AP) — The extreme right-wing Minutemen have branches in 33 New York State counties, Attorney-General Louis J. Lefkowitz said Wednesday, and are "training, reading, thinking and living guns, bombs and violence — actively preparing for a private war."

Following a nine-month investigation of the underground outfit, Lefkowitz recommended the outlawing of the paramilitary Minutemen as "a potential threat to the peace and security of New York State and other states."

"A number of Minutemen," he said in a report to Governor Nelson Rockefeller, "testified that upon the orders of their superiors, they would not hesitate to assassinate such 'Communist sympathizers' as the vice-president of the United States, the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the U.S., the governor of the state of New York and others."

Included in the growing ranks of Minutemen, Lefkowitz said, are "policemen, national guards, members of the armed forces, doctors, teachers, employees on sensitive industries, public employees and citizens in ordinary walks of life."

Blue-Ribbon Group Backs War Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A blue-ribbon committee of former high government officials and other prominent Americans, including former presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, Wednesday strongly endorsed U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Spokesmen for the new group emphasized it was not a part of the Johnson administration's counter-attack on its war critics. But the committee issued a policy statement that clearly supported the government's current war policies.

The statement, announced at a news conference by former Sen. Paul Douglas, Gen. Omar Bradley and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, a former delegate to the United Nations, said: "America cannot afford to let naked aggression or the suppression of freedom go unchallenged . . . and we strongly support our commitment in Vietnam and the policy of non-compromising, although limited, resistance to aggression.

"We are opposed to surrender, however camouflaged. Yet nothing we advocate can be interpreted as unnecessarily risking a general war in Asia or a nuclear war in the world."

MINI-SKIRT FORCES AHEAD FOR CANADA

OTTAWA (CP) — The 2,000 women in Canada's armed forces will be provided with "less mannish" uniforms, national defence headquarters announced today.

No mention was made of the possible color or style although the department noted that "so far, a shirt and tie are out," and the skirt hemline will be raised to "about knee level."

A group of headquarters staff, including several servicewomen, have studied sketches produced by Canadian couturiers and several prototype styles will be made up for consideration.

The department hopes to have a uniform ready early next year for trials by about 25 women, with the final uniform ready sometime in 1969. The color has not yet been decided on.

As in the case of the men's uniform, the new women's dress will be common to all servicewomen, including nursing sisters.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most of the activity was concentrated in oilseeds in dull trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Modest dealings in flax were accompanied by a report that 4,000 tons of Canadian flax had been sold to East Germany. Hedging sales representing farm deliveries continued on the light scale in both flax and rapeseed. A steady Chicago soybean market and small deliveries coming ino the market helped rapeseed prices stay firm.

Oats and barley trade was light and domestic.

Rye prices held to a narrow range in light trade aided to some extent by firm Chicago grain prices.

Lakehead prices for IWA, class two and domestic wheat were down one cent.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat declined more than a cent on the board of trade today but corn and soybeans developed some unexpected strength.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mine Stocks Hit Highs

Two mining stocks hit new highs in moderate forenoon trading on the Vancouver stock exchange today.

Arctic put on .11 to $2.41 and Granisle advanced .40 to $8.10.

Prices continued to be mixed in moderate trading today at Toronto. On Wall Street the market was generally higher in active trading.

AT TORONTO on the main list, International Utilities jumped 1¼ to 40, Inco 1 to 114, Jefferson Lake ⅞ to 60⅞, Moore Corp. ½ to 31 and Rank Organization and Levy Industries ¼ each to 7 and 29½.

In base metals, Denison fell 1 to 81, Patino and Roman Corp. ½ each to 15½ and 27⅜, Rio Algom and Preston Mines ⅜ each to 34¼ and 20⅜ and Lake Dufault ¼ to 10¾.

In western oils, Scurry-Rainbow advanced 1⅜ to 41⅞.

AT NEW YORK, Chrysler gained a fraction after a report of higher earnings. All the other leading auto stocks tacked on fractions. Steels were mixed.

Granby gained 2¼ among Canadians while Dome fell 1⅛. Inco gained ½, Distillers ⅜ and Alcan ⅛. Hudson Bay lost ⅝ and Walker ⅜.

AT MONTREAL prices were mixed.

International Nickel jumped 14 points to 114. Cominco slid ⅝ to 27⅛, and Hudson Bay Mining ¼ to 59½ on news of reduced earnings for the Sept. 30 quarter.

DuPont jumped one point to 26¼, and International Utilities 1⅞ to 40½.

AT LONDON persistent buying pushed prices higher on the stock market today. Company statements and big situations contributed much to the overall volume.

Gilts, however, remained quiet and eased from earlier higher levels. Dollar stocks were mostly lower.

In Canadians, Inco, Noranda and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas advanced. Dome, Hollinger and Massey fell back.

Among Canadian banks to ease ⅛ were Montreal and Toronto Dominion.

In industrials, rises were widespread.

AT VANCOUVER Lornex was up .30 to $7.40 and Northlode gained .06 to 79 cents. Highmont dropped .15 to $4.10 and Endako was off .50 to $12.25.

In the industrials Western Broadcasting gained .75 to $17.50.

GM Reports Hefty Gain In Profits

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. has reported increased sales and earnings for the third quarter.

The big automaker said dollar sales for the three months ended Sept. 30 were $3,800,000,000, compared with $3,300,000,444 in the 1966 third quarter.

Net income for the period was $149,000,000 or 51 cents a share, compared with $100,000,000, or 34 cents a share, a year earlier.

It said worldwide factory sales for the quarter were 1,099,000 trucks and cars, compared with 976,000 units in the 1966 third period.

MADE GOOD START

Chairman Frederic G. Donner and President James M. Roche said sales of GM's 1968 models were "off to a strong start." They said sales of GM cars and trucks built in the United States in the 1967 third quarter totalled 819.000, an increase of 18 per cent over the similar 1966 quarter.

Sales in Canada for the quarter were 46,000 and 11-per-cent increase over the previous year, but sales of vhicles produced in GM plants overseas were 234,000 during the quarter, or three per cent below a year earlier.

For the first nine months of 1967, GM dollar sales were $14,200,000,000 compared with $14,500,000,000 in the 1966 period; net income was $1,060,000,000, compared with $1,240,000,000 and earnngs per share were $3.68 and $4.31 respectively.

Worldwide sales of cars and trucks for the first nine months were 4,427,000 units this year, compared with 4,850,000 units last year.

Tingling Cash Tune For Beatles

LONDON (UPI) — The Beatles played another tinkling tune when they checked in on the stock exchange with the full year's results for their Northern Songs Company.

During the year to the end of April, pre-tax profits climbed from 614,000 pounds ($2.28 million) to nearly 843,000 pounds ($2.36 million) and the directors are stepping up the total dividend payment from 40 to 56 per cent with the payment of a final of 32 per cent.

The directors emphasize that of the increase, 165,000 pounds ($462,000) of net income from royalties is attributable to Lenmac Enterprises Ltd., which owns rights over songs composed by John Lennon and Paul McCartney, and was acquired by the company earlier this year.

Shareholders have already been told that profits from Lenmac will be "substantially less" in future.

Former Mine Officer Wins Injunction

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edward Dobell, former secretary-treasurer of Cowichan Copper Co., won a Supreme Court order preventing the sale of 450,000 of the company's treasury shares to anyone but himself.

The injunction, granted by Mr. Justice Peter Seaton, against the company and its president Osgood MacDonald, is good until the trial of Mr. Dobell's action for damages for breach of contract.

Mr. Dobell claims breach of an agreement he entered into with Mr. MacDonald to lend the company $100,000.

He said he put up $90,000 and Mr. MacDonald advanced the other $10,000. The money was secured by a company debenture with the privilege of converting it to shares at 20 cents each.

Court was told a dispute arose between the two men following the agreement and a proxy battle ensued in which Mr. Dobell was ousted as a director at the company's annual meeting in April.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Seaton said Mr. Dobell exercised his conversion privilege but was unable to get his shares. He said that if Mr. Dobell had converted his shares before the annual meeting the results of director balloting would have been different.

The Sasquatch—myth, hoax or fantastic reality—has lumbered its way into the newspapers again, and before this day is out, anthropologists will gaze upon what may or may not be its living, moving likeness on film.

If what they see lends credibility to the swarm of Sasquatch reports that has accumulated through the years, the inevitable next step will be to bag a Sasquatch.

Expeditions will probe Sasquatch habitat; and sooner or later, some bug-eyed searcher may find himself exchanging stares with a pretty fair replica of childhood's bogeyman.

Assuming that the human primate carries a rifle, how stands his moral and legal position toward what could conceivably be an infinitely remote ancestor of our species? If he shoots and kills, has he collected a unique animal specimen, or is he guilty of homicide?

Since we are told that this consideration has already caused one self-asserted Sasquatch sighter to hold his fire, I think that a ruling from the A-G's department might be advisable.

My own feeling is that the Sasquatch, if he exists and can be tracked down, could be netted (although I wouldn't want any part of that endeavor) or perhaps potted with a hypodermic dart.

Or he could simply be left alone to wander his remote domain, unproven and unpestered. After all, why spoil a good story?

A while back, I told you about Preville, one of Montreal's self-sufficient residential communities. Stroll its streets on a garbage collection day, and you will see mighty few of the familiar, battered and often odorous old-style garbage cans.

Instead, set out for the pickup crews in front of each property, are large, plump green plastic bags secured at the neck with a twist of wire-cored tape.

These liners are very easily installed. You lower one of the tough bags into a can and fold its top back around the can's edge. There's no mess, no smell, no bother. Protected by its liner, the can stays fresh as a daisy.

First shopping trip after we came home, we learned that our favorite supermart stocks these bags in packages of 10, with ties included. Price per pack, 69 cents when we bought 'em.

In Saanich where we dwell, collections have reverted from summer's one-a-week to a biweekly roundup, so the bags for our two cans cost us but seven cents a week.

We're pleased, the fellows on the gobble-truck are pleased, and so I think are all who have tried these handy liners.

Time now for a stockholders' report on a University of Victoria student whom readers of this column generously took a long chance on when I aired his plight something over two years ago.

His name or rather the name which I chose to protect him — is Kelly, and as you may remember, he was in desperate shape when he made his appearance here. Determined at all costs to get a university education, he was struggling to make do with borrow textbooks, while existing on apples hooked from a tree, and the occasional sandwich from a friend's lunch.

Readers by the dozen and the score checked in with offers of help that added up to an expense-paid freshman year for him.

Kelly was grateful then and still is. He's a third year student now, with a woods-working summer behind him, and his future prospects bright.

"The finest thing that ever happened to me," said Kelly when we met the other day.

Pedestrian Reported In Fair Condition

Accident victim Lim Choy, 72, is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Choy was rushed to hospital at 7 p.m. Tuesday after being struck by a car on Government Street.

HAZARD or a harmless entertainment? Halloween masks are under fire today by National Safety League and police authorities. They say the small holes impede side vision by children roaming dark streets on trick-or-treat rounds. Pat Caton, 1205 Esquimalt, displays current crop of masks in a department store here. Sales, as usual, are brisk.

SAFETY LEAGUE RAPS MASK USE

Little Rouge, Eye Shadow May Save Your Child's Life

Halloween masks are a danger to small children, Victoria Police Chief John Gregory said today.

Parents should use face makeup on children dressing up for trick-or-treat rounds Tuesday night.

Chief Gregory endorsed a code of Halloween safety rules issued this week by National Safety League of Canada.

★ ★ ★

Masks, say the league, often obscure a child's vision. Eye openings are often inadequate and there is always a danger they will slip down over the eyes.

The league suggests that a little rouge, eyebrow pencil, eye shadow, lipstick or perhaps cornflower and zinc oxide can transform a child into a clown, ghost or pirate.

Other safety measures:

Light-colored costumes and shopping bags make the child more visible to drivers. Reflector tape can serve the same purpose while providing the wearer with a suitable ghostly effect.

★ ★ ★

Costumes should not be so long they will trip the wearer. They should be flame-resistant. (Clothing may be flame-proofed by dipping in a gallon of warm water containing nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid. Wring the garment by hand and repeat the bath after each washing).

Flashlights should be used in jack-o'-lanterns, never candles.

Warn children to stay on sidewalks and never dash to the street from between parked cars. Teach them to travel in groups. Teach them the danger in soaping windshields.

PROMOTION to acting rear-admiral of Commodore Robert M. Battles was announced today. Admiral Battles joined the navy in 1941 and was superintendent of HMC Dockyard in Esquimalt until March. He was assistant director of communications-electronic division of international military staff of NATO in Washington.

CO-ORDINATOR NEEDED

Children 'Short-Changed' In School Library Service

Children are being short-changed in library services, a Victoria Public Library official said Wednesday.

Mrs. Isabelle Goodman, head of the children's department, said there is a need for "specialized libraries related to school studies."

Speaking at a meeting of the Institute of Victoria Librarians, she said local school systems need a library co-ordinator.

And elementary schools need libraries and a book information centre for pupils.

The lack causes pupils to turn to the public library for books it doesn't have and can't purchase because of insufficient funds.

"I think children are being short-charged with regard to books. There is no excuse for not providing schools with efficient and well-equipped libraries."

John Lort, Victoria head librarian, said the school board allots $5 per pupil for books. The public library received $3.50 per person.

He said the book problem, especially in specialized fields, is growing because more people now attend adult education classes in the evening than attend high school by day.

School libraries were not open to them nor were the libraries stocked with sufficient books to take care of their needs, he said.

Howard Gerwing, president of the institute, said school libraries need drastic change.

"The situation is bleak and serious," he said. "Schools have few trained librarians and are poorly serviced."

The meeting was held in McPherson Library, University of Victoria, to consider recommendations submitted by the South Vancouver Island subcommittee of 13, British Columbia Library Association.

The committee, chaired by Priscilla Scott, was set up to study library conditions and problems in this area.

The meeting unanimously endorsed a recommendation to establish a joint library council for south Vancouver Island, composed of heads of all major libraries and including school board representation.

The council's main objectives would be to develop library services in this area and to see that grants and public funds are used to their best advantage.

STUDENT INJURED

A 13-year-old girl is in hospital with abrasions and possible head injuries after she was struck by a car at 8:20 a.m. today.

Police said Marilyn Gill, 1250 Balmoral, was in a crosswalk at the intersection of Pandora and Camosun when hit.

They said the car involved was westbound on Pandora, driven by Tony Pastro, 1940 Haultain.

SAANICH-ESQUIMALT RIDING OUT OF LINE

2,351 People Too Many

Esquimalt-Saanich riding is one of three in B.C. which will have to be revised automatically after its first election under the new federal boundary definitions.

The "quota" for each of B.C.'s 23 ridings is a population of 70,830 with a 25 per cent leeway either side setting the maximum limit at 88,538 and the minimum at 53,123 persons.

But the latest census shows that Esquimalt-Saanich has 90,889 persons. Also over the maximum are Coast-Capilano at 92,326 and Prince George-Peace River at 92,778.

Under the new federal distribution legislation, which was based on the 1961 census, the boundaries must be revised if they fall outside the maximum-minimum limits in a decennial census, the next one coming in 1971.

But the five-year "little census" taken in 1966 shows that at 64 of the nation's 264 electoral districts already are out of line with the limits and undoubtedly will require redefining after 1971.

The first national election has yet to be held under the new legislation and chances are that the changes will be made before the second country-wide poll is taken.

Four Choirs To Participate

Occasion is the Festal Evensong of Saint Simon and Saint Jude, held under the patronage of Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia.

Choirs participating are those of St. Barnabas, St. John's, St. Mary the Virgin and St. Peter's, Lake Hill.

Cut Out THAT Word; Advice from Minister

Vulgar Expression Held Unnecessary

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today gave the word on THAT WORD in a Grade 12 literature text book story using army language.

And it came out clearly as—"Beep, Beep, Beep."

Mr. Peterson said the existence of the four-letter word in the textbook was unknown to his department until the current controversy and has ordered an advisory curriculum revision committee which selected the book to reconsider its recommendation.

DOESN'T SAY HOW

He wouldn't say how the words will be eliminated if the committee recommends against them nor whether he will overrule it if the committee says the story should remain unaltered.

Mr. Peterson noted many persons have become aroused against the use of a vulgar expression for sexual intercourse in passages of dialogue among soldiers in the short story "Defender of the Faith" which appears in the textbook anthology.

"I don't want my children reading them—in textbooks or anywhere else," he told reporters.

"We know that students are aware of them. Indeed they can go to any newsstand and buy books with these words in them but why should they be in prescribed textbooks."

Mr. Peterson said he had read "Defenders of the Faith" by Philip Roth and personally thought it was a good story.

"But I don't think the use of obscene words adds anything to the story at all, in fact, it detracts from it," he said.

"And I'm not a prude. I've been in the army and I've heard that language."

He said the story would have had the same realism if the army vernacular had been disguised or merely alluded to so that the students could "read between the lines" to obtain the same impact.

THREE DOTS

He said the word could have been represented by three dots or "beep, beep, beep" instead.

"You don't have to have that type of obscene language, especially in a prescribed test-book to create an impact," he said.

"I wouldn't say the students are for (the use of) these words."

Mr. Peterson said the advisory committee and its subcommittees was needed to help with textbook list revisions this year because some 70 new titles have been added.

NONE AWARE

He said he was not aware whether "the excellent" subcommittee on English course texts had realized the words were in Mr. Roth's story included in the anthology it recommended.

"Unfortunately, none of the officials of my department were aware of the use of these words in this book or they (the words) may have been rectified before distribution."

Mr. Peterson was asked what he would do if the committee stuck by its recommendation.

"If that happens, you can come to me again and I'll have something to say then," he told reporters."

Painter Falls Off Scaffold

A 62-year-old painter is in good condition in hospital today after falling from a scaffold and breaking his hip on Wednesday.

Ernest Jones, of 119 Crease Avenue, was working at 3775 Mystic Lane when the accident occurred. He was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by the Saanich fire department ambulance.

'Politically Opportune,' Says Bunn

By DON VIPOND
Education Reporter

The chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board lashed Education Minister Peterson today for taking a political stand on the controversial Grade 12 English text which includes a four-letter word.

"Mr. Peterson is doing what he considers to be politically opportune," school board chairman Peter Bunn said after hearing of the education minister's statement.

The school board's 7-2 vote was a considered and mature decision in support of the professional educators who drew up the optional reading list, said the chairman.

The curriculum revision committee members are presumably tops in their field across the province. And the lay people, in this case the elected trustees, have backed them.

'COURAGE'

"It is my great hope," said Mr. Bunn, "that the B.C. Teachers' Federation will have the courage of their previous convictions not to back down before this political pressure."

"I'm strongly opposed to any form of censorship," Robert Kendrick, head of the English department at Oak Bay Secondary, said.

Opponents of the optional text had accused teachers of "promoting filth," he said.

"This is nonsense.

"They miss the whole point.

"The word is used in a setting where it would be found.

"I may teach a book about slavery but that doesn't mean I'm promoting slavery," he said.

'COULD HAVE KILLED HIM'

A .22-calibre bullet which struck Victoria city constable Harry Hoshal during an early morning police raid could easily have killed him, a B.C. Assize Court jury was told today.

Dr. Leonard Bapty said the bullet entered the left side of the chest and came to rest near the abdomen.

"Had it struck any of the vital organs, Constable Hoshal could have died on the spot," he added. But he recovered after Dr. Bapty removed the bullet.

The doctor was giving evidence at the trial of Frank Joseph Bedry (also known as Layton), who is charged with the attempted murder of Constable Hoshal and Molly May Robertson in the early morning of May 4; also with causing them bodily harm.

Bedry has pleaded not guilty.

Constable Hoshal was testifying at press time.

Ex-Track Champion Coach Dies at Home

Well-known track star and former YMCA coach Harry Mitchell died suddenly today at his home at 339 Foul Bay Road.

Mr. Mitchell, 45, was born in Victoria and graduated from Victoria High School where he was senior track champion.

During the Second World War he served with the RCAF as a mechanic.

Upon discharge he resumed his track activities and ran with the "Y". He was four times B.C. champion in the 100 and 220-yards events.

In 1955 he succeeded Bruce Humber as coach for the "Y" team.

He worked for Humber's for 17 years and was store manager at the time of his death.

He was a member of the First United Church where he took an active part in the youth program, was an elder on the Session and was director of Christian Education.

Mr. Mitchell is survived by the widow, Ruth, and two daughters Kim and Kelly at home.

Heroes of 1956 To Be Honored

Heroes of the Hungarian revolution of 1956 will be honored Sunday in commemoration ceremonies, sponsored by the Canadian-Hungarian Society of Victoria.

A service will be conducted in the Polish Hall at Niagara and Dock Streets at 2 p.m. and then a wreath will be placed on the cenotaph outside the Legislative Buildings.

Why Buy Art Treasures To Bury Them in Basement?

Why buy art treasures and hide them in the basement?

Colin Graham, director of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, told members at the annual meeting Wednesday the gallery has works of art worth $700,000 but $400,000 worth are kept in storage because the gallery is too small to display them.

He stressed the need for a new wing and said it is inadvisable to buy more paintings until the gallery is enlarged.

Victoria is in an unusual position, he said. Other cities get municipal grants sufficient for their operation, leaving them free to buy paintings with donations and other revenue.

Here the gallery has operating expenses of about $50,000 but gets only $8,500 in municipal grants. Of this $3,787 is paid back in taxes.

Donations have been made for specific purchases but there's no room for them.

The point was stressed again when artist Robin Skelton suggested the work of local painters should be supported so that the stages of development could be recorded.

This presents another problem, Mr. Graham said.

Much money available for "free purchase" and not ear-marked by donors must be used for operating expenses.

This year the deficit is $5,000.

But in any event, he said, "we must get another wing, before we ask for any money to buy works of art".

Captain John Osborn, chairman of buildings and grounds, said the older part of the building needs repairs and money would have to be found for that purpose and "for possible renewal at some future date."

Retiring president George Maycock said the gallery had experienced a poor year financially but was successful in its "real function".

The children's art classes were well atttended and so were exhibitions.

He praised the provincial government for setting up a trust fund to aid the arts. He hoped that other levels of government would "realize that grants for the arts are not mere handouts for which people receive nothing in exchange."

Mr. Graham said he hoped to see a change in the next five years in the community attitude towards art and that people will realize "it is essential to good life as it is in other parts of the world and not peripheral to it."

ARNOLD PALMER
. . . trouble, trouble

Arnie's Chance to Win Now Rated at 300 to 1

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The burning issue was not whether Arnold Palmer would win the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament, but whether Arnie and his Army would fade out of the scene entirely with 36 holes yet to be played after today.

Las Vegas is renowned for its gambling and one of its prominent apostles, Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder, went so far as to bet intimate friends that Palmer was no better than 300 to 1 to win the thing and 2 to 1 to qualify for the two rounds remaining after today's second round.

George Bayer, with an opening round 66, five shots under par for the Paradise Valley Country Club's 36-35—71, led the way into the second round.

Six players were just one stroke off, but if Bayer's position was perilous, consider Palmer's problem.

He was not only 10 strokes back of Bayer with a 76 Wednesday, but there were almost as many people as Arnie's Army crowded in between the leaders and Mr. P.

Palmer, however, is a man of considerable magic. A year ago he had a first-round 71 and scooted to an 80 the next afternoon.

Yet he charged back with a 67 and his 285 gave him a tie for second place.

Jack Nicklaus, with 71-77-68-66—282 won the 1966 tourney and Jack is in better shape with his initial 68 this time around.

Tied at 67 were Ken Still, Terry Dill, Frank Beard, Julius Boros, Bo Wininger and Homero Blancas.

Stockers Plan Step Up Hockey Ladder

Added firepower and a new goalkeeper may put the emphasis on "move" for Stocker's North Americans in the Vancouver Island Hockey League.

Stockers are 1-1 in the won-lost column and plan to step higher on the hockey ladder Friday night when they play Esquimalt Tudors at the Sports Centre.

University of Victoria Vikings face Queen's Own Rifles in the opening half of the weekly doubleheader, starting at 7:45.

Ex-Winnipegger Brian O'Neill is Stockers' new goalie, and coach Doug Anderson is hopeful he may be instrumental in a banner year for the Movers.

Other new additions are Jim Shkwarok, with Vikings' last year; centre Nick Nicolletti, an ex-Combo; former UBC Thunderbird Les Bergman, Bob Holness and Glenn Vickers. Holness and Vickers, graduates of Victoria minor hickey, are returning to the league after a layoff of two seasons.

Stockers were hit with one big loss Wednesday when team captain Jim Middleton moved to Winnipeg to take up a new job.

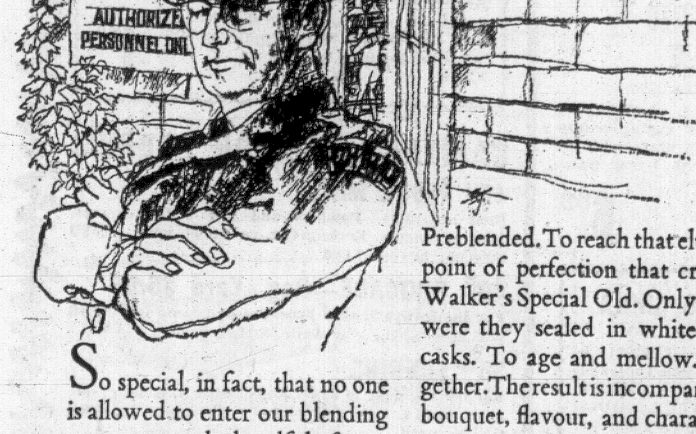
Hiram Walker's Special Old Canadian Whisky is blended first; aged later. That's what makes it Special.



So special, in fact, that no one is allowed to enter our blending room except the handful of people who belong. After all, there's a whisky being born in there.

Because a whisky is born when it's blended. (Most whiskies are blended just before they're bottled. Like maybe last week.)

But Walker's Special Old was blended long ago. The very day that its ingredient whiskies were distilled. They were carefully and painstakingly combined. Preblended. To reach that elusive point of perfection that creates Walker's Special Old. Only then were they sealed in white oak casks. To age and mellow. Together. The result is incomparable bouquet, flavour, and character.

Our people take the longer, more difficult route to make Walker's Special Old. Because how else could we call it Special?

We blend it before we age it.

Wolman-Snider Parley Delayed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A scheduled meeting planned between Jerry Wolman, owner of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, and Ed Snider, fired last Thursday as operating head of the Eagles, was postponed. No new date was announced.

Wolman fired Snider, a long-time friend, in a front office dispute and replaced him with Joe King, 38-year-old business manager of the Eagles.

Snider is president of Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League. No reason was given for his dismissal.

Tyees Travel Shutout Route Over Esquimalt

Oak Bay and Mount View consistently score close victories in the Inter-High School Soccer League but Victoria High is making a habit of banging off big wins.

The Tyees were at it again Wednesday. They bombed winless Esquimalt Dockers 4-0. It was their fifth win in eight games; the others finished in draws.

Tyees have strength where it counts—up front and in goal. They have scored more often than any team (20 goals) and have been the least open-hearted (only five goals against). The latter statistic reflects the fine play of goalkeeper Kjeld Brodsgaard.

In four of his team's victories, Brodsgaard was the ultimate guard—he shut out the opposition.

TORMENTED DEFENCE

Glen Robinson was Tyees' aggressive offensive leader. He scored two goals, tormented the Dockers' defence with crisp lace to his mates. Stu Wallace and Luigi Nambrance scored the other Vic High goals. Don Elbany was Dockers' most effective player.

Oak Bay and Mount View remained two points behind Tyees, shading Mount Douglas and Claremont 2-1 respectively.

Peter Mason scored both OB goals after Lorne Bunyon had put Mount Douglas ahead on a rebound.

Claremont was draped out of the playoff race by Bill Walker's two goals. His first came on a corner kick which caromed off goal-keeper Ken Lundeen.

Ted Clark brought Claremont even with a 30-yard drive but Walker headed in the decisive goal on a pass from Bill Gerard.

Travel to Edmonton After Local Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. James Mc Garvey travelled to Edmonton where they will be making their new home following their wedding in Sacred Heart Church.

The bride, the former Patricia Constance Johnsen, wore a gown of radiance crepe for the service. It was fashioned with a bodice of Alencon lace, styled with a bateau neckline, and belled sleeves tipping the elbow. A chapel train of Alencon lace swept back from the shoulders and a crown headpiece of lace petals, tipped with pearls, held her tiered illusion veil which misted to her shoulders. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Gold and bronze chrysanthemums with Mexican orange greens decorated the church when Fr. J. Planeta heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Johnsen, 3589 Quadra Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McGarvey of Belnaclough, Augher, County Tyrone, North Ireland. Mr. Johnsen gave his daughter in marriage.

Jack Lenaghan was organist accompanying the soloist Miss Leona Hanley who sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelis" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

Miss Virginia Johnsen, Montreal, attended her sister. She wore a gown of midnight blue embroidered brocade with a tulle headpiece en tone and carried a cascade bouquet of Jack Joice chrysanthemums.

Patrick O'Hagan was best man and Michael Green and Ben Perri ushered the guests.

At the reception following in Holyrood House a three-tier wedding cake, topped with miniature chrysanthemums, centred the head table. J. S. Carson proposed the toast to the bride.

Travelling to Victoria for the service were Mr. and Mrs. John Sinclair of Acme, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. B. Grand and Mrs. R. C. Erickson, the bride's grandmother, all of Tofino, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Philipson of Vancouver.

For travelling, the new Mrs. McGarvey chose a green tweed suit and mink hat which she accented with taupe and beige kid accessories.

Wears Heirloom Necklace As Her Wedding Talisman

An heirloom seed pearl necklace belonging to the bride's mother was the "something old" talisman for Karen Elizabeth Lendrum when she became the bride of John Raymond Deighton in St. John's Anglican Church.

Given in marriage by her brother, John Lendrum, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white faille over taffeta, styled with a fitted bodice that featured a portrait neckline, lily point sleeves and a waistband of Guipure lace. A full cathedral train, trimmed with matching lace, swept back from the waist. Her full cathedral veil misted from a single satin lily, centred with pearls. She carried a starburst bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis.

Parents of the principals are Mrs. Charles Lendrum, 247 Government Street, the late Mrs. Charles Edward Lendrum, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Deighton of Oliver.

White chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony and Canon A. G. Baker officiated.

The bride's attendants chose identical floor-length peacock green peau de soie gowns with portrait necklines. Their headpieces were pale yellow pill boxes in floral design. Suspended from their wrists were dainty bouquets of pale yellow chrysanthemums, fashioned into pompoms.

Bridesmatron was Mrs. Randall Harrison, sister of the bride, and maid of honor was Miss Treva Lewis.

Alex McLennan, Penticton, was best man. The guests were ushered to pews marked by white satin bows by Bruce Preston and Cary McLeod.

At the reception, held in the home of the bride's mother, the head table was centred by a two-tier wedding cake, topped with yellow roses. White candles, set in silver candelabra, accented the table. Lyle Wilson proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling on honeymoon, the bride donned a green A-line dress, chocolate brown wool coat, a green-trimmed whimsie, black patent accessories, accented by a pearl necklace and earrings.

Broken Wings, Sick Bodies; SPCA Does Care!

By TED GASKELL

There doesn't seem to be much left in the animal world to surprise Dave Beeching and his staff at the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals centre at Napier and Burnside.

They've looked after swans too heavy to fly, dogs poisoned by mouse bait, a wild cat trapped in a bathroom, spent weeks feeding fawns every two hours and tried to repair broken wings of birds brought in by unhappy children.

Once Mr. Beeching hired a boat and went over to Chatham Island to investigate what proved to be an unfounded complaint about the condition of sheep there.

●

All this is taken in the SPCA stride and is in addition to an almost fulltime job of looking after strays, operating a pound and finding homes for unwanted animals.

No wonder the $43,798 budget for 1968 includes a $6,930 deficit, the SPCA's share of the $600,000 set as the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal target.

Looking after animals is costly.

"The service operates 24 hours a day with staff on call for emergency service," Mr. Beeching said.

"Last month the SPCA found homes for 57 cats out of the 451 brought in for adoption or as strays. More than 140 were put to sleep, at the request of the owners. In July 590 cats were handled.

"The society found homes for 58 of the 90 dogs brought in for adoption. More than 60 were impounded but only 40 were claimed by their owners."

Many cats and dogs are kept at the shelter and many will find homes with the people who come around looking for pets.

And what pets!

At present there are beautiful Labradors, two fine boxers

MINUTEMEN POISED TO KILL, N.Y. TOLD

NEW YORK (AP) — The extreme right-wing Minutemen have branches in 33 New York State counties, Attorney-General Louis J. Lefkowitz said Wednesday, and are "training, reading, thinking and living guns, bombs and violence — actively preparing for a private war."

Following a nine-month investigation of the underground outfit, Lefkowitz recommended the outlawing of the paramilitary Minutemen as "a potential threat to the peace and security of New York State and other states."

"A number of Minutemen," he said in a report to Governor Nelson Rockefeller, "testified that upon the orders of their superiors, they would not hesitate to assassinate such 'Communist sympathizers' as the vice-president of the United States, the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the U.S., the governor of the state of New York and others."

Included in the growing ranks of Minutemen, Lefkowitz said, are "policemen, national guards, members of the armed forces, doctors, teachers, employees on sensitive industries, public employees and citizens in ordinary walks of life."

Egyptian Oil Fires Controlled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firefighters brought the oil fires in Egypt's Suez refineries under control Wednesday night, 40 hours after Israeli shells set them blazing.

The United Nations Security Council reacted to the artillery duel—which each side accused the other of starting—by condemning all violations of the ceasefire which ended the June Arab-Israeli war. It did not censure Israel as the Russians demanded.

UN Secretary-General U Thant asked the Security Council to increase the number of truce observers to 90 from 43 and requested four patrol boats and four small helicopters for them.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reports the fires under control at the Nasr and Suez refineries, which filled nearly three-fourths of Egypt's domestic petroleum needs. The flames were not expected to be out until some time today.

SHELLING KILLS 16

Egyptian officials reported eight civilians and eight military men were killed in the shelling and 60 civilians and 32 military men wounded.

Al Ahram says 17 storage tanks were set on fire but gave no further details on damage.

Governor Hamid Mahmoud of Suez told visiting correspondents the damage was extensive. He also said some shells hit houses, schools and factories.

Al Ahram also reports that several ships of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean would arrive today at Port Said, at the northern end of the Suez Canal, for a "friendly visit." A number of Soviet warships visited Port Said in the tense weeks after the June war but despite the Kremlin's support of the Arabs took no action against Israeli forces in the adjacent Sinai Desert.

At the United Nations, the Soviet Union had asked for a resolution condemning Israel and demanding reparations for damage caused by its guns. A U.S. resolution condemned all violations of the ceasefire and insisted on observance of the truce.

ESCALATION DENOUNCED

The 10 non-permanent members of the 15-nation Security Council, which includes Canada, worked out a compromise, condemning ceasefire violations and expressing regret over casualties and property damage. It was approved unanimously.

The resolution appealed to both Israel and the Arab states to "cease immediately all prohibited military activities in the area and to co-operate fully and promptly" with UN peace observers.

The compromise sidestepped any action that might be construed as a move toward a permanent settlement, such as authorizing Thant to name a special representative to seek a peaceful solution of the issues left by the June war.

Council members have been trying for weeks to find a permanent solution. They have concentrated on a statement of basic principles, such as Israeli withdrawal from captured Arab soil and an end to the Arab state of belligerency toward Israel.

CROWNING HIS WIFE in glittering ceremony today is the Shah of Iran who began rites by crowning himself and sitting on throne for first time in his 26-year rule of the Arab nation. (AP Wirephoto.)

BELATED CORONATION

King of Kings Crowned As Roses Fall on Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Guns boomed and planes bombed Tehran with roses today as the Shah of Iran set a jewelled crown on his head and named himself King of Kings and Light of the Aryans.

It was the longest delayed coronation in history. Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has ruled for 26 years but delayed his coronation until his 48th birthday, after his campaign to modernize Iran was firmly established and after he had an heir.

The shah crowned himself, then rose from the fabled Peacock throne and placed a crown on the head of his kneeling third wife, Empress Farah, 20 years his junior. She was the first woman ever crowned in Iran's 2,513 years as a monarchy.

Calls to prayer echoed from minarets through the land and crowds dropped to their knees shouting "Javid shah!" (Long live the shah!). The coronation was broadcast and televised from the glittering Golestan Palace opposite Tehran's old bazaar.

REVELRY ABOUNDS

Iran, which has been transformed into the fastest developing and most stable in the Middle East by the Shah's revolution, erupted in a fervor of celebrations.

By donning the Pahlevi crown with its 3,755 jewels and the pearl-embroidered coronation cape, the son of a semi-literate Cossack officer named himself heir to Cyrus the Great, the Persian emperor who ruled the civilized world 25 centuries ago before the Roman Empire was born.

The Pahlevi dynasty dates back only to 1926, when the Shah's father—an officer in the Persian Army—led a military coup, seized the throne and crowned himself Reza Shah the Great.

Reza Shah's son came to power in 1941 when Britain and Russian troops occupied the country and deposed the father for allegedly being pro-German. But the son refused to be crowned for more than two decades because "there is no pride in being the king of a poor people" and also because his first two wives did not give him an heir.

Today the six-year-old son of the shah and Empress Farah stood at their side. And throughout the country were new signs of wealth from the royal revolution which has ended Iran's feudal system of landholding and poured much of its oil wealth back into modernization of the country.

BULLET-PROOF COACH

Frantically-shouting crowds lined the 11-mile route along which eight white Hungarian horses pulled the $78,000 blue-and-gold bullet-proof coach in which the shah and his empress rode from their Marble Palace to the Golestan Palace. The crown prince rode behind them in a coach pulled by four black horses.

More than 7,500 soldiers plus police and gendarmes kept the cheering flag-waving crowd behind barricades along the route through the brightly-decorated capital. Two squadrons of imperial lancers and a battalion of infantry escorted the procession.

Led by the commander of the imperial guards and an escort with swords aloft, the little crown prince looked solemn in a gold encrusted replica of his father's uniform, as he walked through the blazing hall of mirrors to the throne rome.

The coronation chamber, 50 yards long, glittered like a giant diamond beneath five chandeliers of crystal. About 500 diplomats and Iranian dignitaries packed the room on grey-upholstered benches, while a crowd of 5,500 waited in a grandstand in the courtyard of the palace.

Empress Farah followed her son, wearing a Dior gown of white Swiss silk and an emerald necklace. Six ladies-in-waiting walked behind.

Napalm Firm Recruiter Held

By The Associated Press

Student anti-war protesters held demonstrations o three of the major U.S. college campuses Wednesday while a National Student Association leader announce plans for a conference on "student power."

All of the campus demonstrations were aimed at protesting the presence of recruiters from the Dow Chemical Co.—a chief manufacturer of napalm being used in the Vietnam war.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Senate subcommittee has started investigating the National Conference for New Politics—the coalition group of so-called "new left" organizations.

The investigation is reported to have been authorized Oct. 11 and now is under way. The new politics conference includes militant civil rights groups, Communists, socialists, anti-war groups and others.

In Cambridge, Mass., about 400 Harvard and Radcliffe students held a Dow recruiter captive for seven hours in a conference room before they voted to release him.

FACE SUSPENSION

As a result, Dr. Fred L. Glimp, dean of admissions at Harvard, said some students face suspensions of up to one year. Many of those participating were from the Harvard chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society.

Student demonstrators at the University of Illinois in Champaign forced the cancellation of job interviews by a Dow repre sentative.

They locked arms to preven interviewers from entering conference room.

University Chancellor Jac Peltason announced the cancel lation of the interviews and sai disciplinary action would b taken against those who partic pated.

Twenty University of Minnesota students, who spent Tuesday night in the placement office t protest recruitment by Dow, an nounced plans for a 48-hour fas "to express our compassion fo these innocent victims" of napalm.

In New York City, however more than 100 Columbia University students rallied in suppor of a policy allowing military, in dustrial and professional recrui ters on campus.

Edward Schwartz, Nation Student Association presiden announced in Washington "student power" conference a the university of Minneso Nov. 17-19.

"The reckless use of police o campuses last week," he said "has merely highlighted th lack of concern that administra tors feel toward students an has lent new urgency for ou drive to encourage student power on campuses."

POLICE TO RESCUE

Mob Harasses Navy Official

OBERLIN, Ohio (UPI)—Helmeted police lobbe tear gas shells and a water barrage at a crowd of 15 Oberlin college students today to free a navy recruite trapped in his car more than four hours.

The students, their arms linked together, had surrounded the military sedan and refused to heed police orders to disperse.

About 20 policemen, highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies moved in with a water truck to break up the demonstration.

The water and gas fusillade scattered the students, many of whom were singing We Shall Overcome and shouting "Hell no, we won't go," and enabled Lt. Cmdr. C. R. Smith of Detroit to leave his car.

NO INJURIES

No injuries or arrests were reported.

After the students were scattered, many of them appeared at Oberlin City Hall and the police station to protest the police tactics.

Officers estimated about 150 students were involved in the blockade of Smith's car. More than 200 other students lined the street and sidewalks, some carrying placards protesting the war in Vietnam.

The blockade began when Smith tried to drive onto school grounds to begin two days of campus recruiting.

NO POWER

One large group of students immediately surrounded the car. Another group paraded on the sidewalks with signs and placards.

The blockade occurred on public street across from th school, and Oberlin authoritie said they had no power to sto it.

Two other navy recruite made it onto the campu without incident. Authoritie said they also arrived in car but escaped detection of th students.

THOUSANDS CLASH IN SPANISH RIOT

MADRID (UPI)—Thousands of rock-throwing university students skirmished with riot police today after an anti-government march on the ministry of education was dispersed by police cavalry charges.

The clashes came after mounted police swinging long leather-bound riot crops galloped full tilt into a group of demonstrators silently marching to protest "the general repressive policies of the government."

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. has reported increased sales and earnings for the third quarter.

The big automaker said dollar sales for the three months ended Sept. 30 were $3,800,000,000, compared with $3,300,000,444 in the 1966 third quarter.

Net income for the period was $149,000,000 or 51 cents a share, compared with $100,000,000, or 34 cents a share, a year earlier.

It said worldwide factory sales for the quarter were 1,099,000 trucks and cars, compared with 976,000 units in the 1966 third period.

MADE GOOD START

Chairman Frederic G. Donner and President James M. Roche said sales of GM's 1968 models were "off to a strong start." They said sales of GM cars and trucks built in the United States in the 1967 third quarter totalled 819.000, an increase of 18 per cent over the similar 1966 quarter.

Sales in Canada for the quarter were .46,000 and 11-per-cent increase over the previous year, but sales of vhicles produced in GM plants overseas were 234,000 during the quarter, or three per cent below a year earlier.

Mine Stocks Hit Highs

Two mining stocks hit new highs in moderate forenoon trading on the Vancouver stock exchange today.

Arctic put on .11 to $2.41 and Granisle advanced .40 to $8.10.

Prices were down in moderate trading today at Toronto. On Wall Street the market was generally higher in active trading.

AT TORONTO in industrials, Canadian Utilities dropped 1½ to 39½, Noranda 1¼ to 51½, IMC 1⅛ to 31⅞, Falconbridge ⅞ to 89⅛ and Walkers ¾ to 32½.

Beaver Lumber picked up 2¼ to 36, FTE Pioneer 1⅜ to 34¾, International Utilities and Inco 1 each to 39¾ and 114.

Among western oils, Scurry Rainbow declined ¾ to 39¾ and Central Del Rio ½ to 18¾. North Canadian Oils advanced 60 cents to 7.60.

AT NEW YORK, Chrysler gained a fraction after a report of higher earnings. All the other leading auto stocks tacked on fractions. Steels were mixed.

Granby gained 2¼ among Canadians while Dome fell 1⅛. Inco gained ½, Distillers ⅜ and Alcan ⅛. Hudson Bay lost ⅝ and Walker ⅜.

AT MONTREAL prices were mixed.

International Nickel jumped 14 points to 114. Cominco slid ⅝ to 27⅛, and Hudson Bay Mining ¼ to 59½ on news of reduced earnings for the Sept. 30 quarter.

DuPont jumped one point to 26¼, and International Utilities 1⅞ to 40½.

AT LONDON persistent buying pushed prices higher on the stock market today. Company statements and big situations contributed much to the overall volume.

Gilts, however, remained quiet and eased from earlier higher levels. Dollar stocks were mostly lower.

In Canadians, Inco, Noranda and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas advanced. Dome, Hollinger and Massey fell back.

Among Canadian banks to ease ⅛ were Montreal and Toronto Dominion.

In industrials, rises were widespread.

In the industrials Western Broadcasting gained .75 to $17.50.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most of the activity was concentrated in oilseeds in dull trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Oats and barley trade was light and domestic.

Rye prices held to a narrow range in light trade aided to some extent by firm Chicago grain prices.

Lakehead prices for IWA, class two and domestic wheat were down one cent.

Tingling Cash Tune For Beatles

LONDON (UPI) — The Beatles played another tinkling tune when they checked in on the stock exchange with the full year's results for their Northern Songs Company.

During the year to the end of April, pre-tax profits climbed from 614,000 pounds ($2.28 million) to nearly 843,000 pounds ($2.36 million) and the directors are stepping up the total dividend payment from 40 to 56 per cent with the payment of a final of 32 per cent.

The directors emphasize that of the increase, 165,000 pounds ($462,000) of net income from royalties is attributable to Lenmac Enterprises Ltd., which owns rights over songs composed by John Lennon and Paul McCartney, and was acquired by the company earlier this year.

Shareholders have already been told that profits from Lenmac will be "substantially less" in future.

Former Mine Officer Wins Injunction

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edward Dobell, former secretary-treasurer of Cowichan Copper Co., won a Supreme Court order preventing the sale of 450,000 of the company's treasury shares to anyone but himself.

The injunction, granted by Mr. Justice Peter Seaton, against the company and its president Osgood MacDonald, is good until the trial of Mr. Dobell's action for damages for breach of contract.

Mr. Dobell claims breach of an agreement he entered into with Mr. MacDonald to lend the company $100,000.

He said he put up $90,000 and Mr. MacDonald advanced the other $10,000. The money was secured by a company debenture with the privilege of converting it to shares at 20 cents each.

Court was told a dispute arose between the two men following the agreement and a proxy battle ensued in which Mr. Dobell was ousted as a director at the company's annual meeting in April.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Seaton said Mr. Dobell exercised his conversion privilege but was unable to get his shares. He said that if Mr. Dobell had converted his shares before the annual meeting the results of director balloting would have been different.

JOB PRESSURE

Colleges Swell To Meet Demand

VANCOUVER (CP) — A continuing demand by business and industry for university-educated employees is inflating the size of universities, says the dean of commerce at the University of British Columbia.

Dean P. H. White said this inflated growth of universities occurs in spite of the businessman's interest to see that only students likely to benefit from a university education are admitted because of costs.

"The practical answer to the request of business for university-educated people is that the university should seek to provide graduates in such numbers as are necessary whose education is most likely to endure for a lifetime."

Dr. White told a Vancouver Board of Trade meeting that society has two views of a university's responsibility to provide trained people for business

One is that a university education is an end in itself and need bear little relevance to what the individual intends to do after graduation.

The other considers the university a farm club for the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

What many businessmen do not fully appriciate, he said, is the effects their hiring policies have on the size of universities — and consequently their cost.

In the long run "a public university will be obliged to accommodate about the number which society, including business, expects," he added.

Another question raised indirectly by business, he said, is that of continuing education.

"It is apparent that in the world in which we live the body of knowledge and professional skills are likely to be subject to fairly rapid obsolescence."

In the past this was met by continuing education offered by universities on a part-time basis for people at the beginning of a business or professional career.

This job, however, should be handled by technical and vocational schools, while universities should concern themselves with the continuing education of middle and senior management, he said.

At the Movies

With Norman Cribbens

THE BOBO
Peter Sellers
Royal Theatre

If you have enjoyed Peter Sellers as moon-rocketing clergyman, an international spy, a president, a general and a dotty old duchess, you will probably enjoy him as a singing matador in a bull ring.

The film, however, doesn't measure up to some of his previous efforts either in depth of humor or dramatic appeal. There are some highly diverting situations but overall the story is slight and the comedy rather superficial.

In sunny Barcelona, Sellers the matador hopes to get a booking in a theatre owned by Adolfo Celi. Near the theatre lives Brit Ekland, an exquisite beauty, who lives on the favors of a few men of means.

One of the luxuries she acquires is a convertible Maserati from auto dealer Ferdy Mayne, although it belongs to millionaire Rossano Brazzi who has waited many months for it.

Sellers is brushed off by the theatre owner, but persists in his efforts. Finally Celi agrees to give him a trial booking if he can conquer the beautiful Britt Ekland in three days.

Sellers poses as the emissary of a count who is anxious to meet the girl and is willing to pay handomely for the privilege. During the time they are together, she falls for Sellers and they spend a night under her roof.

However, when Celi asks for details of the conquest, Sellers is too much of a gentleman to give them and his theatre booking is cancelled accordingly.

At this point he achieves something of the wistfulness of Charlie Chaplin, the gallant tramp, and it is regrettable the rest of the film does not reach the depth of this particular episode.

The Bobo was produced by Elliott Kastner and Jerry Gershwin for Warner Brothers and directed by Robert Parrish. The screenplay by David Schwartz is based on his own play, The Bobo.

Firemen To Patrol

LAKE COWICHAN — Police will be joined by firemen for Halloween patrols, council learned this week.

The offer of four-man patrols helps solve a problem which has beset the area for years.

"Every year we have difficulty in finding men to help police with Halloween patrols," said village clerk William Chappell.

Death Ruled Accidental

COURTENAY — Death of Victoria sub-contractor Thomas D. Nunan was accidental and no blame should be attached to anyone, a coroner's jury here has ruled.

Mr. Nunan was working on a waterworks project at Comox Oct. 13 when he fell into a trench and an earth slide buried him.

The earth had been loosened by a heavy rainfall the previous night.

Hydro Sells Facilities In Alberta

B.C. Hydro has sold some recently-acquired installations in Alberta in order to avoid coming under federal regulation.

A B.C. cabinet order approved the sale, for an undisclosed sum, of 54.8 miles of transmission lines, a steam plant and a dozen substations inside the Alberta boundary to Calgary Power Ltd.

The facilities were part of the East Kootenay Power holdings which recently were purchased by the Crown corporation.

Resources Minister Ray Williston said the Alberta portion of the assets were sold quickly so that B.C. Hydro did not become classed as an extra-provincial company, making it subject to federal jurisdiction.

Man Remanded For Sentence

A North Surrey man on Wednesday was remanded for sentence Nov. 3 on 14 counts of false pretenses.

Andrew Toderian will also be tried on two similar charges at that time.

The accused pleaded guilty to four counts in Victoria, five in Burnaby, three from New Westminster, and two from West Vancouver.

In all these cases, Toderian admitted exchanging worthless cheques for cash last summer.

The two counts to which he has pleaded not guilty arose in Surrey.

$250,000 GIFT BY SVETLANA FOR HOSPITAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Svetlana Alliluyeva, daughter of the late Soviet premier Joseph Stalin, has donated $250,000 from the proceeds of her book to build and maintain a hospital in the village of Kalakankar, India.

It was the largest grant she has made from proceeds of her book, Twenty Letters to a Friend, discussing her childhood in Russia.

It comes just short of one year after the death of her Indian husband, Brajesh Singh, Oct. 31, 1966.

Sod-Turning For Eaton's New Warehouse

A start was made Wednesday on a new warehouse-distribution centre for all Eaton's store operations in the Greater Victoria area.

Completion of the 25,000 square-foot building, at a cost of more than $300,000, is expected to be during February.

Operating manager J. R. Noble, spokesman for the company, said the site at Royal Oak is exceptionally good because it commands the entire Saanich Peninsula area.

Eaton's officials, developer McLab Enterprises, and Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis took part in sod-turning on the property, which lies west of Patricia Bay Highway and West Saanich Road intersection.

Saanich hopes the area will become a light industrial park, centred by the new Eaton buildings' decorative concrete block and laminated beam architecture.

'Crashing' Day For Motorist

A man who was involved in two car accidents in one day and left the scene of the second, was fined a total of $180 in traffic court Wednesday.

Findlay Morrison, of 2861 Carlow Road, was fined $40 each on two counts of careless driving, and $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Morrison was the driver of a car involved in an accident near the intersection of Selwyn and the Trans-Canada Highway at 3:45 p.m. Aug. 15.

Six hours later, he was the driver of another car involved in an accident on Goldstream Road. He left the scene of the second accident.

Birds Poisoned

CORCORAN, Calif. (UPI) — Thousands of migratory birds stopping for food and rest in marshland south of here have died from an outbreak of botulism poisoning in the past several days. State Game Warden Jerry Perkins said Tuesday that up to 20,000 birds, mostly ducks, have died and another 50,000 are sick but alive.

Watercolor Gift to B.C. Wins Praise

Provincial archivist Willard Ireland Wednesday hailed a gift of 50 watercolors to the province.

The paintings were done by Henry Ogle Bell-Irving between 1883 and 1886, many of them depicting scenes along the Canadian Pacific Railway route through the mountains on which he worked as a construction engineer.

"This collection of watercolors, both in the artistic and historic sense, is one of the finest gifts to the provincial archives in recent years," Mr. Ireland said after receiving the paintings from Ian M. Bell-Irving of Vancouver.

POLISHING CHORE

Author Hampered By Lack of Time

By KATHRINE THOMAS

During his year at Oxford University as a Commonwealth visiting professor, University of Victoria's John Peter completed the rough draft of a third novel.

Now back home as acting head of the English department, he's having difficulty in finding time to polish the manuscript for publication.

Dr. Peter was nominated for the Commonwealth Fellowship by the department of English at Oxford on the basis of his many books and articles.

He is a well-known critical scholar whose published works include Complaint and Satire in Early English Literature and A Critique of Paradise Lost.

In 1964 his first novel, Along That Coast, received the Doubleday Canadian Prize Novel Award. Last year a second novel, Take Hands At Winter, was highly acclaimed.

As visiting professor he was associated with two different Colleges, Corpus Christi and Brasenose.

PETER
. . . third novel

Four Lectures

"There didn't seem to be a tremendous emphasis on getting work done," Dr. Peter says. "I had a really heavy teaching load — four lectures in one year. But of course I put a great deal of thought and time into them.

"I did ask whether I was expected to write a book. 'No,' they said, 'you're here to enjoy England.' But they did have a very enlightened attitude—they thought all English Literature professors ought to write novels."

Dr. Peter had written three chapters before he left Victoria. But the rest of the rough draft was written in 19 days—while his wife and children were vacationing in South Africa.

"I have never written harder. By the time I was finished I really needed a rest. It's unusually fast way of writing for me. But the publishers like it, so perhaps it's the best way.

Acting Head

As acting head, Dr. Peter's administrative duties have prevented him from completing the manuscript.

"The novel has to be shortened and sent to the publisher, but where I sit now I can't get at it. It's sort of frustrating. I'd dearly love to get back to it.

"It's an escape story—about secret police and smuggling suspects out of the country. It's a much faster moving book with a wider appeal for readers.

"So much comes up in administration—I don't get the leisure to work on it. I'm not interested in being an administrator—I don't think you can combine the two jobs."

But Dr. Peter does believe it is possible to combine writing and teaching.

"It is essential in a way. A novelist tends to withdraw from real life which can be very dangerous. It is important for him to keep in contact with ordinary life. Teaching gives you contact with people—very lively people too.

"I've often wondered what I'd do if I wrote a novel that hit the jackpot. No matter how wealthy I became, I would always keep one course at a university.

"I feel this is tremendously important. In teaching literature, you are dealing with the deepest feelings—discussing problems of great delicacy and importance. You get to know your students' psychic make-up and they yours."

Dr. Peter found the changes in England since he was a graduate student at Cambridge very depressing.

"I didn't find England swinging or mod. The general economic climate is a very sick one. It's a terribly crowded island—gas fumes everywhere. How lucky we are to live in Canada—a prosperous developing country on the upgrade."

Office Looter Caught

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP say they are close to breaking up a teen-age gang which has stolen thousands of dollars from civil servants. The thieves enter the buildings on or just after pay days, slip unnoticed into momentarily vacant offices and rifle purses and wallets. An RCMP spokesman said one youth already has admitted 80 such thefts.

Author Enters Race In Oak Bay

An election race was assured in Oak Bay today by the announced council candidacy of James Audain, long time resident and author.

Mr. Audain joins Jack Rhodes and Ian Horne in a contest for two seats vacated by Coun. F. W. Hawes and J. D. Watts.

Both resigned in mid-term to be candidates for the reeveship. One year remains in their elected terms.

Mr. Audain, of 333 King George Terrace, is the author of "My Borrowed Life" and "Alex Dunsmuir's Dilemma". He is a grandson of James Dunsmuir, B.C.'s 14th premier.

Mr. Audain is a director of the Alcoholism Foundation, a former civil defence official for the province and was long associated with youth work. In 1962 he was defeated as a Social Credit candidate for Parliament.

Three incumbents seek re-election to two-year terms on Oak Bay council, Councillors Frances Elford, W. J. Wade and Walter Dodsworth. They are at present unopposed.

Also unopposed is the re-election bid of Oak Bay school board representative, board chairman Peter Bunn.
